Richard Snowden Thomas,
OFFERS FOR SALE,
Or to be exchanged for property on the Eastern Shore of this State (a preference would be given to Kent or Queen Anne's counties,) the following property:

No. 1. Galt's Enlargement. A tract of land containing about 600 acres, situated about 7 or 8 miles from the city of Baltimore, upon which are two small tenements; little of the land is cleared, the remainder is well wooded with white and black oak, hickory, &c. A large quantity of ship timber may be had thereon. The main stage road to Philadelphia passes through this tract of land, and has at different periods been the property of Col. Thomas White, Robert Morris and George Galt. It adjoins the lands of Gen. Samuel Smith, Robert Welsh, Engelhard Yeiser, Daniel Bowley and Tobias E. Stansbury. This tract of land lies on the north side of Back River, where wild fowl are plenty in the season, several valuable fisheries are thereon and springs of excellent water; on the premises are 150,000 good bricks, lately burnt to erect a house, of which the foundation has been prepared.

No. 2. Part of a tract of land called Wells Manor, containing about 117 1/2 acres, all in woodland, lays level, between 6 and 7 miles from the city of Baltimore, adjoining lands of Ebenezer Flay and Thonburg and Miller: The new turnpike road will run near this tract of land: the soil is as good as any in the neighborhood.

No. 3. A three story brick Dwelling House, on Dugan's wharf, with back buildings, complete, a good dry cellar under the whole, and is an eligible situation for business.

No. 4. Betsy's Delight. A farm containing about 200 acres, situate in Harford county, about 10 miles from B. the Air, and 20 from Baltimore, adjoining the lands of Parson Davis: On this farm is a good apple and peach orchard, and was late the property of Hackett & Grant.

No. 5. The Ferry House and Ferry, on the west side of Susquehanna River, at Harre-de-Grace, with 4 acres of land thereunto belonging: the house is built with brick, large, commodious and airy, with extensive stables, and all necessary out buildings.

No. 6. The Ferry House and Ferry on the east side of Susquehanna River, where Captain Coffield now resides, with 4 acres of land thereunto belonging: to this property is attached the exclusive right of the ferry over said river for several miles above and below it.

No. 7. 64,000 acrs. of land, lying in Randolph county, state of Virginia, about 150 miles from Baltimore, and 200 from the city of Washington.—This land is of the first quality and very heavily timbered.

No. 8. A lot of ten acres of woodland adjoining the town of Havre-de-Grace, being part of a tract of land called the Consequence.

No. 9. About one acre of land in Harre-de-Grace, bounded in part by the river Susquehanna, whereon is a good fishery.

N. B. The tracts Nos. 1. and 7. will be sold in lots to suit the purchasers, plots of which may be seen at Mr. John Bouldin's Old Town, Nos. 5 and 6 will be sold separate or together to suit those who may be inclined to purchase; but the sale of No. 5, shall not be considered as binding upon me, if the price offered for No. 6, should be inadequate to what I may think the value of it.
The above property will be offered for sale on SATURDAY, the 23d inst. at 11 o'clock, at Thomas Chiss's vendue warehouse in Frederick street.—The titles to the whole are indubitable, terms will be accommodating and made known on the day of sale.

