From the Political Register.

To the Marquis de Casa Yrujo.

TO your acknowledged attempt to corrupt my fidelity as a citizen, by engaging my services to support the reasonings of a foreign minister, von have dared to add the atrocity of impeaching the truth of my declaration, which had been made under the sacred bligations of an oath.

In the un'ure of your employment, and the paucity of your means, you might have found an excuse, as well as a mitive, for the former part of y ur conduct; in the morti cati n of your fadure enly, can even the shadow of a cause be traced for this last deporture from all that is honorable, just, and true.

The guarantee of the nation will protect your person; but, as that guarentre connot in this country, be extended, by any construction, to invest a f reign minister with the privilege of filsely charging a citizin of the U States with perjury, and of promulgating that charge through the medium of a news-paper, neither your office, nor all the senctions of diplom 1cy shall restrain my refutation of the deliberate falshood, nor prevent the refutation being made through the same channel.

In your belief that "political intolerance" had prepared me to receive with "less reluctance" the communication of your proposais, you may have exhibited a correct view of your own mind, however grossly you were deceived in the analogy which it suggested.

The circumstances of that communication were firthfully and correctly detailed in my deposition, and, on a careful review of that statement, I solemniy assert that every part of the deposition is true. I shall therefore leave you to enjoy the honor and the benefit of the evasions and contradictions which you have attempted. By those contradictions you have endeavored to invalidate the disinterested oath of a man, who in the relations of private character, would deem him self degraded by a comparison with the Marquis de Casa Yrujo. - A man, Sir, who holds testimonials of personal worth, and public service, from different chief magistrates of his notion, which will obtain equal consideration with your boasted nubility, for they are certainly quite as honorable, and even of more ancient date than the title you bear.

You doubtless presumed that you had only to contradict " the Editor of a news " paper, whose sheets" (notwithstanding you had selected them to diffuse your elucidations!) " are scarcely to be seen a-" cross the waters of Schuylkill and " the Delaware, who is without a place " in the government, and without per " sonal muluence," effectually to dissipate all that he had stated under the obligations of his oath. In this presumption, however, you have only betrayed " a wicked heart and a miserable head." -Where we are buth known, it is not, I hope, an undue assump ion to suppost: | Major Jackson.

that I should obtain equal credence with Mr. Yrujo, abstracted from the sanctions of my oath On the present occasion your malignie. ty has forced me to a course of proceeding, in the vindication of my truth, of which, under all the "political intolerance"you have mentioned, I had heretofore scorned to avail myssile lly the nature of your infamous imputation, I am compelled, for the information of those to whom I may be unknown, to exhibit such decuments as, in connexion with the tacks I have stated, may cotablish my claims to belief against the contradictions, with which you have unblushingly dated to attack me.

When my fellow citizens of the United States, and the people of other countries, shall have examined these vouchwhich has been thus extorted from me; when they have reflected that on the part of Major Jackson there could not have existed a single motive for mistatement or departure from truth in framing his deposition; when they shall likesubject.

Yes, sir, I even persuade myself that your ewn nation, thus informed, will pronounce that you have prostrated the leasy and happy, and that you may final dignity of your effice, and violated moral | ly smar, in universing bliss, is the prayobligation.

Your idle threat of " demanding the " punishment of said Jackson from the ! Major Jackson " government" I laugh to scorn, and i consign to its merited contempt.

It is not in this country that a citizen can be punished for obeying the laws by disclosing the designs of a foreign minister-Not is it within the controll of any government to prevent a citizen of ! the United States from repelling such a charge as you have brought against me -nor of giving his refutation of the calumny through the same medium, with that you have chosen for its promu gation, a public news paper; could any other doctrine prevail, our citizens would indeed become the miserable vassals of these "distinguished slaves," about whom you have praced.

W. JACKSON. Philadelphia, OA. 9, 1804.

From the letters, with which I was honored by General Washington, I have selected the two, which are subjoined, on account of their dates, and the subjects to which they relate.

The first was received on the expiration of my military service, which, at the age of twenty four had embraced the period of the American Ware

The second was received when I was leaving the family of General Washington, (then President of the United States) to enter on the practice of the

It was my pride and my happiness to preserve the friendship of that exalted man to the close of his illustrious life.

