T) AN AWAY from the subscriber on the 1 7th inst. an indented servant man, named LUCAS FISHER, by trade a Taylor. He had yellow buttons, nankeen pantaloons and marseilles vest—he took with him, a drab frock coat faced with silk velvet of the same color.— The aforesaid Fisher is about 20 years of age 5 feet 9 inches high, walks erect, has curly hair, a remarkable large head and a projected forehead, he is by birth a Wirthenburger, and when he speaks Germanyou may discover it by his dialect; he speaks Luglish telerably well, but stammers a little when speaking.—I havereason to believe he was persuaded off by a certain young woman who he was in the habit of going to see, who does not as I am informed bear the best character. I have reason to believe they have gone off together and taken the road to Restarstown I received information that two such persons were seen travelling on soot up that road on Sunday last-from what I can learn, the afor said young wonan left her place where she lived on the same day, the zfor; said Fisher abscorded. My reason to believe they have taken the road towards Reisters. town is that the young woman has relations living near Littles-tow . in Pennsylvania. It is with emotions of diffidence, that the au-Thor of the above letters, submits them to public scrutiny; indeed he would not have presumed to do so, had not the solicitations and advice of some judicious friends tended to influence his determination, by a flattering opinion, that they will prove interesting and entertaining. The author has collected his materials from actual observations, during much lessure in the interim of suspended duty. To men of crudition, and even those of limited understandings and shallow penetration, the mutability of human afficirs must be of moment; therefore, doubtless, a concise and comprehensive description of the cele-. brated Island of Malta, will prove interesting to most classes of people; for, though the situagion be the same as when the unhappy Queen risited it, the many calamities of revolution since that period, resulting principally from the invasion of Barbarians, together with the present happy estate of the Maltese, under the fostering care and protection of the British flag, all combine to render the Listury (which is indeed very little known in the Western World) of the Island momentous.-Through the mediun. of print and tradition, most of as have some knowledge of the descructive effects of Vesuvi us. in the neighborhood of Names. Here the eye of sensibility may bedew fallen greatness and beauty with tears of remorse.-Here the imagination is presented with a prospect equalle dreary and melancholy; and deformed with such portentous aspects of barrenness and ruin; as devastation, in all its vestments of fury, selcom furnishes for the meditation of desponding | ving it explained, with respect to real and humanity. The ancient Civies of Herculanium and Pompei, were cutirely covered over many centuries ago, by a massy body of Lava emited from the crater of this ever memorable Volcano; and with them, their inhabitants and wealth, the latter consisting chiefly in the works of the Scuptor and Paicter; an immensity of which has recordly been developed and deposited in a Museum for the inspection of the curious. On the subject of those remains of profound antiquity, the author has been copious and precise in his remarks. Those desirous of feasting their curiocity by subscribing for a copy, are respectfully invited to call at either of the following places: where subscriptions will be thankfully received, viz

The printing offices of Messrs. Pichin & Frailes and Guie & Hewes; the Look-stores of Mersrs. Warner & Hanna, Saml. Butler, Sower & Cole Genrye P. Byrne, V. & S. Bensall, and Abrahum Knight, Eell's Loine, and his Sifee-House, as to communicate them to every indivievery man to furnish himself with the on when he went away, a blim cloth coat with means of information to a degree fufficient to enable him to discharge the duties of This is what he owes to his courty. To himself he owes more. It is every run's interest to be acquainted with the laws of his own government sufficientivit e able him to avoid the shoals and quick far as of legal controversy, on which ignorance of the law might throw him, and recention the wreck of his fortune, and, perhaps, of his happiness likewise. It is not only every man's interest, but it is every man's duty to his family to endeavor to under- | SIR, stand enough of the acts of assembly and of the forms and proceedings in the adminif. tration of justice, to enable him to preserve his estate in a legal way, transact in a proper manner the business of life according to rule, to be able to recover his debts; and he ought to know the relative duties of one citizen to another.

> The above work is an attempt to convey to the people of Maryland in as concife a manner as possible, correct knowledge of the provisions of those acts of assembly which are most necessary to be known and understood by the citizens of the state at large, together with some commer law principles which are in force in Maryland. Matters that relate to accounts, and the evidence of debts, to administration of the estates of deceased persons, apprentices, articles of agreement, assignments, attachmente, arrests, bonds, bails, bills, baftardy, conveyancing, contlables, contracts, dowers, deeds, distress, executions, elcape, evidence, felony, forgery, gaming, goal, goaler, guardians, homicide indichment, information, judement, jurors, (and their duties.) juffices of the peace, larceny, lewdnefe, libel, misdemeanor, nuisance, oaths, pordon, perjury, poligamy, the poor, presentment, puson-breaking, rape, recegnizance, rescue, riot, robbery, fearch-warrants, sheriff, (his duties) flander, furety for the peace, flaves, treason, vagrants, warrants, willis, and a variety of other things, which it would be extremely tedious to describe at large, will be contained in this work. Besides laying down the law under each head, firms and precedents will be introduced for the information of magistrates and others. These will confift of precepts used by justices of the peace in the discharge of the duties of their station, and copies of all manner of instruments of writing used in bargaining, felling, and conveying every species of property, agreeably to the laws of Maryland. Under the head of accounts particular care has been taken to arrange all the evidence of debts, the manner and form of proof; and under the head of adminiftration, the compiler has been careful to insert every thing that can be serviceable to executors and administrators. A very correct copy of a will is laid down, and the number of witnesses and manner o' properforal property. Marking and bound: ing land has occupied much attention, and the law and method of proceeding, together with the returns of commissioners are correctly stated. In short, whatever can he of service to the magistrate or to the citizeng has been carefully confidered, and inserted in the book. In justices of the peace the work will be extremely valuable, and to the people at large of great benefit. It has often been contended that in a free government every citizen has a right to participate equally an the offices of the state. To this proposition I have always assented; but at the same time I have uniformly thought there was another right. not altogether unimportant; which is, | No. 109, Market-street, that the community have a right to expell

