

THE SENTINEL.

ROCKVILLE, MD.

Tuesday Morning — Nov. 14, 1872.

Entertainment.
The rates of land for unpaid Taxes, on account of income, Walker, have all been postponed until Tuesday the 18th Inst., at which time they will take place as advertised above, hours of 12, 1, 2 and 3 o'clock.

P.M.

The First Friend.

There is yet another Northern city—Portland—that has not been visited by the fire. We hope it may not. But it looks like Hutchinson—when a beautiful Southern city was in flames, Chicago, Boston and Portland reflected over the calamity. There was a word of sympathy from Northern hearts when the houses were lighted up by the torches of Sherman; a cavalry in the Valley of Virginia. Strange that these disasters occurred on Sunday—the anniversary of the burning in the Valley. Is it a brighter side may give to the picture. Richmond sent relief to Chicago, and Raleigh, N.C., sends relief to Boston. In the hour of their calamity Southern hearts respond to the call for succor. But we do not say these disasters are retributive judgments—but the facts illustrations of that “cheatly which taketh no evil,” and which lends helping hand to those who are suffering, even to those who had been foes. This ought to be sufficient to satisfy all that the scruples, or the war are being forgotten, and that when the heavy hand of affliction falls upon the Northern people, Southern hearts afford all the relief in their power from the wreck of their ruined homes.

The taxes in Boston fall mainly upon the wealthy who are able to bear them. The suffering is confined to those who are thrown out of employment.

The New York Herald is very generous to Gen. Grant. His letter certainly, it takes up, to say that he is grieved of the discreditable character of the men who surround him; that he will dismiss them from his presence and confidence; that he will change his Cabinet to help his policy towards the South and foreign countries; is a word, cause to be himself? This says the Richmond “Daily” would be confusing if there were the least reason to suppose it probable.

Taxes in South Carolina.—A New York paper says: “A gentleman well known in the Southern part of this State—M. E. Harmon purchased a plantation in South Carolina, in the year 1853. In 1852 he paid taxes $400. In 1870 the taxes were $120. In 1871 the taxes were $340. For the year 1872 taxes to the amount of $1,000 were levied on the plantation, whereupon Mr. Harmon abandoned the property.”

Know-Nothing Rivalry.—The Whig writer adds: “A Know-Nothing banner was borne in the Republican processions here on Saturday last, inscribed in glaring capital letters—“American Shall Rule America.” The German and Irish citizens of Carroll (every country must not lose sight of this fact, as far as the old proprietors know) are shaming itself, and must be made to fit the new national opinion.

A Knew No Thing.—The negro under Fred Douglass are demanding a position in the Cabinet for one of their race. They say they are represented in the House of Representatives and in the Senate, and as by their vote Gen. Grant was re-elected, “my further their claims to favor should be recognized.” Post master General or Attorney General is the position spoken of. We leave the matter as we found it.

Electoral to Our Master.—We see it stated that Maj. A. M. Hancock intends to run for the election of Hon. Stevenson Archer, on the grounds that the names of certain persons were placed upon the registration after the period allowed by law. The names of these persons were registered in the state “district,” in Baltimore county, at the time allowed by law, but it is said, both of these persons voted for Maj. Hancock.

Incomes of Senators.—The cry has already gone forth for an increase of salaries of some of the high officials at Washington. That’s right, gentlemen—the people foot the bill. “Pile on the tax.” It’s the last point that breaks the back of the case.

Easton’s Trial.—“The trial of young Fowell, which has been in progress for over a week at Baltimore, for the murder of James F. Clark, charged with abducting and killing his father, and whom he shot dead while his helpers and defenders within the bars of a prison, has resulted in a verdict of not guilty.

Fallopian.—The Governor, on the recent nomination of the present and former State Attorneys of this county, the prosecuting witness, and a large number of highly respected citizens, has purchased Gains Wood, colored, who was convicted in this country, at the March term of the Court, 1870, of larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for four years.

Brown Up.—A negro in this county who had an old horse that had taken the prevailing distemper, went into his stable, one day last week, and made a smoke out of feathers, etc., for the benefit of his horse. He then left the stable and horse and smoke, and went home having nothing to take care of themselves. There was no one in the evening, his horse and master were not to be seen. That horse was cured.

Our Hero.—John Randolph once said that “logic of facts” abundantly show—were all created different, as the temperature of the earth rendered its several portions habitable, had suited to their respective nature, each in all our peculiar contrivances of existence, fundamentally different, not only in their mental and moral capacities, but in the physical and material contrivances also, and designed by the Creator to fill such different spheres. In ‘14, as best suited the productions and necessities of their respective modes of existence.

