

NORTH AND SOUTH.

MADAME SOUTHERN.
No longer will I sit to hear
Such trash as this, my dear;
You are a wicked copperhead,
I see it plain enough, my dear.
However, if you don't submit,
There shall be no connection, warm,
Between us—nor you shall go out,
Nor yet come in the Union, warm.

MADAME SOUTHERN.
Go home and eat your Johnny-cake,
I baked beans and roasted ham, ma'am,
And pulled round your spurious wares,
Hats and wooden shoes, ma'am,
And do not make yourself a fool
By making such a din, ma'am;
For if I ever have been out,
Fray boy can I come in, ma'am.
Philadelphia Mercury.

Romance of the War—Thrilling Adventures of a Young and Beautiful Woman.

Among the many thrilling events of the late war (says the St. Louis Republican of the 7th), none can exceed the adventures of Mrs. Loreta De Camp, the subject of this sketch. Mrs. De Camp, whose maiden name was Roach, and is now in the West Indies in 1838, was born in about twenty-eight years of age. In any early period her parents moved to the United States and settled in the Parish of St. James, Louisiana. The current of her life ran smoothly on until the outbreak of the war for Southern independence, when, fired by enthusiasm in, as she thought, the cause of liberty, she donned the male attire, and was among the first to rush to arms. Raising a company of cavalry, and equipping it at her own expense, she proceeded to Virginia, and there served for eight months in the Potomac, under the command of the celebrated Colonel Drury, before her sex was discovered. She was then ordered home. Instead of obeying the order, she proceeded to Columbus, Kentucky, and was serving with General Polk at the evacuation of that place. She proceeded to Island No. 10, but not being satisfied with the manner in which affairs were conducted there, she left and went to Fort Pillow, where she was elected First Lieutenant in Captain Phillips' Company of Independent Tennessee Cavalry. With her company she proceeded to Corinth and reported to General A. S. Johnson. At the battle of Shiloh Captain Phillips fell mortally wounded, and the command devolved on her. While gallantly leading her company in a charge, she was twice wounded and carried from the field. After the retreat from Corinth she was taken to New Orleans for surgical treatment, and when the city fell into the Federal hands she was among those taken prisoner. After a confinement of several months she was paroled and soon after exchanged. Proceeding at once to Richmond, the disguised female soldier was commissioned First Lieutenant in the Adjutant General's department, and ordered to report to General Marcus J. Wright, commanding the district of Atlanta. Upon reporting, she was assigned to duty with the Provost Marshal, as chief of detectives and military consultation. Serving for several months in this capacity, she met Major De Camp, of the Third Arkansas Cavalry, to whom she was engaged to be married previous to the war. The ceremony was then performed at Atlanta, and from the dashing Lieutenant Roach she was transferred to the sober Mrs. Major De Camp. From this time her services ceased as an officer in the field, and she was engaged in secret service—sometimes in the Confederacy, again in England, and then in Canada. In 1864 she spent several months traveling in the United States, and even went as far as the Sioux country, in Minnesota. Her husband, who was taken prisoner in the Fall of 1863, while serving with his regiment in Georgia, and arduous siege she at length succeeded in getting him paroled in January, 1865, but he lived only eight days after his release from prison. Subsequent to the death of her husband (in January, 1865,) she proceeded to Columbus, Ohio, to watch over the interests of the Confederate prisoners at Camp Chase.

After the final collapse of the Confederacy, Mrs. De Camp remained in the North until January, when she returned to her home in Louisiana, but remaining there only a few days, she proceeded to Memphis, and purchased a stock of goods which were shipped on the ill-fated steamer Miami, which was blown up on the Arkansas in February. She was one of the two ladies who were saved, but with the sacrifice of all her baggage and goods. By an unfortunate oversight on the part of her merchant, her goods were not insured, and consequently she lost her all.

Mrs. De Camp is now in this city, and adjoining at the Southern Hotel. Many who served in the Confederate army will remember the dashing Lieutenant Roach, of whom so much was said in Mobile and Selma in 1863. Our space will not permit a full recital of her adventures.

A curious incident occurred yesterday in one of the restaurants of this city.

A rough, but shrewd-looking countryman seated himself at a table, and having inspected the bill of fare called for a piece of "Borony." The waiter, who was a black of more than ordinary intelligence, disappeared grinning, and returned in a moment with a slice of Cold Duck.—Philadelphia Age-Examiner.

Can a man possibly keep his feet dry when he has a creak in his boots?

Yes, if he wears the "Patent Dryer," a superior article in Drying Patent, dispensed entirely with Turpentine or Linseed Oil, for sale by R. A. BOUDO, Rockville, Md.

HELMHOLD'S BUCHU.

The Only Known Remedy For
DIABETES,
IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF
THE BLADDER, INFLAMMA-
TION OF THE KIDNEYS,
CATARRH OF THE
BLADDER, STRANGURY OR PAINFUL URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms.

Physicians and Others
PLEASE NOTICE.

I make no secret of ingredients. Helmholt's Buchu is composed of Buchu, Catechu, and Juniper Berries, selected with great care, prepared in exact and according to rules of PHARMACY AND CHEMISTRY.

A DIURETIC
That which acts upon the kidneys.

HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
Acts Gently.

FOR THE SATISFACTION OF ALL,
The Medical Properties contained in Helmholt's Buchu are as follows:

It is a diuretic, its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, its taste is bitter, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Catarrh of the Bladder and Prostatitis, Hematuria, Strangury, and Hematuria, and in the early stages of Diabetes. It has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Inflammation of the Bladder, and Dropsy.

SOLUBLE PACIFIC GUANO!

200 LBS. SOLUBLE PACIFIC GUANO contains 17 lbs. animal matter yielding 7 to 8 lbs. ammonia.

Also 80 to 90 lbs. earthy base Phosphate of Lime, 30 lbs of which are soluble phosphate. It combines all the advantages of the best brands of Super Phosphate, with those of Peruvian Guano.

By reason of its greater concentration, we recommend 20 per cent. less by weight to be used per acre, than of any fertilizer, costing the same per ton; and no more per acre than of those selling at 20 per cent. more per ton. Hence its economy.

This Guano weighs 65 lbs. per bushel, hence in applying 10 farmers may be governed by weight and not by bulk, for it is much lighter than the Super Phosphate. Every acre daily inspected.

Parties ordering from us, will SAVE both in FREIGHT and EXPENSES, and have what is most important, a GUARANTEE that all Fertilizers sold by them, are exactly as represented. [mar 14-17]

"Flour of Bone."
WE WILL GIVE A MONEY GUARANTEE of the purity of this article. It is pure unadulterated, unburnt bone, reduced to the fineness of flour, which adds 100 per cent. to its value. It is as quick and active as acid disintegrated bone, hence its value is greatly increased, because it contains neither acid nor water, which necessarily add weight and reduce the quantity of valuable elements.

We recommend 250 lbs. to be used in place of 300 lbs. Super Phosphate or disintegrated bone.