Princeton, Nov. 1, 1783.

Dear Sir, Your letter reached me yesterday, and informed me of your intention to embark next week for Europe.

Wishing, from the esteem I entertain for your character, to render you every service in my power, I could not avoid troubling you with the two inclosed letters-though your acquaintance in France made it almost unnecessary.

You will please to accept my thanks for your obliging offer-and my wishes for your safe, pleasant and prosperous voyage.

With great esteem, I am dear sir, Your most obedient servant, G. WASHINGTON. Major Jackson.

Philadelphia, December 26th, 1791. Dear Sir,

At the same time that I acknowledge the receipt of your letter, notifying me of your intention to enter upon a professional pursuit-and, during the ensuing term propose yourself for admittance as a Practitioner of law in the Supreme court of the State of Pennsylvania, I beg you to be persuaded that my best wishet will accompany you in that or in any other walk into which your interest or inclination may lead you.

. That your determination is the result of the best view you have of your circumsunces and expectations, I take for grant ed, and therefore shall say, nothing, which might embarrass the decision; but with pleasure equal to the justice of it shall declare to you, that your deportment has been regulated by principles of integrity and honor, and that the duties of your station have been executed with ability; and I embrace the occasion your address has afforded me, to thank you for all your attentions, and for the services which you have rendered me since you have been a member of my family.

Let your departure from it be made perfectly convenient to yourself-and believe me to be with sincere exteem and

Dear Sir, Your affectionate and obliged servant, G. WASHINGTON.

B. LINCOLN.

The following is one of several letters which were written by Mr. Jefferson to introduce me to the American Ministers in Europe - Not having visited Spain this letter was not denve ed to its address. It was transmitted to Mr. Jefferson, and returned by him to mu, since he has been President of the United States.

Philadelphia, June 1, 1793. DEAR SIR,

The bearer hereoft. Major Jackson formerly of the army, and afterwords of the President's lamily. Supposing it possible he may see you at Madrid, I with pleasure make him known to you. as a gentleman of information, talents & worth. He meri's well any a tentions you can show him, and I also will be thankful for them, should he, from the circumstances of the times, need your official interference, I am soure ha, as one among our best cinzens, he will have the benefit if them. I am with sincere & constant at achment, Dear Sir,

Your affectionate friend, TH: JEFFERSON.

Mr. Short, Minister Resident of the Unite! States of America at the Hague and one of their Commissioners Plenipotentiaries now at Madrid.

Were it necessary to multiply these proofs, they could be drawn from my correspondence with the most respettable men of our country, among whom I may neve be permitted to introduce the name of General Pinckney, under whose command, and in whose regiment I served as a Subaltern and captain in the first years of the revolution-war. It was then my pride to emulate the noble example, as it has been my happiness, for almost thirty years, to preserve the esteem and affection of this distinguished statesman and soldier. No impartial, un honet man can fer a moment believe that a character thus acquired and maintained, could have been departed from by the smallest mistatement of a most conjemptible communia cation, in which the pass in making the representation hid not even tire shadow of an interest for perverting the truth.

Enough I trust has now been stated to repel the scandalous aspersion. More would be unnecessary, and thus much was required to vindicate the integrity of an honest fame. W. JACKSON.

WASHING YON, October 10. It is with great pain we state that the muil of yesterday from New Orleans brought the intelligence of the death of guvernor Claiborne. Died, at New Orleans, on the 29th of August, Hore Browse Trist, collector of Advices from commodore Preble of May 15th state, that he had precured from the king of Naples the gun boats for aiding his operations against Tripoll, and that he had proceeded to Messins, where they lay, for the purpose of equipping them. Information received by us since the date of our lest paper confirms the news of the arrival of the John Adams at Gibraltar. The capinin of that frigate was instructed to sail wi hout delay für Malta, in case no apprehension was entertained of the hostility of Tunis or the other Barbary powers. Having intisfied himself on this point, he accordingly sailed from Gibreliar on the 25th.

Dispatches from Spain, by Mr. Dalton, have been received at the office of the secretary of state. The contents of these dispatches if we are correctly informed, are important, but their nature or tendency, we know not. From certain circumstances we are however inducted to conjecture that they are of a pacin aspect.
