Is there a man a whit the better For his riches and his gains? For his across and his palace— If his impost heart is callous, for man a whit the better?

And if a man's no whit the bette For his orders and his mines, For his purple and fine linen, For his vineyards and his vines, Why do thousands bend the knee, cringe in mean servility, If a mea's no whit the better?

le a man a whit the worse For a lowly dress of rags?
Though he owns so lordly rental,
If his heart is kind and gentle,
Is a man a bit the morse?

And if a man't no bit the worse For a pher and lowly stand, For an empty, even pocket, And a braway, working hand, Why de thousands pass him by With a cold and scornful eye, If a man's no whit the worse?
