Substitute for Coffee. The seeds of grapes have lately been discovered to be an excellent substitute for coffee-when pressed, they first produce a quantity of oil, the County Court. and afterwards when boiled, furnish a liquid much resembling that produced from coffee. The practice is rapidly becoming general in Germany.

Bonaparte's spies are so expert at physiognomy, that they are called "Title Page Readers. !" London pap.

At no period do we recollest to have heard more general complaints of the great | vested in the Chancellor. scarcity of money in this city than at the present moment, occasioned, it is said. by the unexpected and immense demind of specie made upon several banks by the Merchant's Company, which has rendered it necessary to curtail the discounts. We understand some arrangements have been made by which the mercantile part of th community will be more generally accommodated. [N. Y pap]

A very important paper has been published at Madrid, consisting of a short description of the different trials made by physicians in America, from which it appears beyond all doubt that friction with common oil is an excellent remedy for the yellow fever, united with the other means hitherto employed, according to the state of the patient, and other circumstances. A trial made of this remedy at Malaga itself, in the beginning of the present year, deserves to be mentioned: General Reden, commandant of the Swiss regiment of the same name employed it on himself and soldiers, and did not lose a single man of the 1600. of whom his corps consists, which is the more to be wendered at, as these men · were born in a climate so different from that of Malaga.

The hospitality of other countries is a matter of necessity or convenience—in favage nations, of the first-in polished, of the latter; but the hospitality of an Irishman is not the running account of posted and ledgered courtesies, as in other countries; it springs, like all his qualities, his faults, his virtues. directly from his heart. The heart of an Irishman is by nature bold and he consides : is tender, and he loves; is generous and he gives; focial, and he is hospitable."

An act for the relief of sundry insolvent debtors," passed by the General Assembly of this state, just risen, has come to hand. The manner of carrying bankruptcy taken out against Nature. the law into effect has been altered from what it formerly was; and as it is a subject in which the community wil naturally feel interested, we deem it our duty to furnish the public with a concise sketch of the regulations it contains.

The first section is an enumeration of the infolvents by name, amounting altogether to one hundred and eighty-nine and belonging to the several counties of the state in the following proportions; namely :- St. Mary's County, 2; Kent, 4; Anne-Arundel, 8; Charles, 6 Bal timore County, 30; Talbot, 10; Somerset, 5; Dorchester, 2; Cæcil, 5; Prince-George's, 1; City of Annapolis, 4; Queen-Anne's, 4; Worcester, 5; Frederick, 5; Harford, 9; Caroline, 1; City of Baltimore, 75; Washington, 1;

HOGARTHS LAST PAINTING.

A few months before this ingenious artist was seized with the malady which deprived society of one of its most dist nguished ornaments, he proposed to his matchless pencil the work he has entitled a TAIL PIECE; the first idea of which, is said to have been started in company. while the convivial glass was circulating round his own table. " My next undertaking," said Hogarth " shall be the end of all things '- 'If that be the cale " replied one of his friends, ' y ur business will be finished, for there will be an end of the painter."-" There will so!" answer ed Hogarth, sighing heavily; " and, therefore, the sooner my work is done, the better."-Accordingly, he began the next day; and continued his des an with a diligence that seemed to indicate an ap. prehension he should not live till he had completed it. This, however, he did in the most ingenious manner; by grouping every thing which could denote the end of all things. A broken bottle-and old broom worn to the flump-the but end of an old musket—a cracked bell—a bow unstrung-a crown tumbled in piecestowers in rums -- the sign-post of a tavern, called the Word's End, tumbling-the moon in her wane—the map of the globe burning-a nibbet falling, the boy gone, and the chains which held it dropping down-Phæbus and horses dead in the clouds-a vessel wrecked-Time with his hour-glass and scythe broken; and a obacco-pipe in his mouth, the last whist of smoke going cut-a play book opened, with Exeunt Omnes stampt in the corner -an empty purle-and a statute of "So far, so good." cried logarth; nothing remains but this," taking his pencil in a fort of prophetic fury, and dash ing off the sim litude of a painter's pailet broken "Finis!" excla med Pogarth, " the deed is doue, all is over!"-It is remarkable, and litte known, perhaps, that he died in about a month after finish. ing this Tail Piece, having never again taken the pallet in his hand.

To the Voters of the city and county of Batimore.

HAVING been encouraged by many of my friends in the city and county, to offer myself as a candidate to be put in nomination for the office of SHERIFF, at the ensuing election, I hope it will not be deemed improper thus early to signify my intention, and to solicit the patronage of my friends generally, and the voters of the city and county at large. Those who have not a personal knowlege of me, will, on enquiry, find that I have been bred to business, and have been convergant in mercantile transactions from early life-Should my fellow-civizens think proper, at the expiration of the time of the present sheriff, to bestow on me the office, I trust my conduct therein will be such as will give satisfaction, if a dil'gent at tention and a faithful dischierge of the duties thereof, are capable of doing the same. WILLIAM MERRYMAN, Corner of Baltimore and Frederick-streets Jenuar, 2