Gen. Custer.—At one time the commander of the Army of the Potomac, died in battle, etc., on Wednesday in the month of Oct. He was born in Ohio, and was a man of heroic parts, and was about 45 years old. Horatio Greeley has written a full review of his paper, the “New-York Tribune,” paper a now and will hereafter be an independent journal.

The following communication, as will appear from its date, was sent us for publication several weeks previous to the late election; but for obvious reasons, its insertion was deferred until now:

“URBANA, P. O., Oct. 6, 1872.

Mr. Editor,—As the column of the Sentinel does not appear to have been particularly overburdened with any great amount of very interesting reader matter of late, I propose, with your consent, to call the attention of your more intelligent readers, to the agreeable portion of them especially, in a few rambling observations on a subject in which every white man, woman and child in the land should feel deeply concerned. In doing so, I would not wish to be considered as actuated by any spirit of controversy, either political or religious;—albeit, Paul said: “What! iniquity, But that gentleman, as he remembered, was then addressing himself to Timothy, and did not live in these times (or probably he would not have said that) nor was his remark intended for, nor is it applicable to the present era.

“But as it is, the fact is, the moral and political atmosphere around us, is, already, so overcharged with the foul and putrid stench of controversy and its consequences, it is enough of itself to deter me from entering into any such field, at present, even if I’m myself competent. But, rather, would I be most to the point, illustrations of that “cheatly which taketh no evil,” and which lends helping hand to those who are suffering, even to those who had been foes. This ought to be sufficient to satisfy all that the scruples, or the war are being forgotten, and that when the heavy hand of affliction falls upon the Northern people, Southern hearts afford all the relief in their power from the wreck of their ruined homes.

The taxes in Boston fall mainly upon the wealthy who are able to bear them. The suffering is confined to those who are thrown out of employment.

The New York Herald is very generous to Gen. Grant. His letter certainly, it takes up, to say that he is grieved of the discreditable character of the men who surround him; that he will dismiss them from his presence and confidence; that he will change his Cabinet to help his policy towards the South and foreign countries; is a word, cause to be himself? This says the Richmond “Daily” would be confusing if there were the least reason to suppose it probable.

Taxes in South Carolina.—A New York paper says: “A gentleman well known in the Southern part of this State—M. E. Harmon purchased a plantation in South Carolina, in the year 1853. In 1852 he paid taxes $400. In 1870 the taxes were $120. In 1871 the taxes were $340. For the year 1872 taxes to the amount of $1,000 were levied on the plantation, whereupon Mr. Harmon abandoned the property.”

Know-Nothing Rivalry.—The Whig writer adds: “A Know-Nothing banner was borne in the Republican processions here on Saturday last, inscribed in glaring capital letters—“American Shall Rule America.” The German and Irish citizens of Carroll (every country must not lose sight of this fact, as far as the old proprietors know) are shaming itself, and must be made to fit the new national opinion.

Electoral to Our Master.—We see it stated that Maj. A. M. Hancock intends to run for the election of Hon. Stevenson Archer, on the grounds that the names of certain persons were placed upon the registration after the period allowed by law. The names of these persons were registered in the state “district,” in Baltimore county, at the time allowed by law, but it is said, both of these persons voted for Maj. Hancock.

Incomes of Senators.—The cry has already gone forth for an increase of salaries of some of the high officials at Washington. That’s right, gentlemen—the people foot the bill. “Pile on the tax.” It’s the last point that breaks the back of the case.

Easton’s Trial.—“The trial of young Fowell, which has been in progress for over a week at Baltimore, for the murder of James F. Clark, charged with abducting and killing his father, and whom he shot dead while his helpers and defenders within the bars of a prison, has resulted in a verdict of not guilty.

Fallopian.—The Governor, on the recent nomination of the present and former State Attorneys of this county, the prosecuting witness, and a large number of highly respected citizens, has purchased Gains Wood, colored, who was convicted in this country, at the March term of the Court, 1870, of larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for four years.

Brown Up.—A negro in this county who had an old horse that had taken the prevailing distemper, went into his stable, one day last week, and made a smoke out of feathers, etc., for the benefit of his horse. He then left the stable and horse and smoke, and went home having nothing to take care of themselves. There was no one in the evening, his horse and master were not to be seen. That horse was cured.

Our Hero.—John Randolph once said that “logic of facts” abundantly show—were all created different, as the temperature of the earth rendered its several portions habitable, had suited to their respective nature, each in all our peculiar contrivances of existence, fundamentally different, not only in their mental and moral capacities, but in the physical and material contrivances also, and designed by the Creator to fill such different spheres. In ‘14, as best suited the productions and necessities of their respective modes of existence.

Gen. Custer.—At one time the commander of the Army of the Potomac, died in battle, etc., on Wednesday in the month of Oct. He was born in Ohio, and was a man of heroic parts, and was about 45 years old. Horatio Greeley has written a full review of his paper, the “New-York Tribune,” paper a now and will hereafter be an independent journal.