From the Boston Palladium.
Messrs. EDITORS,
Being a mariner I think it a duty incumbent on me to give the public every information that may tend to promote the safety and prosperity of navigation. I therefore take this method to acquaint them of a new discovery of an island lying on the Pacific Ocean, which took place on board the ship Nancy, under my command, on her late voyage from Europe to Canton. Yours, &c.
J. CROCKER.
Extract from the Journal,
Thursday, 20th December, 1804.—
Variable winds, mostly from N. E. with squalls and calms, steered N. N. W. At 1 P. M. we very unexpectedly discovered from the poop-deck an Island, bearing N. E. by N. 1-4 N. distant about 11 leagues. At 6 do. it bore N. E. about 7 leagues to the nearest shore. It appeared to be about 12 or 15 miles long, from N. N. W. to S. S. E. It is quite high land, with some considerable mountains in the middle, and I presume may be seen off deck at the distance of 15 leagues in clear weather. Its latitude I make, from good observation of the Sun's latitude, to be 5 deg. 12 min. and from an observation of a Star's altitude, which the Island was seen East of us, to be 5 deg. 11 min. North; and its longitude from two sets of distances of Moon and Star, taken when about 50 miles from it, to be 162 deg. 58 min. East of Greenwich. Having no such Island laid down in any of my Charts (India Pilot) I conclude it must be a new discovery, and as such I name it STRONG'S ISLAND, in compliment to CALIB STRONG, esq. Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
[Captain Swaine, of Nantucket, on a voyage to India about two years since, discovered an Island, not laid down in any Chart he had on board, nor in any accounts of voyagers he had read. It was inhabited, but the people appeared never to have seen a ship before. We never heard the latitude or longitude mentioned in which this Island was situated; but should be happy to receive any communication from Captain S. which would determine whether the island he saw was the same mentioned by Captain Crocker. The publication of the discovery made by navigators, and their detection of errors in Maps, is of great utility, and is worthy of universal attention.]
Palladium.

From the National Intelligencer.
The contents of every mail we receive are charged with sentiments of indignation at the unjust treatment of our citizens and search by the unrelenting European powers. Without any pretence whatever, their ships of war are permitted to lawless violence, to seize the property of the honest trader, insult is frequently added to injury and the civil authority, in numerous instances, justly outraged by a cruel violation of ship and cargo. It is not surprising that a nation whose rights are thus trampled upon should demand redress; and that the voice of public opinion, that we believe the people is approaching when this redress will be had, or those of whom it is fruitlessly claimed, will be made to pay the cost. That governments whose vital interests depend on a good understanding with us, nations whose colonies are entirely at our mercy, and whose manufactures we can any moment paralyze, should be thus blind to their interests is matter of supreme astonishment to us. But to them it cannot be surprising if in the just promotion of our interests against lawless violence and meditated wrongs, we should aim a fatal blow at theirs.
What would England say to an imposition of heavy duties on all her manufactured fabrics, the want of which we could supply in other markets?—What would she say to refusing permission to any of her ships to enter our harbours?—What would she say to withholding all supplies from her islands?—What would she say to an embargo?—What would she say to a prohibition of all intercourse?
These are awful considerations; but we venture to predict that they will occupy the serious deliberations of Congress at their ensuing session. We venture to predict that every representative from the east to the west, from the north to the south, will come armed with the resentment of his constituents against the invaders of our rights. The next is a new Congress. Its members may therefore be expected unequivocally to speak the language of the people. Pacifick as is the disposition of America, it may be that the storm will burst before foreign nations are aware of it. But let them recollect that the thunder has long rolled at a distance; that they were long since warned of the danger of awakening the Lion. Let them recollect that at the last session, on the 2nd of March, the following resolutions were adopted by the Senate.
Resolved, That the secretary of state be directed to lay before this house, at the next meeting of Congress, such laws of Great Britain as impose any higher or greater duties on the exportation of goods, wares, and merchandize to the United States than are imposed on similar goods, wares, and merchandize, when exported to the nations of Europe; and also to report the amount, in sterling money, of the exports to the United States from Great Britain and Ireland, for the years 1802, 1803, and 1804, on which such duties are charged.

Resolved, That the secretary of the treasury be directed to report to this house, at the next meeting of Congress, a statement, showing the value (exclusive to the prime cost) in sterling money, of Irish linens, and all other manufactures of linens, of sail duck, nails, bars, looking glasses, plated and glass wares, ribbons, silks of all kinds, printed linen and cotton; and the quantity of British silk and mus, imported into the United States, from Great Britain and her dependent colonies, during the year 1802, 1803, and 1804; and also, the value of linens imported into the United States from all other foreign nations.
During the ensuing session those reports will be made. Will they not furnish the materials for a just and honorable retaliation?
So comparatively inulterable are the United States with foreign powers, and so numerous are the weak points of the latter, that it is difficult to say what species of redress it becomes our government to take, in case of non-redress shall be unavailing. Such however is the existing state of our foreign relations, that we think the subjects to which we have alluded, well worthy of the publick attention, in order to throw light on them, we shall from time to time about several interesting documents, which time has, perhaps, thrown into too deep a pen obscurity. They will generally speak for themselves, lives without the aid of commentary.

