ALL SORTS OF ITEMS.

—Don't marry a blacksmith, because they all have hardened vices.

—It is idle to talk about the freedman—his dye is cast.

—Ladies in a ball room often look as if they needed a military order—dress.

—Did the man who laid in his coal before the winter set in, have a comfortable bed?

—A child was run over by a wagon three years old with pantalets on which never spoke afterwards.

—North Carolina is able to boast of two original Union men—Chang and Eng, the Siamese twins.

—One of the saddest descriptions one can give of a household is, that the master of it "generally goes out of an evening."

—A lady, playfully condemning the wearing of whiskers and moustaches, declared, "It is one of the fashions I invariably set my face against."

—The meanest reason for getting married that we have ever heard was from a man who said he wanted some one to part his back hair for him.

—In the report of a certain School Committee the following statement occurs: "We had a school house large enough to accomodate four hundred children four stories high."

—A smart young lawyer's clerk, hearing it stated by the lecturer that "man is merely a machine," remarked, "then I suppose an attorney may be said to be a suing machine."

—Among the curiosities lately placed in a museum is a musquito's bladder, containing the souls of twenty-four Government contractors and the fortunes of twelve editors. It is nearly half full.

—A young lady out West who lately collided with an ice-bound sidewalk, remarked, as she assumed a perpendicular position, "I'll have a man to hang on to before another winter."

—A woman said in a police court the other day that before marriage her husband pretended to be much struck with her, but now she was every day struck by him.

—An exchange, describing a celebration, says: "The procession was very fine and nearly two miles in length as was also the prayer of Dr. Perry the Chaplain."

—"Can you inform me," said a student to a bookseller, "whether I can find anywhere a biography of Pollock?" "Yes," said the bookseller, "I dare say you'll find it in the course of time."

—A good woman whose husband was ill, on being asked by the physician if she had any sugar of lead in the house, replied, no, but there was a plenty of sugar and a pig of lead, and the doctor could make some for himself.

—Rev. Mr. Stebbing having been hissed at a public meeting in San Francisco, turned upon his assailant with, "I hear a hiss; did ever a word of truth fall into the vortex of hell without sending up a hiss?"

—Thackeray tells of an Irish woman begging alms from him, who when she saw him put his hand in his pocket, cried out, "May the blessing of God follow you all your life," but, when he only pulled out his snuff box, immediately added, "and never overtake ye."

—A lawyer once pleaded with great ability the cause of his client. When he had done, his antagonist with a supercilious sneer said he did not understand a word the other said, who merely replied, "I believe it, for I was speaking law."

—The turkey burst its confinement while roasting, and the stuffing escaped, to the terror of the damsel left to watch it, who ran to call her mistress. "Ma'm," she screamed, "come down and see the turkey; 'tis brownin' nicely, but some of the consalements is bustin' out!"

—A Down East editor wants to know why editors are not pleased with donation visits as clergymen are, for editors, it is well known, are proverbial for their kindness of heart, work of benevolence, and excessively tender disposition to anybody and everybody who has an awfully dull axe to grind.

—It is related of a congressman, who made a speech in the House a few days ago, that he was so mad on finding it cut down to about a dozen lines in the telegraphic dispatches, that he wrote to the editor of a New York paper, enclosing a copy of his speech in the Globe, and inquiring whether he would not do him the justice and kindness the favor of publishing his "argument" entire. In reply, he received a note from the advertising clerk, informing him that his speech would make so many squares, which, at so much a square, would come to so much, actually, one thousand five hundred dollars. The M. C. thinks the editor is a wretch, and the press of the country awfully demoralized.

DEFINITIONS NOT IN WEBSTER.—Buss, to kiss; rebuss, to kiss again; pluribus, to kiss without regard to [illegible]; sillybus, to kiss the hand instead of the lips; blunderbuss, to kiss the wrong person; omnibuss, to kiss all the persons in the room; erebus, to kiss in the dark. Evidently the country girl who went down to the city recently had these definitions in her mind. A young gentleman was to escort her some distance through the town, and not wishing to walk, he remarked: "hold on, Mary, let's take a 'bus," but Mary blushing to the eyebrows, drew back, and with wounded modesty replied, "Oh George, not right here in the street [illegible]"

FROM THE LARGEST
MANUFACTURING CHEMISTS
IN THE WORLD.

I am acquainted with H. T. Helmbold; he occupied the drug store opposite my residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise.

WM. WEIGHTMAN,
(Firm of Powers & Weightman,)
Manufacturing Chemists,
Ninth and Brown Streets, Phila.

[From the Phila. Evening Bulletin, Mar. 10th.]

We are gratified to hear of the continued success, in New York, of our townsman, Mr. H. T. Helmbold, Druggist. His store, next to the Metropolitan Hotel, is 28 feet front, 250 feet deep, and five stories in height. It is certainly a grand establishment, and speaks favorably of the merit of his articles. He retains his Office and Laboratory in this city, which are also model establishments of their class.

The proprietor has been induced to make this statement from the fact that his remedies, although advertised, are

Genuine Preparations,

And knowing that the intelligent refrain from using anything pertaining to quackery, or the Patent Medicine order—most of which are prepared by self-styled Doctors, who are too ignorant to read a physician's simplest prescription, much less competant to prepare pharmaceutical preparations.

THESE PARTIES RESORT

to various means to effect sales, such as copying parts of advertisements of popular remedies, and finishing with certificates.

The science of Medicine stands SIMPLE, PURE, and MAJESTIC—having Fact for its Basis, Induction for its Pillar, Truth alone for its Capitol.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

Health is most important; and the afflicted should not use an advertised medicine, or any remedy, unless its contents or ingredients are known to others beside the manufacturer, or until they are satisfied of the qualifications of the party so offering.