The following communication, as will appear from its date, was sent us for publication several weeks previous to the late election; but for obvious reasons, its insertion was deferred until now:

“URBANA, P. O., Oct. 6, 1872.

Mr. Editor,—As the column of the Sentinel does not appear to have been particularly overburdened with any great amount of very interesting reader matter of late, I propose, with your consent, to call the attention of your more intelligent readers, to the agreeable portion of them especially, in a few rambling observations on a subject in which every white man, woman and child in the land should feel deeply concerned. In doing so, I would not wish to be considered as actuated by any spirit of controversy, either political or religious;—albeit, Paul said: “What! iniquity, But that gentleman, as he remembered, was then addressing himself to Timothy, and did not live in these times (or probably he would not have said that) nor was his remark intended for, nor is it applicable to the present era.

“But as it is, the fact is, the moral and political atmosphere around us, is, already, so overcharged with the foul and putrid stench of controversy and its consequences, it is enough of itself to deter me from entering into any such field, at present, even if I’m myself competent. But, rather, would I be most to the point, illustrations of that “cheatly which taketh no evil,” and which lends helping hand to those who are suffering, even to those who had been foes. This ought to be sufficient to satisfy all that the scruples, or the war are being forgotten, and that when the heavy hand of affliction falls upon the Northern people, Southern hearts afford all the relief in their power from the wreck of their ruined homes.

The taxes in Boston fall mainly upon the wealthy who are able to bear them. The suffering is confined to those who are thrown out of employment.

The New York Herald is very generous to Gen. Grant. His letter certainly, it takes up, to say that he is grieved of the discreditable character of the men who surround him; that he will dismiss them from his presence and confidence; that he will change his Cabinet to help his policy towards the South and foreign countries; is a word, cause to be himself? This says the Richmond “Daily” would be confusing if there were the least reason to suppose it probable.

Taxes in South Carolina.—A New York paper says: “A gentleman well known in the Southern part of this State—M. E. Harmon purchased a plantation in South Carolina, in the year 1853. In 1852 he paid taxes $400. In 1870 the taxes were $120. In 1871 the taxes were $340. For the year 1872 taxes to the amount of $1,000 were levied on the plantation, whereupon Mr. Harmon abandoned the property.”

Know-Nothing Rivalry.—The Whig writer adds: “A Know-Nothing banner was borne in the Republican processions here on Saturday last, inscribed in glaring capital letters—“American Shall Rule America.” The German and Irish citizens of Carroll (every country must not lose sight of this fact, as far as the old proprietors know) are shaming itself, and must be made to fit the new national opinion.

Electoral to Our Master.—We see it stated that Maj. A. M. Hancock intends to run for the election of Hon. Stevenson Archer, on the grounds that the names of certain persons were placed upon the registration after the period allowed by law. The names of these persons were registered in the state “district,” in Baltimore county, at the time allowed by law, but it is said, both of these persons voted for Maj. Hancock.

Incomes of Senators.—The cry has already gone forth for an increase of salaries of some of the high officials at Washington. That’s right, gentlemen—the people foot the bill. “Pile on the tax.” It’s the last point that breaks the back of the case.

Easton’s Trial.—“The trial of young Fowell, which has been in progress for over a week at Baltimore, for the murder of James F. Clark, charged with abducting and killing his father, and whom he shot dead while his helpers and defenders within the bars of a prison, has resulted in a verdict of not guilty.

Fallopian.—The Governor, on the recent nomination of the present and former State Attorneys of this county, the prosecuting witness, and a large number of highly respected citizens, has purchased Gains Wood, colored, who was convicted in this country, at the March term of the Court, 1870, of larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for four years.

Brown Up.—A negro in this county who had an old horse that had taken the prevailing distemper, went into his stable, one day last week, and made a smoke out of feathers, etc., for the benefit of his horse. He then left the stable and horse and smoke, and went home having nothing to take care of themselves. There was no one in the evening, his horse and master were not to be seen. That horse was cured.

Our Hero.—John Randolph once said that “logic of facts” abundantly show—were all created different, as the temperature of the earth rendered its several portions habitable, had suited to their respective nature, each in all our peculiar contrivances of existence, fundamentally different, not only in their mental and moral capacities, but in the physical and material contrivances also, and designed by the Creator to fill such different spheres. In ‘14, as best suited the productions and necessities of their respective modes of existence.

Gen. Custer.—At one time the commander of the Army of the Potomac, died in battle, etc., on Wednesday in the month of Oct. He was born in Ohio, and was a man of heroic parts, and was about 45 years old. Horatio Greeley has written a full review of his paper, the “New-York Tribune,” paper a now and will hereafter be an independent journal.