HARTFORD, NOVEMBER 7.
At a meeting of the Republican members of the Legislature, and other republican citizens convened at New Haven, it was the general sentiment of the meeting to give a tribute of respect to the distinguished talents, and patriotic services of JOEL BARLOW, Esq. Captain in the army, a long absence, to his native State.
A committee was accordingly appointed to draft a address and the following being reported, was adopted by the meeting, and the chairman requested to sign the same and present it to the Legislature. It was proposed also to have a public dinner, and to present the address to the Hon. Mr. Barlow, who is accordingly to be the subject of the time of the members of the Legislature was suggested by the distinguished gentleman that it was, on reflection, deemed better to have an entertainment in the evening—ABRAHAM BISHOP, Esq. therefore gave a very handsome entertainment at his own house, on the evening of the 2d inst., to about 150, composed of members of the Legislature and other respectable republican citizens.
JOEL BARLOW, Esq.

The Republicans of the State of Connecticut convened at New Haven, on the 6th inst. for their annual celebration on your safe return to your native State.
Your health, the light of your resolution enabled you to do more, the blessing, which the wisdom of future statesmen would yield to a nation of free men.

Timely as your residence in Europe you have had high looking at the present day, who, without motives of ambition and avarice and a less subservient to the rights of man. Upheld by the Constitution of America, your public life has been a life of study and industry and in the midst of your labors you have not forgotten the duties of a citizen.
You have returned at a season when the publications of your political sentiments will not be unprofitable to you, and will be read with interest and respect by a large and an increasing majority of your fellow citizens, and your noble and patriotic feelings will be held in honor as if you still resided there, in the midst of the most enlightened public. At this moment you will have the happiness of seeing the mature thoughts of your youth ripened by experienced statesmen, and the fruits of philosophy, bearing interesting results under a republican administration.

For the part you have taken on the theatre of political life you will continue to be abused by the enemies of liberty in proportion to their esteem for your merits. As you have seen mightier foes you will not be turned from the even tenor of your life, but will add to the treasures of your country from the stores of your experience and reflection.

We hope that you will make this State the place of your permanent residence, but wherever you may be, our best wishes will accompany you.
May you be preserved to witness the fullness of that political happiness, which is rapidly advancing under the best experiments on the only true theory of government.

Signed in order,
JOSEPH WILLCOX, Chairman.
[To the foregoing Mr. Barlow returned the following reply.]
Extracted from the State of Connecticut
Nov. 7, 1805.

GENTLEMEN,
THE vast improvements which I every where observe on the face of our country, and the augmentation of public happiness, which accompany those improvements, have filled my heart with exultation; and would cause me to regret so long an absence, were I not conscious of having done every thing in my power to promote the principles of our institutions, while I could not, with you participate these blessings. If any thing could enhance the pleasure I promised myself in returning to my native state, it is the cordial reception I have met from my fellow-citizens; especially from that numerous class whom I find on the same high ground of principle on which I left them; and who have never sought to overcome the system of social order which their fathers and they had established by the revolution.
You will not doubt the sincerity of my thanks for the fraternal and affectionate manner in which you bid me welcome. I pray you, accept in your turn my most ardent wishes for your own prosperity, while we jointly to promote labor that of the great family of confederated America, of which we are members.
We must all be sensible that much remains to be done. The field of political science is immense; and it has but lately begun to be explored. The theory of human rights seems indeed to be understood; the fabric of the American empire is founded thereon. But it is of great importance to prove to the world, and even to ourselves, that the fabric of this empire is the best organization of liberty hitherto experienced; so as to discourage the efforts of those who may be laboring to pull it down. For this purpose we have need of patient and clear explanations; unceasing watchfulness, and a constant control of those erroneous habits of thinking, the companions of false ambition, which seek the happiness of the few,
