DISTRICT OF MARYLAND—10 WILL DE it Remembered, That on the eleventh day of February, in the twenty-ninth year of the independence of the United States of America, John B. Colvin, of the wid diffrict, bath deposited in this office the title of a book, the right whereof he claims as author, in the following words, to wit:

A Magistrate's Guide,

A Digested Abstract of these Laws of the known, and most useful in common transactions of life.

PHILIP MOORE, Cik. D.C.

To the Citizens of Maryland.

THE above work has been for some time past in th press, and is in considerable forwaruness, and will be published with all possible expedition. obvious: For it ignorance of the law were admitted as a just plea, laws would be without force, and confequently useless. As it is out of the power of our government to promulgate its laws in such a way as to communisate them to every individual of the community, it is necessary for every man to furnish himself with the means of information to a degree sufficient to enable him to discharge the duties of his station as a citizen of a free state.-This is what he owes to his country. To himself he owes more. It is every man's interest to be acquainted with the laws of his own government sufficiently to enable him to avoid the shoals and quicksands of legal controversy, on which ignorance of the law might throw him, and occasior the wreck of his fortune, and, perhaps, of his happinels likewise. It is not only every man's interest, but it is every man's duty to his family to endeavor to understand enough of the acts of assembly and of the forms and proceedings in the administration of justice, to enable him to preserve his estate in a legal way, transactin a proper manner the business of life according to rule, to be able to recover his debts; and he ought to know the relative duties of one citizen to another. The above work is an attempt to convey to the people of Maryland in as concile a manher as possible, correct knowledge of the provisions of those acts of assembly which are most necessary to be known and understood by the citizens of the slate at large, together with some common law principles which are in sorce in Maryland. Matters that relate to accounts, and the evidence of debts, to administration of the Estates of deceased persons, apprentices, articles of agreement, assgnments, attach. mente, arrests, bonds, bails, bills, bastardy, conveyancing, conflables, contracts, dowers, deeds, distress, executions, es. cape, evidence, selony, forgery, gaming, goal, goaler, guardians, homicide indistment, information, judgment, jurors, (and their duties,) justices of the peace, larceny, lewdness, libel, misdemeanor, nuisance, oaths, pardon, perjury, poliga. my, the poor, presentment, prison-breaking, rape, recognizance, rescue, riot, robe bery, search-warrants, sheriff, (his duties) flander, forety for the peace, flaves, treafon, yagrants, warrants, wills, and a variety of other things, which it would be extremely tedious to describe at large, will' be contained in this work .- Besides laying down the law under each head, forms and precedents will be introduced for the infor-metion of magistrates and others. Theile will confilt of precepts pled by judices of the peace in the discharge of the duties of their station, and covies of all manner of infirments of writing uled in harglining, felling, and conveying every species of property, agreeably to the laws of Maryland. Under the head of accounts particular care has been taken to arrange all tho evidence of debts, the manner and form of proof; and under the head of administration, the compiler has been careful tu infert every thing that can be serviceable to executors and administrators. A very correct copy of a will is laid down, and the comber of witnesses and manner or proving it explained, with respect to real and perional property. Marking and bounding land has occupied much attention, and the law and method of proceeding, together with the returns of commilboners are correctly flated. In from, whatever can he of fervice to the magiffrate or to the citizen, has been cercially confidered, and inserted in the back. To justices of the . peace the work will be extremely valuable, and to the people at large of great benefit.

It has often been contended that in a free government every citizen has a right to principate equally in the offices of the state. To this proposition I have always attented; but at the same time I have uniformly thought there was another right not altogether unimportant; wlich is, that the community have a right to expect that every citizen should be qualified for the price aubich ke fills. These two rights should go hand in hand. There is no office in the gift of our state executive of more importance or which may be more easily abused than that of a justice of the peace; and it not only requires a man of strong and good sense to suitil it properly hut one somewhat acquainted with the sundamental principles of law in general, and with our local laws in particular: A knowledge of the latter in some degree, is, AND CITIZEN's COUNSELLOR; in fact, indispensably requisite: But 28 justices of the peace are generally and very properly appointed from among the honest state of Maryland most necessary to be and independent part of the citizens of the several counties, whose thoughts have been turned to other pursuits in common, but who, nevertheieis, have sound understand. ings, it is not to be expected that they can at once dive into the huge quarto volumes of Kilty's compilation and drag thence the pith and marrow of the acts of affembly, and at the same time learn the form and

The duties of jurors have been stated with precision; and as every man is liable to serve the public in that capacity, that topic alone will render the book of general ntility.

Although I have thus enpiously dwell upon the advantages and merits of this work, I by no means conceive that it will be free from some sew impersections; nor It is a maxim which has been long es- | do I arrogate to myself the sole merit of tablished, that " ignorance of the law ex- | collecting the forms and precedents togecufe 15 no man;" and the reason of it is ther. I am by no means desirous to sacrifice truth in this particular to my vanity, I have had very able assistance from a few well informed friends, whose disinterested services have been of incalculable use to me; and without which, indeed, I should have found my felf at a great loss for those numerous practical forms which the work ! will contain, amounting in the whole to more than two hundred. It would take an individual years, perhaps, to gather fo large a collection, and they might at last be incorrect: Whereas the above book will furnish the whole at once, and in a > proper form. Withing to make the book cheap, the terms will be as follow, to wit:

I. It will be printed with a good type on good paper, and contain above 300 pages Offavo-perhaps 400.

II. It will be neatly bound and lettered. III. The price will be 2 dollars to subscribers, and 2 dollars 50 cents to non-subscribers. No money required till the work is delivered.

IV. Persons procuring eleven subseribers, and becoming answerable for the money, shall receive a twelfth copy gratis. The acts of affembly, up to the close of the last fession, will be attended to.

JOHN B. COLVIN. Frederick-Town, March 11, 1805. Subscriptions received sur the above at this office, and by the different booksellers of the city of Baltimore.
