

Daily paper $7 and Country paper 5 per ann. All advertisements appear in both papers.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1805.

NEW-YORK, August 10.

Late from England.

By captain Duplex of this city, who came passenger in the ship Hercules, Bradford from Liverpool bound to Philadelphia...

LONDON, June 13.

A private letter from Hamburg brought by the last mail, contains the following information relative to the further preparations of the enemy in the Mediterranean...

June 21.

There was a report yesterday, that government had received intelligence of another Spanish squadron of 6 sail of the line having escaped from Cadiz...

June 22.

A Riga newspaper of the latter end of April, contains a polite letter from the Emperor of Russia to Gen. Moreau...

June 24.

This morning we received a regular series of Moniteurs from the 8th to the 15th, & Dutch journals to the 20th instant...

The grand subject of discussion during the present week, in both houses of Parliament, has been the general state of public affairs...

George Rex,

His Majesty thinks proper to acquaint the House of commons, that the communications which have taken place and are still depending between his majesty and some powers of the continent have not yet been brought to such a point...

and independence of Europe. His majesty therefore recommends it to the house of commons to consider of making provision for enabling his Majesty to take measures...

In consequence of a conversation which took place before the debate of the house of commons, it was understood that Mr. Trotter is to be brought forward as a witness against lord Melville...

A debate took place on Friday evening, in the house of commons on the subject of the King's message. Mr. Fox and Mr. Pitt took nearly the same ground as in the debate of the preceding evening...

The solemnities which have succeeded the coronation of Bonaparte as King of Italy are also of considerable importance. These were followed by the institution of a new order, viz. of the Iron Crown...

Dispatches from lord Gardner were received on Saturday morning at the admiralty. His lordship was cruising off Brest on the 16th inst. No disposition had been lately manifested to put to sea...

The Queen Charlotte packet from New York, due since the 25th of April, is captured by a Spanish privateer of 18 guns, after an engagement of 2 hours and a half...

Admiral Cornwallis resumes the command of the channel fleet immediately. The Ville de Paris is expected daily at Portsmouth, for the purpose of receiving the flag from the gallant admiral...

LIVERPOOL, June 26.

The Gazette of Saturday night contains dispatches from general lord Lake, which reach to the 11th January. They confirm the accounts previously received of the reduction of Fort Deiga...

We have at length, from captain Mutland, of the Loire, the official details of the brilliant achievement executed by lieutenant Yeo...

against the Spanish Port of Muros. The daring feats of this gallant officer and his little band of heroes, will shed a new lustre on the annals of British valor and intrepidity.

PARIS, June 15.

By letter from Bayonne, of the 6th of June, the following important news from the Isle de France, received by the vessel Gravin Van Chancios, is communicated...

American.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1805.

From the two second paragraphs under the Gazette's Baltimore head, of last evening, it would seem, that little Shylock regards the eighth commandment as little as he does the ninth and tenth.

Brown went into unnecessary latitude, in pretending to be at a loss in determining how he violates the 10th commandment. And (for a wonder!) the poor little thing, does indeed, tell the truth...

The Gazette said, the other day, that "The American was not in existence, nor its editors known here, when the character was first presented to the citizens of Baltimore." This article was intended, as must be manifest to all to infer that neither of the editors of the American were in Baltimore at the period alluded to...

Shylock terminates one of his paragraphs with a—Ha, ha, ha—a! But it seems to have been done in such a forced way, as to look very little like the offspring of pleasurable feelings!

Ever since the period at which we proceeded, on the sacred oaths of two of the workmen on this establishment, that the American exceeded the Gazette in circulation, Brown has unceasingly put in practice every mean artifice...

Brown, ever alert at low trick and subterfuge; and finding it impossible to substantiate, that any quarrel took place, in any manner, between the editor and his late partner, now attempts to level a blow at the respectability of the American...

1300 dollars was the sum allowed at the time of dissolution, namely, two bonds of 500 each—and, independent of all these sums, Mr. F. had drawn from the firm between 23 and 2900 dollars.

