broken out among the fowl creation as follows:

Up the Hudson, and from the highlands and lowlands of this river bock to the Susquehanna, and how much further we know not, a terrible disease has broken out among the poultry. Chickens are drigg from it by the hundreds, and durks, gaves and turkeys in the market are said to betray evidence of the same malady. It appears to resemble the epizody; the fowl affected has a running at the nose. But, in addition to this symptom of externic, the victim becomes dizzy, its head swells and it soon dies of creatropinal meniopities. From the latest information on the subject it appears that this disease is really assuming the form of a destructive pestilence among our domestic fowls. Should this pestilence continue to spread as rapidly as it has been derveloped, we can only hope that at least our beef, pork and can only hope that at least our beef, pomutton will be spared for Thankegivin
