Glorious Display of AMERICAN VALOR

PHILADELPHIA, December 3. Interesting Information

From our Squadron off Tripoli. COMMUNICATED By an officer on board the Siren to a Gentleman of Philadelphia.

"SIREN. off TRIPOLI, Aug. 1, 1804. "On the sixteenth uit. we attempted to bring off, with our boats under the command of Lieutenant, Caldwell and Air. Dorsey, a small vessel, but did not succeed, for the collection of troops brought down for her detence was so numerous that my boas adto retire with the loss of one man killed and three severe y wounded; the loss of the enemy was considerablewe have been informed by a Maltele captain (whom the Commodore sent into Tripeli with clouthing, &c. for the prifoners) that they had one hundred and fifty killed and wounded.

. Commodore Preble arrived here on the twenty-third ult. with the remainder of his force, but, on account of the weather, he could attempt nothing until the twenty fourth, when we anchored in a line before Tripeli, about three miles from the batteries, where we had not been two hours before we were obliged to get under way on account of the wind blowing so fresh on shore; but he wind has this day moderated, and we will again be enabled to take our station before their betteries.

'The Tripoli aus are much distressed at present-their crops have failed, and the vigilance of the blockading squadron has prevented their getting supplies from abroad. They have been fortify ng them. felves at every point have removed every thing valuable from the town, and have made, and are still making, great exertions for its defence."

46 Siren off Tripcli, August 9 The scene of combat commenced on the third insiant, when the weather became favourable for our operations; accordingly, at two o'clock P. M. the fignal was made to prepare for battle. At three o'clock we got within gun flot of the batteries, and call off the gun boats and bomb ketches. They advanced in a line allead, led on by Captain Stephen Decatur, and covered by the Conflitution and the brigs and tchooners. The enemy had seventeen gun boats moored in a line in front of the batteries, and a brig of fixteen and a tchooner of ten guns to aid and cover their boats. The moments viere anxious as we advanced - a difebarge of shells from the bomb boats induced the enemy to open their fire, which was heavy and incessant, yet our brave fellows advanced with all possible intrepidity through a flower of grape flot. When cur gun boats got within twenty yards of the epemy they discharged their great guns loaded with forty pounds of musket balls, which w. s immediately followed by a volley of musicetry. This obliged five of the gun boats, composing the enemy's right wing, to cut their cables and retreat ;-our boats then bore up for those to leeward- aptain Decatur boarded and carried the first boat-Lieutenant Trip boarded and carried the second, and Lieutenant James Decatur in the act of carrying the third, was killed. Captain Decatur continued down their line and car ried the third-all of which were safely brought off. The attack continued an hour and a half.

The lurks were driven out off fort Francais, and must have suffered much from our fire into the town as well as into their batteries. The reason of the enemy's hre doing us so little damage was on account of its being so badly directed. The three gun boats taken are excellenttwo of them carry a twenty-fix pounder each. of Lrais, and the third an eighteen pounder. Lieuten int I rip, who carried the lecondaboat received eleven fabre wounds, but none of them dangerous, and be is skely to do well.

On the fifth we had the captured boats rigged, and should have returned to the attack, but a finall French privateer, finding her birth too warm in the harbour, came one; by her we learned that the enemy liad one boat funk-another lost two thirds of her crew, and all the rest were very much shattered; they also informed us, that the enemy were employed all night repairing their daniages. I he platforms of treir batteries wire torn up, and our unfortunate countrymen were employed to repair them. The Commodore sent the privateer back with the wounded, and the next day lie returned with a letter from the French Conful, bearing flrong marks of a pacific disposition. The Commodore Lowever determined to attack them again the next day to the wellward.

Accordingly on the feventh, at eight tho clock AI Mis the lignal was made to advanted in two lines, and attack the batteries. The florung was calm and warm, which prexented dur getting in betote
