ther, this is the very article. Mr. Beckley (the Cierk) read extracts from the laws of Virginia on thefe two points--

Mr. Kennedy agreed that the conduct of the judge in ruling the party to trial at the fame term be was presented was a high handed ar bitrary proceeding a but that is the charge contained in the 6th article which he much approved of, and fhould certainly vote for. But he had not been influenced by any thing faid to change his opinion; he should therefore vote against the 5th article.

Mr. Aliton observed that the laws of Virginia spoke only of presentment, "that upon prejentment by any grand jury of an offence not capital the court shall order the clerk to iffue a fimmings for the party to appear and anfwer such presentment at the next court." Callender was is diéted and there being a différence between presentment and indichment, it appears that the court had a discretion as to the time of trial: this however feemed to him to be the case.

warrant, annexed to the article of i peachment, in which are the words " to answer a certain presentment sound against him (Callender) by the grand jury."

The question on agreeing to the 5th article under consideration was carried, the yeas were 72, and nays 45, and are as follow, viz.

Literary Notice.

THERE as appeared in the city of Philadelph , for one then a year a monthly publica ion, entitled the fliterary Magazine and American Register. The m 133 ef this work bay claim to a liberal the re of public patro age. It is conducted on a plan purely lite ary; and has hith ito furn thed much matter of found in traction and of rational interminment. Unlimited by attention to local concerns, it is in its ura: gement troly American. & therefore forcibly recommends itielt to the supp r of the whole Averian people. The editor of this milectory is underflood to be a gentleman, enting uitted in his teste and talents, and when he stale div exhibited specim us of both by publications, which rank high in the toale of literary anerit, and do have to car national character. The proprietors at the work are able bookfell is in different paris o the u on wo have opportunity to give it wide circulation, and who can afford to exhibit it in a form and drefs, worthy the regard of an enlighted community Accordingly the mechanical execution is truly elegant; and the last numbers are accompanied with or amental engravings of the most celebrated characters' which our country has pro-

It is earnestly hoped, that this attempt to a sufe and instruct by means so cheap and retonal. may not prove abortive; and that this miscellany may not like nu rerous others before it, be suffered to languish and expre, for want of the forering finiles of nublic pationage. If fo, the American nation will just'y merit the opprobrious charges, made by Europeans, of being totally destitute of taste, literature and refinement.

On the 20th day of November, in the year 1804, before mr. Owen Eivers, acting consul of the United States of America for this Island, personally appeared, William Fiewes, master of the thip Sally, of Charleston, South Carolina, who demanded that the deposition of his passengers and crew should be taken, respecting a circomstance advertised in the Morning Chronicle of New York, on the 18th uit. namely the death of Mr Jacob Busselree, the pilot who carried out the ship Sally. when coming to fea for this port, faid to have happened by ill treatment from captain Hewes. The following persons being daly (worn according to law, (ray) Thomas l'ully, passenger, Pe er Slum, John Watson, Lemuel Barnes, David Sinclair, Charles Grant, Philip Warner, boy, and Archibald Kissan, scaman of said ship, did depose declare and say, were on board the thip Sally during the time said pilot had charge of her, and that to the best of their knowledge, captain Hewes had given him no treatment that could injure or in any manner be accesary to his death. Mr. Tully further feith, that when the pilot came on board the (Hilp' lie was (in his opinion) drunk, and that when he left the thip he seemed perfectly satisfied with captain Hewes, from whom he requested a piece of pork and a b tite of rum, w ich was given bim-the bey. Pillo Warner, declared that he had Le and from the other pilots that this man. tome time before had fallen into the hold of an English thip, when carrying her down and was thereby much bruifed and it irred. In testimony whereof the appearers have h reunto subscribed their names, in presence of me the aforefaid contal.

COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Extract of a letter, from an intelligent friend in Demerary, to the Editors of the Boston Gazcite.

"Since the arrival of Governor Beaujon, and the Collector, (a Mr. Forbes,) they seem determined to fleece the Americans as much as possible: The former lays on a duty of five per cent. on the inveice of the vesser's cargo; the Collector, when the captain goes to the Custom-house to enter, marks off for exportation, beef, pork, caudles, tobacco, soap, &c.-allowing only to be entered, lumber, fish, flour, rice, bread, live stock and tar, -however, by way of favor, he will, after a few days deliberation, (and persuading the poor captain all the while, that he runs a great risk in granting such privilege to the Americans) gives a permit, for wlich 20, 30, and sometimes more, Joes are paid, which does away this mighty risk: the harbor master comes next, he takes the captain in for a Joe, over and above his fees, and if the captain wishes to unload his vessel where the English shipping lay, he must pay this harbor master two more, and the guaner of the fort double his fees.— This alteration in the charges, having taken place within two months, it is a great pity, that the American government does not appoint some Commercial Agent here, to check the many abuses which the Americans labor under in their commercial concerns. Appointing a consul has been tried, and this government never would recognize one, when they would an agent. The person appointed ought to be some American, residing in this colony, and well acquainted with the laws.

PANTHEON.

A conviction that little or no advantage can result from public debaie without preserving the strictest order and decoruit, and that confesion must inevitably arise in societies, constituted as they have here:ofore been in this city, with a desire to contribute to the support of the poor and the orphan, has, we understand induced a number of gentlemen to ofganise a sacrety to be called the Baltimore Foren. sic Society: A debate may be expected on every Saturday evening, during the winter sesson at the Pauthenn, where hearers will be admitted on paying the same contribution (25 cents) as the members. The clear funge of the society will be applied to charitable uses.

The following Question will be discussed this evening, viz: " Has society a right to punish any crime by death?"

The debate will commence at helf Decquiber 15. past 6 o'clock.