Yes, W. Pechin did "compare the American with the Gazette;"—but good readers, not in point of veracity! No, no! the Gazette in that particular, is far below par!

Although Matthew cannot write English, still he is "up to a thing or two," in his small way. Our abhorrence of the evil-habits of the man, made us declare yesterday, that "even the busy commerce of the streets, if principle and honor were properly regarded, would point at him the finger of contempt."

When Brown gets at his dirty work, he sets himself no bounds; he goes through thick and thin; and the producing a few more or less, of his little variations from truth, is to him, a matter of no kind of consequence—and his adherence to them, when ushered into existence, entitles him richly, to the character of a man of perseverance!

The ship Ontario, capt. Starbuck, of New York, in coming out from Liverpool, on the night of the 12th June, dilted ashore, and is so greatly damaged, that doubts are entertained whether she will be worth repairing.

Captain Ricketson, of the ship Adriana, arrived at New York from Cadiz, informs that Gen. Moreau and family were to leave Cadiz in 6 days for Philadelphia, in the ship New York; captain George; that gun boat No. 3, which was captured by the Spaniards had been condemned...

The report, in the above paragraph, of the condemnation of the United States' gun boat, No. 3, by the Spanish Admiralty, is such a glaring fabrication, that every reader will perceive it is not entitled to the least credit.

COMMUNICATION.

THE following is a copy of a patent lately issued for an invention made by Mr. John Stickey of this city, for saving of fuel; which for simplicity and utility has been found on repeated trials, made during the last winter, to surpass any improvement of Rumford's or Franklin's...

expense, other than one third the amount of wood which shall be judged to be saved thereby, in the course of one winter.

In the common fire place the air having a free circulation or admission into all parts of the opening of the chimney, and not being confined to any one point, the action of the air on the fire is in a great measure lost; the fire having no current of air in any confined direction...

Captain Barber, arrived at New York, informs, that a number of French and Spanish privateers infest the south coast of Cuba, and have made sundry captures of American vessels from England, bound to New Orleans; and have made some captures on the north side, and carried them into Porto Cavanas...

Great news! Rain! The most interesting and important occurrence to our readers in this quarter we can announce, is the commencement, on Wednesday evening last, after a drought of 33 days, of a continued and effective fall of rain—a blessing to the parched earth and its hungry inhabitants...

INTERMENTS

In the burying grounds of the city and precincts of Baltimore, during the week ending yesterday morning at sunrise:

Table listing interments: Dysentery 2, Consumption 2, Fias 2, Teething 1, Lockjaw 1, Mumps 1, Bilious remittent 1, Hives 1, Scarlet fever 1, Apoplexy 1, Still-born 1, Old age 1, Childbed 1, Cholera 9, Disease unknown 1, Total 26.

Extract of a letter from Martinsburg Virg. dated July 12.

"Pursuant to the sentence of the court of Berkeley county, some time since passed on negroes Jack and Jerry, for the robbery of David Horn, they were executed on the commons of this place on Friday last. During their confinement in prison, they were visited by several divines of different religions, persuasions by some of whom they were attended to the gallows. They uniformly, while in jail denied having committed the crime for which they were condemned, although they confessed many trivial offences, and appeared sincerely penitent, and were constantly for the last week of their confinement, earnestly engaged in prayer night and day. A short time before they were turned off, Jerry got up, and in a remarkably firm manner, addressed himself to the surrounding multitude; and here again he protested that he was innocent of the crime for which he was about to suffer: he solemnly declared that he had never seen Mr. Horn, his accuser, until the time on which he was arrested; he made a short prayer for the welfare of the surrounding spectators, desiring them not to be sorry for him, but for themselves; he said, though falsely charged by Mr. Horn, he forgave him, and prayed that his God would also forgive him, and hoped, if he had lost money, that it might be again recovered; He had constantly the most complacent countenance, and