To a Generous and Enlightened Public. Hopkins's superior Razor-Strop AND RAZUR PASTE

THE experience of years, indefatigable attention and unwearied application, having enabled Hipkins to offer a generous public the fruits of his industry, which, perhaps, stands intrivalted by any human invention for the last five hundred years, or at least, since civilization pointed at the savage appearance of bearded man-and brought forward, that ara when the Razor-Stropand Paste b came indispensably necessary in polished society. It is well understood, that the . ld adage " Experiencia docit," is the best criterion to prove the excellence of this strop ... Hopkins is not accustomed to the ouffing competitorship of Eur pean charlatans. neither does he claim any merit to himself from the Br Illancy of Invention, or the Thousands acquired by his Grand Nio ber; those who personally know him, know too well he is not of that cast of charaster, to these who he is only protersionally known, he respectfully appeals to their generous bosome for merited claim.

Extempore -- On a Kiss under the Mistlet ze. Once under the Mistle'de a fair miaden was led, And tho' she cried no, yet she held up he head, The hisswas abisin'd, yet a grumbling was heard For Tom rubb'd her cheek, with his bristly beard How easy, dear Tom, her rage you might stop, By the use of Hopkins's wonce ful Strop.
