April Silver The condition of the cessions which have been extorted in Westphalia, from. the court of Berlin, has not long remained undetermined. The sovereignty of these territories is conferred upon him, with the same restrictions and limitations that Bonsparte has been pleased to set to the inheritance of the throne he has usurped. It is to be descendible, in default of male issue on the part of Prince Joachim (the title of the new Dake) to Prince Joseph and prince Louis, and their respective heirs, but it is in no case to revert to France.

He stated with great perspicuity the nature of that trade from the year 1783 to the present period, and the necessity which produced the occasional relaxation of the Navigation Laws, as applicable to the intercourse between America and the West Indies. During the greater part of that time, it frepuently occurred, that the different Governors in the colonies were compelled to admit certain articles, can bottoms. This was certainly against the existing laws, and therefore it became necessary to pass an Annual Bill, to protect those persons from the penalties attached to the breach of these laws. For fifteen years previous to 1801 this Indem-; ni:y Bill was continued, but in the confusion produced at that time by a charge in his Majesty's Councils, the Bill mad been neglected, and had not been since revived.
