For Sale,
A TRACT OF LAND in Baltimore county, containing about six hundred acres; 4 hundred of which are supposed to be in wood. On this tract there is a handsome piece of meadow, and a young thriving apple orchard. This land is about 28 miles from the city of Baltimore, and not far from Colonel O'Donnell's country residence, purchased of Mr. William Buchanan.

ALSO,
A TRACT OF LAND containing about 300 acres, about 14 miles from the city of Baltimore, west of Randall's town. On this last mentioned tract there is a stone dwelling HOUSE, just finished, with convenient cellar, two rooms and a passage on the first floor three rooms and a passage on the second floor, and a garret; a new stone stable, cornhouse and coachhouse; an overseer's house with two rooms, lately repaired at the expense of two hundred dollars; kitchen and other out-houses, an excellent apple orchard, with other good fruit trees, and good garden.

On both places there is water, not exceeded in the county, and good clover lots. No place can exceed them in respect of health. There is a proportionate part of woodland on the last place.

I will permit the purchasers to seed the ensuing fall, or I would seed for them. The dwelling house on the last mentioned farm might be immediately taken possession of by the purchaser. Presuming that no person will purchase without viewing the premises, I do not go into detail.

Both of the above places are convenient to mills; there is a mill not more than a quarter of a mile from the last mentioned place; a good neighborhood, and the Episcopal and Presbyterian churches within five miles. An indisputable title will be given on the payment of the purchase money.

Genteel Boarding.
SEVERAL gentlemen may be accommodated with genteel boarding, in a pleasant situation, No. 41, High-street, Old-Town.
Sept. 28

BOSTON, October 7.
WEST FROM EUROPE.

Our files of London papers, received by the Gale, are to August 18, (four days later than before received) from which we have been enabled to make a few extracts, of some considerable interest.

It appears from these accounts, that the English government, in the East-Indies, have experienced a series of ill success in their warfare against the numerous friends of Holkar, particularly in his strong hold of Bhurtpore. Terms of peace had been offered to the British; but refused, on any other principle, than that of an unconditional surrender. To this, it is said, the Rajah who had with him in the fortress, his family and treasure, had declared his determination, of blowing up the whole place should they obtain a holding there. To this account, however, it is added, that previous to the sailing of the packet, which brought the late dispatches from India, a new negotiation was understood to have been opened; that several communications had been interchanged, and it was supposed that some kind of treaty would at length be concluded. It is indeed, reported, that the dispatches to the court of directors, contain intelligence, either of the actual termination of the war in India, or that there was every probability of its being speedily brought to a conclusion.

On the subject of an immediate coalition between Austria, Russia & England, much speculation is made. The latest intelligence from the continent, states the increasing activity of Russia, who is assembling a large body of troops at Corfu for the purpose of making a descent upon Italy, under the protection of the British fleet in that quarter; and it is likewise reported, that a strong rumor is on its way to the southern frontiers of Poland, in order to co-operate with the troops of Austria, which are known to be assembling in that quarter, though under the pretext of maintaining an independent army of neutrality. The establishment of this coalition, in effect, would bring all the northern powers, except Prussia and Denmark, will bring against France a military force infinitely more powerful than any of the former associations under that name.

It is generally ascertained, that the Emperor Napoleon is augmenting and organizing his army; and that the most arduous negotiations between his government and the ministers of Russia and England.

In addition to the general and uniform opinion which prevails in all parts of Europe, that an alliance of almost all the northern powers has been established against France, we are enabled to relate, on the authority of a private letter received here from a high source of respectability in London, that a subsidy of 3,500,000, in specie, was then packing up at the bank, destined, principally for the continent; but to what power was not publicly known.

Letters from Madrid, state that the most active preparations are going on in all the ports of Spain. At Cadix four new ships of the line, one of 136 guns, were ready for sea.

The Emperor Napoleon arrived at Bologna on the 3d inst. and the following day reviewed the infantry, which were drawn upon the beach, and extended from Cape Cassinet as far as Cape Grefo. The number of troops exceeded 112,000 and his majesty was on horseback from 10 in the morning, until 7 in the evening.

After a short stay at Bologna, Bonaparte will proceed to St. Roch, and the Emperor, to inspect the formidable preparations making at both these places.

It was thought that Bonaparte, on his visit to Holland, contemplated to receive in that country, the same honors, he obtained in Italy. Switzerland, it was also said, would share the same fate.

The French and Italian troops, in upper Italy are estimated at 70,000.

Intelligence has reached England, that the whole of the French coast, from Morlaix to Bologne, is lined with troops for the avowed purpose of invading England; that the cannon, camp equipage, ammunition, &c. provided for the grand expedition, is beyond all example; and that the soldiers speak of the invasion in strains of rapture and enthusiasm. Some letters from the continent state, that the expedition was to have taken place early in August, but a squadron of men of war which was expected from Rochfort, or Brest (more probably the combined French and Spanish fleet) had not arrived, but was momentarily looked for. No doubts appeared to be entertained throughout the whole of the armed coast, which stretches from Brest to the Texel, but that the invasion of England would be attempted, and that too immediately.