The following communication, as will appear from its date, was sent us for publication several weeks previous to the late election; but for obvious reasons, its insertion was deferred until now:

“URBANA, P. O., Oct. 6, 1872.

Mr. Editor,—As the column of the Sentinel does not appear to have been particularly overburdened with any great amount of very interesting reader matter of late, I propose, with your consent, to call the attention of your more intelligent readers, to the agreeable portion of them especially, in a few rambling observations on a subject in which every white man, woman and child in the land should feel deeply concerned. In doing so, I would not wish to be considered as actuated by any spirit of controversy, either political or religious;—albeit, Paul said: “What! iniquity, But that gentleman, as he remembered, was then addressing himself to Timothy, and did not live in these times (or probably he would not have said that) nor was his remark intended for, nor is it applicable to the present era.

“But as it is, the fact is, the moral and political atmosphere around us, is, already, so overcharged with the foul and putrid stench of controversy and its consequences, it is enough of itself to deter me from entering into any such field, at present, even if I’m myself competent. But, rather, would I be most to the point, illustrations of that “cheatly which taketh no evil,” and which lends helping hand to those who are suffering, even to those who had been foes. This ought to be sufficient to satisfy all that the scruples, or the war are being forgotten, and that when the heavy hand of affliction falls upon the Northern people, Southern hearts afford all the relief in their power from the wreck of their ruined homes.

The taxes in Boston fall mainly upon the wealthy who are able to bear them. The suffering is confined to those who are thrown out of employment.

The New York Herald is very generous to Gen. Grant. His letter certainly, it takes up, to say that he is grieved of the discreditable character of the men who surround him; that he will dismiss them from his presence and confidence; that he will change his Cabinet to help his policy towards the South and foreign countries; is a word, cause to be himself? This says the Richmond “Daily” would be confusing if there were the least reason to suppose it probable.

Taxes in South Carolina.—A New York paper says: “A gentleman well known in the Southern part of this State—M. E. Harmon purchased a plantation in South Carolina, in the year 1853. In 1852 he paid taxes $400. In 1870 the taxes were $120. In 1871 the taxes were $340. For the year 1872 taxes to the amount of $1,000 were levied on the plantation, whereupon Mr. Harmon abandoned the property.”

Know-Nothing Rivalry.—The Whig writer adds: “A Know-Nothing banner was borne in the Republican processions here on Saturday last, inscribed in glaring capital letters—“American Shall Rule America.” The German and Irish citizens of Carroll (every country must not lose sight of this fact, as far as the old proprietors know) are shaming itself, and must be made to fit the new national opinion.

Electoral to Our Master.—We see it stated that Maj. A. M. Hancock intends to run for the election of Hon. Stevenson Archer, on the grounds that the names of certain persons were placed upon the registration after the period allowed by law. The names of these persons were registered in the state “district,” in Baltimore county, at the time allowed by law, but it is said, both of these persons voted for Maj. Hancock.

Incomes of Senators.—The cry has already gone forth for an increase of salaries of some of the high officials at Washington. That’s right, gentlemen—the people foot the bill. “Pile on the tax.” It’s the last point that breaks the back of the case.

Easton’s Trial.—“The trial of young Fowell, which has been in progress for over a week at Baltimore, for the murder of James F. Clark, charged with abducting and killing his father, and whom he shot dead while his helpers and defenders within the bars of a prison, has resulted in a verdict of not guilty.

Fallopian.—The Governor, on the recent nomination of the present and former State Attorneys of this county, the prosecuting witness, and a large number of highly respected citizens, has purchased Gains Wood, colored, who was convicted in this country, at the March term of the Court, 1870, of larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for four years.

Brown Up.—A negro in this county who had an old horse that had taken the prevailing distemper, went into his stable, one day last week, and made a smoke out of feathers, etc., for the benefit of his horse. He then left the stable and horse and smoke, and went home having nothing to take care of themselves. There was no one in the evening, his horse and master were not to be seen. That horse was cured.

Our Hero.—John Randolph once said that “logic of facts” abundantly show—were all created different, as the temperature of the earth rendered its several portions habitable, had suited to their respective nature, each in all our peculiar contrivances of existence, fundamentally different, not only in their mental and moral capacities, but in the physical and material contrivances also, and designed by the Creator to fill such different spheres. In ‘14, as best suited the productions and necessities of their respective modes of existence.

Gen. Custer.—At one time the commander of the Army of the Potomac, died in battle, etc., on Wednesday in the month of Oct. He was born in Ohio, and was a man of heroic parts, and was about 45 years old. Horatio Greeley has written a full review of his paper, the “New-York Tribune,” paper a now and will hereafter be an independent journal.

The following communication, as will appear from its date, was sent us for publication several weeks previous to the late election; but for obvious reasons, its insertion was deferred until now:

“URBANA, P. O., Oct. 6,