SATURDAY, February 9, 1805.
The court was opened precisely at 12 o'clock.

PRESENT, the Managers, attended by the House of Representatives in committee of the whole; and Judge Chase, attended by his counsel, as mentioned in the proceedings of yesterday.

At a quarter after 12 o'clock, Mr. J. Randolph, on behalf of the managers, opened the impeachment, and in a speech of about one hour and an half in duration presented a general view of the grounds on which it was intended to sustain the several charges exhibited in the articles of impeachment.

Evidence was then adduced in support of the allegations contained in the first article. William Lewis, of Philadelphia, was first examined, and after him, Alexander James Dallas, of the same place; when, at a quarter before 4 o'clock the Senate retired; the President intimating that the trial would be resumed on Monday at 12 o'clock.

[It being our intention to lay before the public in this paper a detailed statement of the proceedings in this important trial, as soon as it can be given with accuracy, we forbear, for the present, offering any sketch of arguments and evidence which, from its conciseness would necessarily be very imperfect and unsatisfactory.] [Nat. Intell.]

CHARLESTON, January 21. COURT OF SESSIONS.

On Friday last, RICHARD DENNIS, the younger, was brought to the Bar, and put on his trial for the wilful murder of James Shaw, late Merchant of this city, in the month of August last. The trial occupied the whole of that day, and continued to a late hour in the evening, when, on account of the fatigue of mind of the Court, the jury, & the advocates concerned, it was thought necessary to adjourn to the next day. The Court again proceeded with the trial on Saturday, and it was not till late on the evening of that day, the Judge delivered his charge to the jury; who, after being out for a considerable time, returned with the following verdict:

"We find RICHARD DENNIS, the younger, GUILTY; but recommend him to mercy."

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1805.

The city council commenced its session on Monday afternoon, when the following communication was made to both branches by the mayor:

Gentlemen of the City Council,
ALTHOUGH the repeated call of my fellow citizens, which has placed me in my present station, is highly grateful to my feeling, yet when I reflect upon the general satisfaction given by my predecessor during his long period of service, I cannot but feel considerable diffidence in discharging the duties of the office with which I have been honored. But my zealous and conscientious endeavors to advance the interests and prosperity of the city, will, I trust, in some degree compensate for my deficiencies in other respects; and, with the divine assistance, these endeavors shall not be wanting.

With much satisfaction I meet you in the service of our constituents; a satisfaction heightened by the reflection, that our fellow citizens have seldom, perhaps never, had greater cause to be grateful to Divine Providence for its protection and support. The calamities peculiarly incident to large cities, have been graciously averted from us. Disease, which has been a dreadful scourge to other places, has been scarcely known among us during the last two years; and while fire has widely spread its destructive flames in other places of the union, we have been, for several years, almost without alarm from this dread enemy. Have we not then cause not only to be thankful to the Supreme Disposer of events, but also to persevere in and improve upon those regulations which, under his blessing, have been found so effectual in guarding us against these calamities.

The duties prescribed by the several ordinances for the removing of nuisances, and for the general preservation of health, have, as far as I am able to judge, been faithfully executed. But though much has been done, yet farther exertions are necessary to render our health and quarantine regulations more efficient. The returns of malignant diseases in our own country, their frequent existence in the West India islands, their repeated appearances in some of the ports of Spain, and their recent spread to other places beyond the Atlantic, all concur to make it an object of the first importance and concern to us, to prevent, by every possible means, the introduction or generation of scourges so dreadful. Permit me, under these impressions, to call your attention, in a particular manner, to a revival of the existing ordinances on this subject; in order that the duties and labors of the ensuing season may be entered upon with the best prospect of success.

The frequent occurrence of fires in several cities of the United States, has induced me to adopt more rigorous and effectual measures than usual, to guard and protect our city against the ravages of this destructive element. Instead of an increase of the number of watchmen, which has heretofore been expedient and judicious, I have thought proper to constitute a patrol, composed of the constables of the city, who, in this extremely inclement season, and for a moderate compensation, have undertaken the duty assigned them with spirit and alacrity, and discharged it perfectly to my satisfaction.—This arrangement will be continued during the present and succeeding month, unless you may otherwise direct. The general regulations of the corporation of the city of Baltimore, for our protection against fires, are, as well as I have been enabled to judge, better than any which have come to my knowledge; yet I have reason to believe, an improvement may be made therein, which I shall be ready to communicate to you, or any committee which you may think proper to appoint in relation to this subject.

I have the pleasure to inform you, that no occasion has occurred which has rendered it necessary to borrow money, in pursuance of the authority vested in me by the city council at their last meeting.—But with much concern I communicate to you, that the legislature of this state, at their late session, have taken possession of certain funds granted to the city of Baltimore, by law constituting part of its charter of incorporation. This measure is a subject of serious and public concern; not only as the funds arose within our city, and were applied to the important object of watching and lighting its establishments interspersed even to the most remote citizens of the state who may visit Baltimore or have property with it to be protected; but also, & more especially as it appears to indicate a spirit on the part of the legislature by no means friendly to our interests; and at the same time, establish a precedent affecting all chartered rights, and involves more important consequences than the injury done to the funds of the corporation. I am on the subject is now committed, and my co-operation in any measure which you may think proper to adopt, on the part of the city, shall be cheerfully and promptly afforded.