It is said there are 25 ships of the line in Brest, ready for sea; nine at the Texel, with 200 transports, at single anchor; 7 at Rochfort, and 4 at L'Orient. With the number in the other ports of France, Spain, and Holland, we are not acquainted; but have reason to think there will be more than 50 new ships completed in the course of the ensuing winter.

There is probably in Cadix 47 line-of-battle ships; and should these by some accident chance to form a junction with the above force, the prospect to Britain would be formidable indeed!

Such thorough & effectual measures of defence have been adopted in England, that the public spirit, instead of fearing, appears to count the embrace of its invading enemy.

The combined French and Spanish squadron, after being joined by 7 ships of the line, supposed to be the L'Orient fleet, entered Ferrol on the 8th or 9th August, with a force of 37 sail of the line. Admiral Calder, with his fleet of 9 sail, having been forced to quit the blockade of that port, joined Admiral Cornwallis, on the 11th.

The escape of the combined fleets appears to have caused a great degree of dissatisfaction in England. The battle, tho' a victorious one, seems to have been below the hopes of that nation; murmurs begin to arise, and to grow louder by repeating. It is in fact stated, that the Court of Admiralty have judged it necessary to be made known, that an investigation of the conduct of Ad. Calder, would take place, agreeably to the provisions of articles of war.

A dissolution of Parliament was expected to take place in the course of last month.

Three per Cent Consols. 87 1/2.

London, August 14—18.

By private letters from the Hague, dated 10th instant, we learn, that the day before an Aide-de-Camp arrived from the Emperor of the French, whose mission, whatever it was, occasioned the immediate assembling of a Grand Council of State, at which the French Ambassadors assisted, as well as Admiral de Winter, and the Generals Marmont and Danton.

Though this council broke up very late, the Grand Pensionary thought proper, immediately on its conclusion to solicit an audience of the Prussian Ministers, which lasted upwards of two hours, and the latter in the morning dispatched a courier to Berlin. The purport of this meeting is not positively known, but it is generally rumored that the French and Dutch Naval and Military Chiefs, have received the final instructions preparatory to their departure.

The Hamburg Mail due on Wednesday, arrives on this morning. The military preparations on the part of Russia continue with unabated activity. By letters from Cassel, we learn, that several Russian ships of war and transports, with 20,000 troops on board, were about to sail from the Black Sea to Genoa. Several corps of Russian troops were also on their march to the Silesian frontiers of Poland. From Cassel, Russia will be enabled to make a formidable expedition in Italy, will set her troops marching there, and will be enabled to set in the most effectual manner in concert with the main body of the Austrian army.

Nothing new is heard respecting the preparations of Austria; and a letter from Vienna even talks of her assuming the attitude of armed neutrality; but this is extremely improbable, although it may be urged by the Austrian Cabinet as a pretext for their preparations, until the season is ripe for action.

Bonaparte has demanded of the Austrian Cabinet the recall of their armaments going forward to the Imperial States; he has likewise required, that a portion of those troops quartered on the frontiers of Italy, and which menace the tranquility of that country, should be withdrawn.

Speaking to the Austrian Minister lately on the subject of the military preparations of his court, the Emperor assured him that the movements alluded to were connected with a resolution on the part of his Imperial Majesty to maintain a strict neutrality, and that they were rendered necessary by the state of the Turkish provinces, by the armament of Russia, &c. but were without hostile reference to France. Bonaparte hastily replied, that he was aware of the falsehood of the excuse, and that his master should be cautious how he again called him into the field.

All Officers in the Austrian service absent from their regiments were ordered to rejoin them on or before the 3d inst.

A new levy of 80,000 men has been ordered in the Russian States; and a corps of 40,000 is forming in Livonia, where it is supposed it will embark. A squadron of eight sail of the line will leave Constadt in the course of the present month, to cruise (according to some accounts) in the Baltic, but by others stated to be intended to join the British squadron in the North Seas.

Another division of the Russian troops from the Black Sea, to the amount of 20,000 men, was expected in the Adriatic during the last month.

Petersburgh Letters of the 24th ult. state, that all officers on leave of absence had been ordered immediately to join their respective Corps.

Prussia is busied in military preparations; and orders were lately issued for placing the medical staff on the war establishment.

An infectious and very malignant fever is raging on board the captured Spanish ships.

LENTZ, July 13.—The hopes of preserving peace become weaker every day, for every thing in our vicinity continually assumes a more warlike appearance, and we are in constant expectation of seeing hostilities commence. The troops are in motion on every side, and their marches appear to be rapid, and at short notice.

LEYDEN, July 29.—The naval preparations going forward in the different ports of the Republic, are daily acquiring a greater degree of force and consistency. Various detachments of troops have left the camp at Zeyt, and joined corps destined to march to those places where great
