NEW-YORK, December 13.

On Monday evening last between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock, a most daring robbery was committed at No. 40 Lombard street, the family were all up in a front room adjoining the passage to the stair case, with which a communication is had by means of a glass door; notwithstanding all the precaution of the family who were continually on the watch, some villain or villains entered the house, went up stairs, and stole a fine large feather bed, rose blanket, a variety of wearing apparel, and got clear off with their booty. Will not such daring outrage arouse the vigilance of the watch, giving energy to the police, and caution to the inhabitants.

Snow fell yesterday in this city and vicinity to the depth of several inches, and the sleighing season commenced, in consequence with great spirit.

The ship America, of Boston, while loading last week at Cape Ann, with coffee and sugar, took fire, and was burnt to the water's edge, from a candle having been left in her hold. The property destroyed is estimated at 20 000 dollars.

Notice
To the Owners and Masters of Tobacco, throughout the State of Maryland,
Virginia and elsewhere.

UNDER a late law of the General Assembly of Maryland a large spacious and commodious Fire-proof Warehouse, built on the end of the centre Market space and Frederick street dock, is now ready for the reception, packing and inspection of Tobacco. It is presumed that the great and many advantages attached to this Warehouse, both from its central situation in the city of Baltimore, not being more than 30 yards from the Custom House of the United States—the little danger from fire, and its easy and immediate accessibility by water, without any charge for wharfage, will deserve and claim the attention of all persons interested. It is very convenient and near to the merchants who principally buy and deal in Tobacco—always to be approached by the largest craft, bay and coast, with sufficient navigation for all vessels employed in the exportation of this article, not drawing more than twelve feet water. Its exemption from risk by fire, and from wharfage, are also considerations offering peculiar advantages. The subscriber promises always to use the utmost dispatch, care and attention for the interest of those who may please to consign their tobacco to his charge.

[State Gazette.

According to order, on Wednesday last, the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill to incorporate companies to establish several turnpike roads through Baltimore county; Mr. Lowrey in the chair. After some time spent therein, the speaker resumed the chair, and the chair-an report that the committee had, according to order, taken the subject referred to them into their consideration, and had made some progress therein, and asked leave to sit again.

The question was then put, That the committee have leave to sit again? Determined in the negative.

We have the pleasure of announcing to our readers, that General Manly's 500,000 Shares, is elected a Senator of the United States, from North Carolina, in the place of Major Jesse Franklin, whose term expires on the 4th of March next.

Extract of a letter from Columbia, South Carolina, dated the 26th of November.

On Monday last a meeting was formed, every five members present—col. William Chesnut Pinckney, was chosen speaker; Richard Gill was re-elected clerk. The Senate made a house the same day and elected John G. Saxon, esq. speaker and Benjamin Saxton, esq. clerk.

A number of committees were appointed yesterday, and a very lengthy message was received from the Governor. There will be an election for two Senators in Congress, as general Sumner's term expires in March, and Mr. Butler has resigned. Paul Hamton, esq. is the only person spoken of as Governor. It is generally thought that a step will be put to the IMPORATION OF AFRICANS this session."

New Institutions in London.

Extract of a letter from Dr. Lettsom, London to Dr. Fothergill Philadelphia.

"The Medical Society propose to have a Jennerian annual oration, in honor of their colleague, Dr. Jenner, in imitation of the Harveian oration by the college, with a gold medal to the orator.

"One new society has been established, here, and meets with much encouragement, the Horticultural Society, and considering that vegetables constitute a very large portion of our diet, it promises great public utility.

"Lectures are given here every evening in rooms illuminated by inflammable gas. In the process of extracting the gas from coal (which of course is excluded from the air) the gas is conveyed into tubes round the chambers, by which the coal is coaxed and answers for fuel again. The acid is separated, and makes vinegar and Salamoniac. The tar if separated by a cooler as the thinner bodies escape, and forms an article of trade. It is now proposed to light places of amusement in this manner, as well as beacons and light houses; and probably it will be applied as a telegraph by night, the light of which is not extinguished by rain, and scarcely wind. This was originally the invention of Le Reu, and is likely to be improved by Mr. Winzer, an old patient of mine. By making the stove in the kitchen, every room may be warmed and illuminated, and every article dried without dust or smoke."

Agreeably to notice, the subscribers to the AMICABLE DANCING ASSEMBLY, held at James Bryden's Fountain Inn, met on Friday evening, when the following gentlemen were chosen managers for the season:—

- WILLIAM VAN WYCK,
- HUGH NELSON,
- JO-HUA DORSEY,
- HENRY FULFORD,
- HENRY SCHROEDER,
- JAMES J. WILKINSON.