Agreeably to an ordinance, passed the 17th day of July last, a lot of ground to the westward of the city has been purchased for a Pottery Field, in for which the sum demanded is two hundred dollars beyond the amount appropriated. But in case the corporation should not be allowed to make a further appropriation, I am authorized to state, that out of the commissioners appointed by ordinance to make the purchase, will take the lot in his own right and repay to the mayor and city council the sum by them paid on account of the ground. From a report of the commissioners of health, it appears necessary that a lot of ground for the like purpose should be also purchased at the east end of the city; as well as that appropriations should be made for the repair and preservation of the city hospital property.

The high price of fuel, and the increasing consumption of coal, induce me to suggest to you the propriety of making some regulations for the measuring of coal brought to this city for sale; and as it has been represented to me that much imposition has been practised in the sale of cordwood, brought by land to this city, I submit to your consideration, whether it would not be proper to make provision for the inspection and measuring of that article also.

There are few subjects connected with our corporate affairs, which can be more interesting to the inhabitants of this city, than the market regulations: I fear the ordinances to prevent huckstering are not sufficiently efficient. It has also occurred to my mind that a fish market is much wanted. Upon this subject you will act in such manner, as you may think most conducive to the good of the city.

By an arrangement made in the watch department, which renders it the duty of the watchmen to regulate themselves by the setting and rising of the moon in the lighting and extinguishing of the lamps, a very considerable saving of oil has been effected: It is submitted to you whether further regulations for the government of the watch, would not render this establishment more useful to our fellow citizens.

When I refer to the several communications heretofore made to you on the subject of inspection laws; and when I reflect that there are among you gentlemen, who from their intelligence and particular walks in life, must be intimately acquainted with the best commercial interests of our city, I do not consider it necessary to make any observations to induce you to give the subject your most serious consideration. Among other articles, it has been stated, that inspection of pot and pearl ashes, of flax seed and of gun powder are much wanted. The subject generally will doubtless engage your attention, as none can be more important to the interest of the city of Baltimore.

As the acts of the general assembly of the state are not published until after the session of the city council, I have procured for your information copies of several laws deemed interesting to the corporation, or the citizens of Baltimore, which will be laid before you.

The registers, as usual will lay before you a summary of monies by him received and disbursed on account of the city, ending the thirty first day of January last, from which it will appear that the balance, amounting to seven thousand two hundred and fifty dollars and seventy six cents, then in the treasury, was greater than perhaps you may have had reason to expect. You will gentlemen, however, in making your appropriations for the service of the present year, consider that our funds are generally precarious, uncertain and fluctuating, and ever must be so, while they so much depend upon uncertain and indirect means.

SHIP NEWS

Port of Baltimore.
FROM BERDEN'S MARINE LIST.
February 12.

The inward bound vessels in Patuxent, consisting of 10 sail, among which were the ship Harriet, Pearce, and London Packet, Shafford, from Amsterdam; brig Betsey, from Jamaica; Hunter, from Jamaica; a Bremen or Hamburg brig; schr. Antelope, from St. Thomas; schr. Green, from New-York; a northern schr. and others got under way from there the evening before last, and reached Annapolis yesterday morning.

New York, February 9.

Below, in addition to the vessels mentioned this morning, a ship and a brig. Sch'r Jefferson, of Philadelphia, from Jamaica, is just come up from the quarantine ground.

The brig Ann Maria, Copp, which left this port on the 29th ult. for Savannah, went ashore the next day on Barnegat, and bilged. The crew came up this morning in a Pilot Boat.

Wilmington, (N. C.) January 22.

Arrived since our last, ship Adamant, Wilson, New York; Louisa Caroline, Steim, St. Thomas; brig Acteon, Mason, New York.

On the 25th ult. capt. Mason, in the brig Columbia, was brought to by a privateer schooner under English colours, and ordered to send his boat on board, but his crew being nearly all sick he was unable to comply and the privateer sent her boat on board the Columbia, and forced captain Mason with his papers, to leave his vessel to the mercy of a gang of sea robbers, who, after making a general search, took away all his fresh provisions, spungyarn, spare canvas, tools, &c. &c. When captain Mason was carried on board the privateer, they hauled down the English colors, and said they were Spaniards. After much abuse, and a detention of about two hours, he was sent on board his own vessel, with liberty to proceed on his voyage.

Land for sale.

A PART of that very valuable tract of LAND, formerly the property and residence of John Mercer Perce, deceased, situated in Baltimore county, in Backriver neck, and about 14 miles from the city, containing 240 acres of strong fertile land, a great part of which is in a high state of cultivation—14 acres is an excellent timothy meadow and about 20 acres more may be added at a very small expense. The improvements are of wood, lately erected, and such as would suit for farm houses. The part in wood, which is at least equal to the best of the place, abounds in lolly white oaks, interspersed with hickory. This property will be sold part for cash and part for credit or deferred for approved property in the city of Baltimore. It is presumed a purchaser will view the premises, therefore it is unnecessary to give any further description of them. The price is moderate and the premises will show them, and treat for the sale thereof, if more convenient to purchasers, apply to