that every citizen Bould le qualified for the office which he fills. These two rights should go hand in hand. There is no office in the gift of our state executive of more importance or which may be more eatily abused than that of a justice of the peace; and it not only requires a man of strong and good sense to fill it properly, but one somewhat acquainted with the fundamental principles of law in general, and of all sizes. with our local laws in particular: A knowledge of the latter in some degree, is, in sact, indispensably requisite: But as justices of the peace are generally and very properly appointed from among the honest and independent part of the citizens of the several counties, whose thoughts have been turned to other pursuits in common, but who, nevertheless, have sound understandings, it is not to be expected that they can at once dive into the huge quarto volumes of Kilty's compilation and drag thence the pith and marrow of the afts of assembly, and at the same time learn the form and manner of iffuing innumerable precepts required by their official duty. Hence the great necessity for a work embracingiall these particulars in a small compass, so as to form a complete Guide and Counseller.

The duties of jurors have been stated with precition; and as every man is liable to serve the public in that capacity, that topic alone will render the book of general

" Washington, December 27, 1804.

I have received your letter inclosing eightv pages of a work prepared by you, in which you have begun a digest of those parts of the laws of Maryland which more frequently occur in the common transactiions of life, and which are therefore deemed the most useful. I have perused it and have no hesitation in pronouncing the utility of such a work. The law appears to be carefully abstracted, and the forms well chosen. It will be found useful to magistrates and to the people in general, and merits their patronage. It is adapted more particularly to the information of those who have not the means of purchasing, and the leisure to examine our laws at large. In a free government, the laws cannot be too extenfively circulated; and he who adds to the

A fresh supply of OCTOR COOLEY's vegetable Klixir, is Just received and for sale by GRONGE Manis, Druggist, No. 140, Market-street. A Remedy, far exceeding every other yet used, for consumptions, asthmas, spitting of blood, coughs, shortness of breath, and every other species of disease to which that ergan o life, the lungs, is perpetually exposed.

Complaints of the lungs have always been considered the opprebria medicinæ (or reproach o the art of physie) and it has long been a desideratum in medical science, that a remedy might be devised which should check this outlet of human life. The many thousands which yearly fa'l a sacrifice to this insidious disease, (phthisis pulmonalis, or consumption of the lungs, has, ever since my acquaintance with diseases, (which is almost thirty years) so excreed my commisseration, that a large share of my time has been employed in investigating the cause and cure of it; and, from my most unremitted attention and constant research, I have the happiness to preclaim to the world, that, in my Vegetable Elixir, a speedy, safe, and effectu. al remedy is generally to be had. It is needless for me to dwell too long on the praises of this medicine: those who use it will be immediately convinced of its superior virtues in dispelling every distressing sympton in the complaints ! führt merten : above enumerated : these hedical heats will in a ter cays be allayed, the night sweats will disappear, the cough diminishes rapidly, and the patients, who, previous to the use of this medicine, were panting for breath, and fast approaching to dissolution, well find " rinselves resusitated in the most unexpedied m weer. So wonderful has been the relief, that, to express their gratitude, frequent se'icirations hat : been made to have their testimon'als made l'ublic of the unrivalled virtues of this medicine: those who experience its benign and salutary effects by a short trizl, will need no other recommendation.

It is not pretended that this medicine will cure every disease to which suffering humanity, is liable, as is the case with most patient medicines: disesses which are as completely opposite as an acid and an alkali, they will assert, are all to be cured by one simple remedy. Such weak im; ositions have with much propriety brought most patent drugs into disrepute-But the Vegetable Elixir is calculated for one class of diseases only, viz. those to which the lungs are exposed, and I need not observe that they terminate in consumptions. The precursors or harbingers of this hitherto intractable malady. (until the discovery of the Vegetable Elixir are spitting of blood, pains in the breast and sides, coughs, difficulty in breathing, and a great number of complaints, which slender and delicate constitutions are so frequently laboring under, which if attended to immediately on their commencement, will easily be obviated, and those in the last stages will be much alleviated, and many of them ciledually cured.
