SATURDAY, JANUARI 19, 1806

We were informed last evening that he Honorable Mr. HANSON, Chancellor of this state, died suddenly on-Thursday evening last, by a stroke of poplexy.

The exhibition of a Gallery of Portraits, of the principal members in the House, of Delegates of this state, has been commenced by the editor of the "Republican Advocate." With much spirit and ingenuity he has proceeded so far as to Jumish, what appears, an impartial survey of the characters of Messrs. Montgomery, Shaaff and Stephen. The latter gentleman being our i.nmediate representative, has induced us to present our readers with the following extracts from , the portraiture given of him-they contain characteristic traits in such handsome biographic style, as cannot fail to please.

" It has been the enviable fortune of this young man to be the author of his own fame. Unaided by the influence of for the organization and regulation of the courts powerful friends, official patronage, or an ample fortune, Stephen ushered himself into the world with equal ability and judgment. That character and that applause which others are whole years in acquiring, he grasped in an instant. The citizens of Baltimere (one of whose Delegates he is) had read his political disthey heard him speak, and were enrapthe embrace, and became a leader of the rity of five vetes. faithful."

ging kind. The indiscriminate delence to sustain an unnatural war on free comof right and wrong, which Junius tells merce, it is therefore properly enough ous distroys the clearness of the under | edled " Warin disquise" an answer to standings of most of the gentlemen of this pamphlet might be written with great the bar, has not preyed upon his facul- lease and some use—it might be approprities; and in Mr. Stephen a client is sure ately called " Piracy Ummasked." to find strict honesty and nice honor united. His legal knowledge is great for a young man. Future years will find him blooming in the wisdom of his profession; and should he live till time has scattered the hoariness of sixty winters over his head, his studies and reflections must inevitably render him an ornament to this state, and a ruling star of this na-

As an orator, he is to be ranked among the first order. Amidst the full flow of the most beautiful expressions that any man could útter, he possesses coolness, penatration, and solid thought. Words issue from his lips as if by inspiration; and he is entirely dirested of that pausing method of delivery, which mars all sense, and confounds all reasoning. As age rises upon him, he will acquire more acquaintance with the true nature of mankind, which is perhaps the greatest deficiency of knowledge that he at present labors under.

In politics, Mr. Stephen is a Republican, but no anarchist; a friend to reform, where the people demand it and it is necessary, but-no inflammatory revolutionist. He advocated the abolition of the is quoted nearly the same as on Friday. late judiciary system, because a great mujority of the people of this state required it; and because he foresaw that in case it was not annihilated, a frightful aristocracy would preponderate once more in the Senate of Maryland.

The last measure of considerable consequence, brought forward by Mr. Stephen, after his entrance into the legislature, was the abolition of religious tests-a step which did infinite honour to his head as a politician-but much more to his heart as a tolerant Christian. The propositionwas rejected by an almost silent vote; the only way of doing business effectually in all cases where expediency is adopted in the place of right.

Let the Republicans heap blessings, and honors, and wealth, upon this man, · for he deserves them all."

Extract of a letter from the Havannah, dated Dec. 25. "We have lately seen an order, of General Ferrand, directing the French privatcers to carry into St. Domingo, and elsewhere, all vessels and property found on the high seas, belonging to any person who has ever been, in any manner, concerned in the trade of the island of St. He has furnished the privateers with the names of the persons in the United States, who have been directly or indirectly concerned in that trade. Several strong French privateers have come round to Matanzas, where they continue to remain, as we presume, for the purpos: of intercepting the goods and vessels of such persons above mentioned, who are now trading to this island.

On Saturday the 4th inst. the bill to provide of common law, in this state, and for the administration of justice therein, was read a second time and passed, with some amendments in the sixth and seventh sections; and on Monday was sent to the Senate, who returned the same on Thursday last, with the sum of 2,400 dollars for the chief Judges, and 1,500 for the Associates, instead o 2,000, and 1,300, as passed the lower house.
