ties and dignity of his judicial character, did, at a circuit court, for the district of Maryland, held at Baltimore, in the month of May, one thousand eight hundred and three, pervert his official right and duty to address the grand jury, then and there assembled, on the matters coming within the province of the said jury, for the purpose of delivering to the said grand jury an intemperate & inflammatory political harangue, with intent to excite the fears and resentment of the said grand jury, and of the good people of Maryland against their state government and constitution, a conduct highly censurable in any, but peculiarly indecent and unbecoming in a judge of the supreme court of the United States; and moreover that the said Samuel Chase, then and there, under pretence of exercising his judicial right to address the said grand jury, as aforesaid, did, in a manner highly unwarrantable, endeavor to excite the odium of the said grand jury, and of the good people of Maryland against the government of the United States, by delivering opinions, which, even if the judicial authority were competent to their expression, on a suitable occasion in a proper manner, were at that time and as delivered by him, highly indecent, extra-judicial and tending to prostitute the high judicial character with which he was invested to the low purpose of an electioneering partizan.

And the house of representatives, by protestation, saving to themselves the liberty of exhibiting, at any time hereafter, any further articles, or other accusation, or impeachment, against the said Samuel Chase, and also of replying to his answers which he shall make unto the said articles or any of them, and of offering proof to all and every the aforesaid articles, and to all and every other articles, impeachment, or accusation, which shall be exhibited by them, as the case shall require do demand that the said Samuel Chase may be put to answer the said crimes and misdemeanors, and that such proceedings examinations trials and judgements may be thereupon had and given as are agreeable to law and justice.

EBENEZER SEAVER, Esq.

It must be fresh in the recollection of our readers, that Mr. SEAVER, the member from Norfolk District in the Congress of the United States, was charged with having taken two days pay more than he was entitled to—and that the public prints devoted to barbarism in this town, reiterated the infamous calumny, even after that gentleman had condescended to notice it, by giving a fair statement of facts—The federalists who conduct the public prints at the south, have never appeared to us so totally depraved—so completely lost to every virtuous sentiment, as are those who conduct the Monarchical papers in the north:—The following extract from the 'Washington Federalist," is an instance in justification of our assertion. [Boston Democrat.

From the Washington Federalist of November 10.

Mr SEAVER—Some of the northern papers having produced a charge against this gentleman of having taken, near the close of the last session of congress, twelve dollars being the pay for two days attendance, when in fact he had left the seat of government we have taken some pains to satisfy ourselves on the subject by making enquiries of the Sergeant at arms and examining his accounts. By these it appears that on the 20th March a week previous to the close of the session, when it was expected that congress would rise on the next Monday, Mr. Wheaton settled with a great number of the members and paid them in full to the next Monday.—The Serjeant at Arms informs us that it is quite customary with him for mutual convenience, to settle with many members before the close of a session, and it not unfrequently happens that members, expecting to go away on a particular day, stay one or two days more than they had expected, or depart a day or two sooner. In such case the debit or credit remain till the succeeding session, when an adjustment takes place, or the money is returned at the time of departure. Mr Wheaton says that he very well remembers in the case of Mr. Seaver, that he (Mr. Seaver) informed him on the 20th that perhaps he should leave the city before the next Monday, and that he (Mr. Wheaton) told him should he do so he would stand indebted for the pay of the number of days he was absent, which would be adjusted the next session. Now what were the views or the expectations of Mr. Seaver, or what were his intentions of mentioning to Mr. Wheaton, at the commencement of this session, his two days absence; or whether he did or did not expect that the 12 dollars were charged against him; must be left to the opinions of those who are acquainted with his character, but his conduct has been such as is customary. We have unsolicited made these enquiries for the sake of putting the circumstance in its true light.

Speaking of roads the abbe Raynal justly remarks, "let us travel over all the countries of the earth, and wherever we shall find no facility of trading from a city to a town, and from a village to a hamlet, we may pronounce the people to be barbarians; and we shall only be deceived respecting the degree of barbarism."

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

At the late sitting of the high Court of Appeals and Errors, came on to be heard the great cause of Charles Jolly and William Richards of Philadelphia, complainants, and Samuel Sharp and Edward Sharp of this state, defendants, on an appeal, by the defendants, against the decree of the late Chancellor Howell in favor of the complainants. The cause was argued with great zeal and ability by Messrs. U. P. Johnson and I. H. Williamson for the appellants, against the decree of the Chancellor, and by Messrs Richard Stockton and Aaron Ogden, for the appellees in support of it. It occupied ten entire days. The court affirmed the decree of the Chancellor on the great question in the cause, making a variation on a point of small importance. By this decision we understand that Messrs. Jolly and Richards are finally exonerated from a demand of more than forty thousand dollars, set up against them at law by the Messrs Sharps. [Trenton paper.

