This Day Published,

By SAMUEL BUTLER, At the corner of Market and Charles-streets, Price 1 dollar, neatly bound and lettered, Ferdinand & Elmira. Filited from the original manuscript of an American lady, author of 'Dorval,' 'Julia and the Baron,' and 'Amelia.' The writer of this instructive and amusing work, has hitherto published the effusions of her pen in New England, and there (where the flights of fancy, as it is called by the friends of the north, are not received with that friendly welcome which they experience in the more genial climate of the south and middle states) command that applause, which genius and fancy never fail of producing on those liberal and candid minds who will take the trouble to discriminate between the ordinary day-labor of the common English novelist, who works for a living the same as any other mechanic, and has no other end in view than to bring forth a fashionable piece of goods, that will serve the moment and remunerate himself; and the lady of refined sentiment and correct taste, who writes for the amusement of herself, her friends and the public. It contains upwards of three hundred pages, is well printed on a new type and fine paper. Also, just published as above, INTERESTING ANECDOTES OF THE HEROIC CONDUCT OF WOMEN, previous to, and during the French revolution: translated from the French of M. Du Broca, and other modern writers of authenticity. When it is considered that this work records some of the most shining virtues of human nature, such as consistency, firmness, courage, affection, tenderness, love and patriotism, as well as superior good sense and judgment, which have been exhibited by females, and news that the fair sex, when exigency requires, are by no means inferior in these virtues, and in several of them superior to what in like cases would be expected from the boasted lords of the creation—it is reasonable to expect, that almost every lady of information will be happy in purchasing a book so well calculated to defend the cause of beauty, when attacked by petulance or arrogance. The present edition is enlarged by additional anecdotes of about one-third more than the London translation of Du Broca's Anecdotes, and is printed on a fine cream colored paper, and sells at only one half the price of the London copy. In the press, and with all convenient speed will be published, the second vol. of the Baltimore Musical Miscellany, consisting of new and approved songs set to music. August 7

Dancing Academy. L. D. Du Coudray HAS the honor of informing the ladies and gentlemen of this city that he will open his Dancing Academy on Monday the 1st of October, in the three story brick house, corner of Calvert and Bank-streets. The days and hours of tuition are as follow, on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays, viz: For gentlemen, from 10 till 1 o'clock in the morning; for younger persons, of both sexes, from 4 till half past 6 in the evening; for grown gentlemen, from half past 6 o'clock till 9. With a most complete selection of the hand-some Cotillions, and a great variety of the newest steps, many of which have never been taught in this city. Mr. D. will also teach (to those persons who may have a wish to perfect their elms in that branch of polite education) the Minuet de la Cour, together with the beautiful Gavotte, both of which are so well calculated to display in a young person all the ease, the grace and the elegance of Dancing. Mr. D. explains and easy method of teaching, as well as his indefatigable attention towards his pupils, being sufficiently acknowledged, he begs leave to dispense with saying any further on that head.—And again, as preserving carefully the parents' confidence, and deserving with a laudable ambition, the honorable patronage of a great club public, should be the most important object of every rational teacher; he thinks it also peculiarly useless to add to his most respectful advertisement, vain and empty, though customary, promises. His terms are those of the most respectable teachers in the city—but on complying with the reasonable requests, and well grounded expectations of men—understanding to become his pupils, Mr. D. will charge no ENTRANCE MONEY to such as may already have been taught by any master in the city where he holds a similar office. A few ladies may be attended at their own houses, if time leave application should be made. For further particulars, apply to Mr. D. at Mrs. Kim's, corner of Calvert and Water-streets. According to new arrangements his School on Fell's Point, will not open until Tuesday the 2d of October, at 5 o'clock, in the afternoon, and it will be kept every other day. September 25