SPANISH WAR.—Although we have no advice of a declaration of war having been made, by the British government against Spain; it is reduced to a certainty that hostilities had been determined upon by the former;—even if there had been no predisposing motives, possession of the Spanish frigates, laden with wealth, would have been a sufficient inducement to the British to relinquish any ideas of pacification. In the conduct of the English government in this business, we distinguish that spirit of rapacity characteristic of the British, as a great naval nation—France was invulnerable, some employment was necessary for the navy, and some specious pretext wanted for giving a temporary impulse to the public sentiment, hence the resolution to attack Spain. In fact, England has heretofore had all the expense of war to pay, without having any emolument or glory; by his policy, Bonaparte has accomplished as much against the British, as he did by his valor and ability on the continent, he has completely conquered Pitt, on his own ground; and it is from the wealthy and weak Spaniard that Pitt now desires to derive some power and glory, by the eclat of which to conceal his defeat by the "Corsican."

Taking it for granted that war is now waging, we deplore the effects for the sake of humanity; to the United States, however, considerable advantages will result. As a neutral nation our commerce has prospered and increased in an unparalleled degree, particularly within the last ten years; by the cessation of the neutrality of Spain, new channels are opened to our vessels, and the trade to the ports of Spain in the western world rendered profitable and unobstructed; the necessity for employing American bottoms must procure the suspension of the selfish policy of the Spaniards, and add to our resources.

The state of embarrassment, in which Spain will be involved by war, will make it interesting to pay particular attention to the preservation of our friendship. Any claims, therefore, which we may have preferred, will be readily attended to, and grievances will be more speedily redressed.

Another advantage of considerable importance, will probably result: the subject of our demand of the Pardo is the boundary of Louisiana, will be more favorably heard and discussed. The mission of Mr. Monroe, to Madrid, has been made at a fortunate moment; the situation of Spain, we may be satisfied, will greatly aid the talents of the minister: should it have been in the contemplation of government to negotiate respecting the acquisition of the Floridas, the present state of affairs will give us an advantage not otherwise to be looked for; and, indeed, if such acquisition has not been heretofore contemplated, advantage should by all means be taken of the present critical situation of Spain. It is possible that we may have other neighbours than the Spaniards in the Floridas, and the apprehension should be enough to create a wish that the country was ours. Both the French and British would derive advantages from the possession, and it would be mere y to wish to have it and either power would be its masters.

There are many other advantages, which must be derived by our country, from the extension of the flames of war to Spain; it were, however to be wished that we could anticipate benefits rather from the happiness than from the clamorities of other nations.

Conclusion of an Eulogy on WASHINGTON, by C. P. SUMNER.

AMERICANS.—FOR a life devoted to your service, what does WASHINGTON deserve! The rising trophy column shall from afar attract the admiring eye. The enduring statue with emulative care will prefer to revering posterity his august attitude and form—History shall be immortal, as just to his worth—Poetry shall robe him in borrowed charms—A city, after the majestic model of his mind, bearing his name, shall concentrate our national glory, as he does our affection—These a grateful empire will voluntarily pay; but, he deserves more—he deserves the only reward he would ever accept, he deserves that you be faithful to yourselves, that you be free, united and happy—That party asperity from this memorable day subside; and all with liberal eye freek private interest in the common weal.

Thus shall the FLEETIVE GOVERNMENT, the true mirror of the general will, present an image that can never be dissolved, and millions rise a standing army in support of the Constitution and Laws by which they are blest. Insurrection from the quiet sleep of death will not rear her devoted head—invasion never dream of your shores, or be appalled at the view:—Peace at home will ensure invincibility abroad:—You shall fear no shock but that of the universe. The old worthies, who with WASHINGTON illumed & cherished the tempered, undying flame of freedom, shall never shake their white locks, and sigh that their labors have been in vain. Your UNION shall subsist to everlasting generations, the best, the deserved MONUMENT to his fame, who led the army that achieved your independence;—who presided in the councils, that commenced your endless career of happiness.

Departed this life on Friday morning, Master Henry Behn, eldest son of Mr. John H. Behn, of this city. In his sudden death his afflicted parents have lost their first hope, and will long deplore his loss: For no youth of his years was ever more generally esteemed and beloved by all who knew him living than Henry Behn: or now more sincerely deplored.

To a Generous and Enlightened Public.
Hopkins's superior Razor-Strip and RAZOR-PASTE.

THE experience of years, indefatigable attention and unceasing application, having enabled Hopkins to offer a generous public the fruits of his industry, which, perhaps, stands unrivalled by any human invention for the last five hundred years, or at least, since civilization pointed at the savage appearance of bearded man—and brought forward that era when the Razor-Strip and Paste became indispensable necessities in polished society. It is well understood, that the old adage "Experientia docet," is the best criterion to prove the excellence of this strip... Hopkins is not accustomed to the petty competitiveness of European chautaus, neither does he claim any merit to himself from the Brillancy of Invention, or the Thousands acquired by his Grand Mother; those who personally know him, know too well he is not of that cast of character, to those who he is only professionally known, he respectfully appeals to their generous bosoms for merited claims.

By the use of Hopkins's wonderful Strip.
