A Valuable Periodical Work! MONTHLY ANTHOLOGY;

Omnes un'lique floscules carpem atque delibem.

BOSTON REVIEW.

T seems conceded that a repository for correct L notices of all American purlications, for just . wie ism. for the lar abrations of m nof learning and taste, and indeed for whatever is propitious to the arts and seisnees, or to individual and national improvement, deserves and ought to experience success.

That the Monthly Anthology, and Boston Review has been judicional divoted to these of plets, we infer from its of reasing p from ge. and from the approbation it has received from many of our wisest and best conzens, who have found it to contain instructive on ' one sug speculations and interesting narratives. The Review we wish to be the history of the chemperary literature of our country, giving correct and importial reviews of all Americ or works, and notices of foreign works re-published in the United States; and, to give a more permanest value to the work, we intend to add eight additional pages to the surreceding numbers. which we shall devote to the publication of American state papers, and generally of authe nticated documents, having for their objects the history, biography, &c. of our country, to o be published as an a que dix to the Authology," arged by i.self, in order that subscribers may, -it they please, bind it as a separate volume. Still we have to regret, that it has not been more general yeliffused, porticularly as a society of great's men, some of which are men of undoubted talents and established reputation, is pledged for its support. Under their direction we feel confident, that it will prove highly advantageous to the cause of science; that it will tend o'correct public taste; and that it will se instrumental in directing attention to such works only as have merit, and in preventing the loss of much time in the individual examination of the invitable of trides that continuals flutter from the press. That such a work should not generally extend its benign influence must inshed be regretted, and we can only attribute the small patronage, it has hitherto received from abroad, to its not being more generally
