As in the cale of brig Hannah. It is the same with contraband, and breach of blockade, all be ing considered as illegal acts or inten tions, and his principle has been extended to a much greater length in the cate. of brig Romulus; for there, by an attempt made to rescue by the captain, the judge held that the criminality of the act affected all the property on board most of which was on freight.

The most trifling prevarication or contradiction in the evidence of the captain subjects the owner to expences which are feldom less than from 2 to 11 hundred dollars, and in some instances have amounted to 2000 dollars, as in the case of the John and Frances, where there were many affidavits taken and translations made. The character of the captain as well as the owner or others concerned in cargo appearing before the court in an equivocal light, is considered in a terious point of view; II.1.na. and although proceeding from madver-It inding interrogatories, the complexity of which is fuch that it is almost imp iffivie the captain thould not commit himfelf, he is subjected to the abulive fourrility of a young gentleman who acts as" council on the part of the captors, and fure of being thouldered with the weighty costs, and possibly with the lass or ad venture, or of his owners property.

It is due to the character of the judge of the vice court of admiralry at Italiax, to observe, that although ne strictly adheres to the line of pource marked at for him by his government, that he trequently sacrances feelings to duty, but seems asposed to lavor the fair neutral character, in every case before him, where his honesty does not clash with his instructions.

Seven of the above yessels captured by called home to account for it.

Admiral Berkley is appointed to the Halifux station, and is shortly expected out .--His captain is Robert Laurie, his uniform urbanity and respect for the neutral character and himself, are well known.

The discussions last night in the couse of commons are figury interesting to the nation at large. The Coare line of the i'xeneques, m'intro ucung his promised motion respecting the public accounts in the West Indies, entered rather unexpertially into a rong and very important letail of the mia mes in contemplation for the better in magement of the public accounts in general. From his Lordship's statement it appeared, that very little had be n done towards examining the publi. accounts since the American war. The amount of the accounts now examin d was Four Hundred and Fifty-five Millions -a, sum equal to the amount of the National Debt! Instead of five commissioners, ten are about to be appointed. These commissioners are to be divided into three distinct boards, with the power, however, of communicating with east other. - One of these boards is to tak up the accounts now und rexaminationthe second board to examine the long arrears of the Navy-and the third is to be entrusted with the remaining accounts, commencing from December List. The ten commissioners, after the present p essure of business has subsided, are to b reduced to six, and the three boards converted into one.

Extract of a letter received in Philadelfilia, dated Liverfool, May 24, 1806. "The damp occasioned by political occurrences still hangs upon our export trade. The demand for common Cuttons was free (particularly for low American. cottons) until the close of the list week, when some heavy sales of West-Indies, of a description not much wanted, were brought forward, and meeting a dull demand, gave rather a check to the market; but the holders have been steady in their pric 4, and some few sales are making, viz Middling Uplands, 16d a 16d 12; fi e 17d-New-Orleans, very prime, 19d. middling, 13 !. and mixed, 17 a 17d 1.2. The trade in the manuf. cluring towns is rather better, but still very much dipressed; and under the situation of af-Lairs with the Continent, we are unwilling to hold out any inducements for arrangements in America further than we have dready done. EUROPEAN POLITICS.

T e intelligence, by the Liberty, arrived at New York, has once more deranged exhibited the unsettled state of European polises.

Should it be a fact, that Prussia has made peace with England and the cabinet of St. Cloud is not the sole director of that heace, then we hesitate not to say that there will be war littween Bonaparte and Frederick of Prussia.

The publication of the famous letter of count Hardenburg, in which he asserted that-the treaty entered into by Haugwitz, was unknown to his king, and unauthorized by him, must have convinced Honafiarte that Prussia was not guided by one particle of regard for subsisting treaties, but would certainly have acted against France had the least reverse of fortune happened to the French armies in Germany-if the publication of that letter has been the ocestimates.
