

On Tuesday the 2d October, his Excellency William C. C. Claiborne Governor of the Territory of Orleans took the oaths of office, which were administered in the Hall of the Municipality by James Pitot, esq. Mayor of this city, in presence of the officers civil and military, the Clergy and of a large concourse of respectable Citizens: Previous to taking the oaths, the Governor delivered the following address, which was read in French by Mr. Derbigny.

FELLOW CITIZENS:
The President of the United States having been pleased to appoint me Governor of that part of Louisiana, which is constituted "The Territory of Orleans," I have attended in this Hall, Fellow Citizens, to take in your presence the Oaths of Office required by Law.

In this additional and distinguished proof of confidence from the Chief Magistrate of our common country, I find the strongest inducements to merit by my conduct, a continuance of his approbation; to deserve yours also, Fellow Citizens, is my sincere desire, and shall be the foremost object of my cares.

All the felicity which a recent domestic calamity has left for me to seek or enjoy, is in contributing to the happiness of those over whom I am called to preside.—The importance of the trust committed, and the high responsibility attached thereto, are forcibly impressed upon my mind, and I have excited the most anxious solicitude.—In entering however, upon my arduous duties, I anticipate with pleasure the powerful aid which I shall receive from the Judicial and Legislative Authorities, and the kind indulgence and support which a generous people always extend to the honest efforts of a public Officer.—Past events fellow citizens guarantee the fulfillment of these expectations.—In the course of my late Administration, which from a variety of circumstances was accompanied with particular difficulties, I received from the Officers, Civil and Military, a zealous and able co-operation in all measures for the public good, and from the People in general an indulgence and support which encouraged harmony, and insured the supremacy of the Law.—

I am now ready to take and subscribe the Oaths of Office required.—And I pray Almighty God to visit with his favor the Magistrates and Legislators of this Territory; to enable them to preserve to their Citizens and their posterity, the blessings of Peace, Liberty, Laws; and thus to avert those evils which a wise Providence has annexed in this world to the condition of man.

WILLIAM C. C. CLAIBORNE,
New Orleans

The following extracts are made from a letter received within a few days by a gentleman in this city from an Irish gentleman in London—
"The papers will have informed you that Bonaparte has been declared emperor of the French, and that Mr. Pitt and his satellites have resumed the government of this country, that an hourly expectation is entertained of the long threatened invasion, and that all the sources which our prime minister can draw from Heaven, earth and Hell are in operation to drag the powers of the continent once more into a struggle with France, to repel upon the throne of that country the shattered remnant of the Bourbons, for whose overthrow Heaven had been invoked, earth ransacked, and Hell impetrate for the last century at least.

"We are told here, that Russia will join with a formidable force to restore peace & security to Europe," this I suppose will be the parole instead of "a just and necessary war."

But whether the emperor of the Guis (as he has been pleasantly and not unaptly called) will now be indifferent to Malta as the key to Egypt, or whether having reached the apex of the pyramids which he has been raising, and crowned all his trophies with the mantle of the Bourbons, and the diadem of Charlemagne, he may be disposed to rest from his military heroicks and shake a peaceable paw with his brother monarchs, the next spring must arrive before we are like to say how things will proceed. Irish affairs do not promise to be much better by the return of Mr. Pitt to power, notwithstanding the professed cause of his former resignation—for Lord Redesdale continues chancellor, and Lord Camden, Neddy Cooke, Melville (alias Du-dar) and Rose, from part of the quens German legion, more inimical to the Catholics than even the king. I have seen this day a man of understanding and intelligence whom you know, who has just returned from a six months tour through the north of Ireland, of which he gives a high full picture of division and distress—what then must be the condition of the southern part. Division distraction and discontent follow upon the heels of oppression and ruin, which all appear but the necessary consequences of that all "sparing measure the union," which raised the sale of exchange against Ireland from the established rate (or to speak Irish the par of 8 1/2) to 20 percent, which has now continued more than seven months; and has completely banished out of circulation, even in Dublin every thing in the form of cash except the vilest bad shillings and the basest raps which his lordship a great majority of the shopkeepers rather to close their doors against their customers than accept such coin— which has more than tripled the Irish absentees, and brought them to this country;—which has reduced the flourishing printing business to beggary, and converted the few book-sellers that remain there into mere agents for London publishers.

"This country upon a contrast with that certainly appears better, but taxed as you know every thing is to the teeth here—and every article of the necessaries of life raised to extent avagance, the opulent alone may be said to live—and the industrious to struggle for subsistence, how the rest get on you may judge. The middle classes of people in business disappear daily, and the capitalists and extravagants seem to know fortune!—Men with no stock but industry must become abject, for all ideas of independence are lost when the belly is vacated—and those who have numerous families are all looking to America as the land of promise, where the dearest ties of life are not the causes of aggravated distress. This great city is not the place for a stranger—need it is a lottery in which an odd individual may in an age draw a prize and go forward, but where the number of adventurers are so great that they are continually jostling each other, and fortuitous circumstances often do more than merit can accomplish by industry or talent—for bankruptcy and obscurity are too often the fate of both. In fact here the people are feeding upon each other—in a "m-use in every hole"—every project—every business is overdone. Indeed under the present order of things I can see nothing but ruin even to this country, and new scenes of misery and destruction though Europe."

Extract of a letter from Volney's View of the United States, lately published.

"The world would be astonished were it known, that the anxiety of Mr. John Adams, at the very time when the great Washington bestowed on him the testimonies of esteem and confidence had no other motive than the racor of the author on account of my opinions concerning his book in defence of the constitution of the United States. As a man of letters, and as a foreigner, frequently interrogated in a country of perfect freedom, had had occasion to give my opinion, at a time when their author did not yet occupy the first position in the state. Unfortunately I had adhered to the opinion of one of the best English reviewers, who, treating the book as a compilation without method, and void of accuracy either in facts or ideas, added, that he should even believe it to be deivative of an object if he did not suspect a secret one, relating to the country for which it was an apology, and which time alone would unveil.— Now as I interpreted my author, I advanced, that this object was to court popular favor, and the suffrages of the electors, by a national flattery.—When the prophecy was verified by the event, the prophet was not forgotten."—Preface page 7.

Certain federalists have attempted, among people unacquainted with the true state of facts, to ridicule Mr. Jefferson, for his conduct, when governor of Virginia, in retreating before the British troops into the interior of the country near Carter's Mountain. But those who do not know the particulars of the war in Virginia, need only be informed of one indubitable fact, that, at the close of Gov. Jefferson's constitutional term, the legislature of that state, knowing all the circumstances of that and other instances of his official conduct, and consisting of his political friends and opponents gave him the testimony of an unanimous vote of approbation and thanks for his conduct in the office of governor.

[American Mercury.]

A zealous federal Clergyman, not long since, prayed before a large congregation, that the people of this country might be blessed with a Double portion of Adam's administration.—"By this," said a grave, pious, old gentleman, "I suppose our parson means, that we should have two standing armies, and two land taxes."

Married at Snowhill, on Tuesday evening the 30th ult. by the Revd. Mr. Ball, Dr. Cosmo Gordon Stevenson, of this city, to Miss Harriet Gore Handy, daughter of Col. Samuel Handy.