The frigates remain as stated in our last; the French off Crump's Hill, and the English off Cape Henry. It appears that on Monday morning both got under weigh. Captain Hotham proceeded outside the jurisdiction of the United States; settled his top-gallant-sail, hauled up his courses, hove his main top-sail to the mast and thus waited for the approach of Monsieur La Brosse, under the full belief that the latter would not avoid an engagement. He was disappointed; for the imperialist put about stood in, and anchored where he now is. Be the cause of this retrograde manœuvre what it may, captain Hotham seeing it, returned nearly abreast of Cape Henry, where he anchored on the Middle Ground.

It is generally known that the British frigate La Revolutionaire, is appointed to receive a considerable quantity of specie in this country and to take it to England. Now as the imperialists think that no nation except France has any right to receive money from America, it seems to be the determination of Monsieur La Brosse to prevent it in the present instance, and as he well knows that nothing short of imperious necessity will induce Captain Hotham to quit his present station while there is a chance of the Le President's escaping, he thinks that he is doing a great service to his country by preventing this supply of American dollars from reaching England and is therefore determined to prove whether the love of money or the love of fame has the greatest power over a British officer. Such being the case we need not expect to hear of an engagement for some days.

La Revolutionaire and Le President keep a strict night-watch on each other; but for very different purposes. The Frenchman watches for the necessary to fail when the Englishman is prepared, the Englishman that he may be ready when the Frenchman fails.

We have some reason to think that the French frigate intends soon to put to sea—Our ground for this opinion is the information we have received, that they were very busily employed on board yesterday evening cutting stern ports. [Norfolk Ledger[.

The following number of troops are now said to be encamped on the continent. In France 300,000 men; in Italy 88,000; in Holland 56,000; in Hanover 38,000; in Switzerland 12,000; in Austria and Bohemia 180,000; in Prussia and Silesia 210,000; in Bavaria 40,000; in Denmark and Holstein 16,000; in Sweden 18,000; in Russia 190,000; in Servia 30,000, in Turkey 60,000; and what is most surprising, thanks to the moderation and firmness of Napoleon the first! the continent continues in perfect peace. In the house of representatives of New Jersey, Mr. Kitchell offered the following resolution for disagreeing to the amendment, proposed by the legislature of Massachusetts to the constitution of the United States for apportioning the representatives in congress according to the number of the free white male inhabitants of the several states

Resolved That however the legislature of New Jersey, might approve of the principle of the resolution submitted to their consideration, from the commonwealth of Massachusetts; yet under the impression, that the constitution was the result of mutual concessions of the several states, & that if this resolution should now be agreed to, it may bring forward claims from our sister states, which will be deemed more injurious than the provision at present complained of; it is the opinion of this house that it is inexpedient to agree to said resolution.

The yeas and nays on agreeing to this resolution were as follow:—

YEAS.

Messrs. Annin, Cooper, Darby, Davis, Dubois, Haas, Hankinson, Harrison, Johnson, Kitchell, Kennedy, Newell, Ogden, Ray, Risley, Scudder, Sharp, M. Smith, R. Smith, Son, Tucker, Tiebout, Upson, Whitehead, Wilcocks.—25.

To a Generous and Enlightened Public.

Hopkins's superior Razor-Strop AND RAZOR PASTE

THE experience of years, in the strictest attention and unwearied application, having enabled Hopkins to offer a generous public the fruits of his industry, which, perhaps, stands unrivalled by any human invention for the last five hundred years or better, since civilization plucked at the savage appearance of bearded man—and brought forward the razor when the Razor-Strop and Paste became indispensably necessary in polished society. It will understand that the ideal adage Experientia docit, is the best criterion to prove the excellence of the strop. Hopkins is not accustomed to the puffing competitorship of the present day, neither does he claim any merit to himself from the Benevolence of Fortune, or the Whimsies acquired by his Grand Mother; those who personally know him, know too well he is not of that cast of character, to those who see him only professionally known, he respectfully appeals to their generous bosoms for merited claim.

Extempore—On a Razor under the Mistletoe

On seeing the Misletoe at Christmas mention'd in a late Poem, called,
And th' hero of the tale was she held to the head,
