

the empire of Hytis, so called. That no thin an e red to warrant such an op nio

The matter had stated that he believed Dessalines was at peace, and co-operating with the British arms, because the commander of the English schooner of war, Superior, told him so, and because the Secretary of Dessalines had informed him that Admiral Duckworth had dispatched two frigates to act with Dessalines off St. Domingo. But, the Judge was of opinion, that the whole of this evidence consisted only of rumours, reports and hearsays and that, supposing it to be true, it would amount to nothing more than that Dessalines wished to preserve a good understanding with the British Government. It was not improbable that Admiral Duckworth might send a small Squadron to act against the common enemy, which, with the new self erected Government, could not be any other than a limited assistance. Many reasons would suggest themselves as to the impropriety of co-operating in a struggle of this nature, but, said the Judge, from principles of general justice and policy, it cannot be encouraged by the British Government in the heart of the French islands. The Judge then concluded by observing, that, feeling himself bound to decide upon the basis or principle of St. Domingo being a Colony of France, and having no proof to countervail it, he could not but pronounce the ship and cargo forfeited, the owners thereof having carried to an enemy's colony upwards of four thousand barrels of gunpowder, of which the present cargo was in part the return. He would acknowledge, however, for the satisfaction of the claimants, that an opportunity was afforded them of referring to the High Court of Appeals, composed of many of His Majesty's Ministers, of men of pre-eminent talents, where the views of the British Government concerning the Island of St. Domingo could, to a certainty, be known, and where, if a doubt should exist with regard to the propriety of the present judgment it would be removed to the perfection of a attainment of Justice.

five pounds were collected, and the wager was won. This may be depended upon as an actual fact. [London paper.]

A promising family—At a court of Oyer and Terminer and general goal delivery, held last week at Newark, N. J. Thomas Penn was convicted on an indictment for receiving property, knowing it to have been stolen and sentenced to three years confinement in the State Prison, at hard labor—Elizabeth Penn, wife of the above Thomas was convicted of an assault and battery on a constable, in the execution of his office, and sentenced to six months imprisonment in the county goal. Robert and John Penn, sons of Thomas and Elizabeth, were convicted of stealing flour; the former was sentenced to six weeks imprisonment in the county goal; the latter two weeks in do. Their parents, and being under the influence of their parents, were pardoned for much with the judges, that they paid the above lenient sentence on them.—Uster Gazette

Married, on Sunday evening last, by the reverend Mr. Richards Mr. DAVID MASON, to the amiable and well accomplished Miss ANN FITZGIBSON, both of this city.

Departed this life on Friday last in the 23d year of her age, ANN wife of James W. Sloan, of this city, and on the evening of the following day her remains were interred in the burying ground at St. Peter's Church. Beloved in life—regretted in death—her memory will long be cherished. Let those who were privileged to witness her parting during her gradual approaches of dissolution, and under the closing struggle emulate her piety, her faith, her hope, her resignation. Blessed are the dead, who die in the Lord.

TO LET,
THAT Extensive & commodious STAND, 10, north Howard street, fronting west on said street, and south on a 2 feet paved alley, now fitted up for a tavern. The front building contains, on the first floor, 4 large rooms, and one small one that will suit for a bar room, a wide passage fronting on Howard street; 8 rooms on the second floor; and a cellar (exclusive of the present store and cellar under it, reserved by the proprietor) The new back building contains four rooms and a cellar, all neatly finished; there are also a convenient kitchen and washing room; a complete new brick stable, with stalls for about 30 horses, and a paved yard large enough to admit carriages, &c.

For situation, air, water, and many other advantages, this stand is equal to any in the city, either for a tavern, or a store and dwelling for a large family. The principal trade, daily approaching the western limits of Baltimore, will be a particular benefit to the above premises. To an approved tenant, well qualified for keeping a regular house of entertainment, the terms will be made easy, and immediate possession given. Application to be made to

When Mr. Jefferson speaks of the Desty, then according to federalism; he is a hypocrite—When he speaks of civil affairs and does not mention the Desty, why then he is an infidel!—There is no pleasing man radically dishonest, and bent on factions and sinister purposes.

General Society of the Cincinnati.
At a triennial general meeting of the CINCINNATI, convened at the city of Philadelphia, on the 7th day of May 1805 the following gentlemen were unanimously elected Officers of the society for the ensuing three years:
Major-General HARKES COTESWORTH
PINKNEY,
President-General.
Major-General HENRY KNOX,
Vice President General.
Major WILLIAM JACKSON,
Secretary-General.
Major WILLIAM D. BELL,
Assistant Secretary General.
Brigadier-General WM. MACPHERSON, Treasurer General.

The celebrity of Mr. Dibden, whose songs are more universally known and sung than all the English songs put together, is so well acknowledged that every day's experience confirms it. It was proved in a very novel kind of way a few nights ago, in a convivial company: A celebrated toper who found the company he was in were inclined to part at an earlier hour than he wished to go home, proposed a whip. You won't bring it about, said his next neighbour. I'll lay you a guinea, said the other, that I not only carry my point, but collect five pounds by it. Done, said the other. Gentlemen, said the toper, since we must part, suppose we finish with a Dutch concert—Every man in company shall sing, and every one who begins one of Dibden's songs shall forfeit a shilling. The proposal was accepted; and the assembly, who, like the Irishman who could play nothing but "Stony Batter," knew no other than the prohibited song, vociferated away, and in spite of their best precaution, continually adverted to some favourite song of Sans Souci, till the
