FOR PUBLISHING BY SUBSRIPTION, AR URIGINAL WORK, E TITLED.

THE AMERICAN DRAWING MAGAZINE;

A COMPLETE SYSTEM OF BRAWING, Ada ted in the use of all persons who would become accomplished in this branch of education, by which they may be instructed without the aid of a teacher, and also, become acquainted with the first rudiments of painting, sculpture and archite .ure

By JOHN ECKSTEIN,

Late Painter and Stanuary to the King of Prussia, and now Professor of Drawing to the Acasemy of Fine Arts in Philadeiphia.

CONDITIONS.

First, The work shall be published in numbers, each number containing twelve engravings or etchings, hirteen inches by ton, three of which shall be coloured. The whole work will be completed in tivelve numbers, and the numbers shall be tubushed at intervals not greater than the e months each.

SECOND, The price to subscribers will be two dollars a number, to be paid on delivery. To n in subscribers the price will be two dollars and fitty cents - The necessary explanations and and instructions will be given in the early progress of the work.

THE liberal encouragement which is given to all attempts tor the cultivation of the arts and a tences in this country, induces the artist to present the above plan to the consideration of the public. His immediate object in this publi ation will be to establish and exemplify such rules and principles in the art of Drawing, as shall enable any person to obtain a proficiency therein without any other assistance. The work also will be found eminently useful in all drawing schools and ticularly where if e teacher is so occupied with the theoretical parts of the subject, as to be abridged in the time which should be dev ted for the practical improvement of his pupila

To the mo ican public it will be unnecessary, for the succe-s of a work like this, to offer any remarks on the importance and usefulness of the suejest of which it treats. That public is well awa e that the art of drawing is intimately conn & d with all other of the fine arts, and that an a quaintance with it is essential to the vainter. he sculptor, and the architect.

As a source of amusement, and as forming a branch of polite e ucation, the art of drawing will ever e cultivated when true taste and polished manners shall prevail. The display of skill for a perpetuation of the remambrance of objects which are dear to us, must ever award gratification to a feeling mind; and there is perhaps no more livily pleasure than that which is experienced by a successful exhibition of the be: uties of nature by the hand of art.

To the taste and judgment of a polished community, the arcist proposes to offer the testimonids of his skill. Should that caste and judgment approve f his plan, an afford encourage. ment for his exercions, it will be the highest reward to which his ambition can aspire. To every person conversant with works of this nature, are acquainted with the expences of their pur lication, it will be evident that no motives of premaiary emolument can influence him to make these proposals. His most favorable calculations permit him only to expect a remuneration of the expence, and a very limited reward for his trouble.
