A STOCKHOLDER
In the Mechanics' Bank.

Mr. CHRISTIAN MAYER will be strongly supported as a Director in the Mechanics' Bank of Baltimore at the ensuing election by a great number of Stockholders.

July 11. d3t
Mr. PECHIN,
I CANNOT but express my astonishment at so many nominations for directors of the Mechanics' Bank, and upon what ground they are made. In my mind, those who have borne the fatigue and drudgery of the day, if they possess sufficient sense to direct its concerns; and, I presume, no doubt can exist on that head, are best entitled to the suffrages of the stockholders.

AS a large Stockholder in the Mechanics' Bank of Baltimore, I have made up my mind to take those steps which will prevent the establishment of another bank in this place for at least ten years to come, and as the first & most efficacious measure towards this end, have determined to vote for a single commissioner as a director. I have no pretensions to the place myself, but a personal esteem and friendship for most of them—but, thinking that personal considerations should not be sacrificed to important duty, I recommend, earnestly recommending, this measure to the stockholders. Another bank is in embryo, and as long as commissioners are chosen as directors, there will be no end to them, till they devour each other, and involve our town in ruin.

July 11. d3t
Mr. PECHIN,
The following gentlemen are recommended as proper persons for directors of the Mechanics' Bank of Baltimore, and will be supported by a number of Stockholders.

A number of Mechanics having agreed to vote for the following gentlemen as directors of the Mechanics' Bank, and believing them friendly to the principles on which the articles of association are founded, I send them to you for publication.

NEW-YORK July 10.

The Rising Sun, from Martinique for this port, was captured on Monday on the Hook, by the British frigate Cambrian, and ordered for Halifax.

Extract of a letter from an American gentleman in England to his friend in Boston.

"We have accounts that the bill limiting the importation of British goods to certain articles, has passed the house of representatives, and was under discussion in the senate. The merchants in England, knowing our country to have just and great cause of complaint, and finding it has arrested the attention of our rulers, fear the business will not stop with this bill; and their fear is strengthened by a knowledge of the determination of his majesty's ministers to adhere to the same plan of proceedings, which has so justly given umbrage to the Americans.

"I do not think that Great-Britain feels, at present, disposed to alter her conduct; the papers daily teem with intelligence of American vessels being detained; the British ports are full of them, and the object of their cruises appears to be more what they denominate, 'War in Disguise,' than to injure their enemies.

"The capture of Linois, with 3,000,000 sterling on board the Marengo, has had a considerable effect on the public spirit.

"Since writing the above, I am told, that Mr. Fox has given it to be understood, that in case the American non-importation bill above alluded to passes the senate, and is sanctioned by the president, then an embargo will be laid on American vessels until the points in dispute with our country shall be settled.

A paper of which the following is a copy was sent up from the British frigate Cambrian, stating the reasons for firing at the Bostack.

"The Cambrian boarded the sch'r Fancy from Jamaica, at 8 o'clock P. M. and a ship at 8 A. M. The Cambrian found that an English seaman had deserted, and had swam on board either the schooner or ship. At daylight the Cambrian made sail after them to retake the deserter, but could not come up to the ship after having fired several shot very near to her, and within four miles of the land. The Cambrian afterwards boarded and examined the schooner, and there found the deserter, a native born Englishman."

(The deserter above mentioned was three hours in the water, swimming from the Cambrian to the schooner Fancy.)
The British frigate Cambrian sailed for Halifax on Wednesday evening.

NORFOLK, July 7.
Jerome Bonaparte.—On Friday last arrived in 14 days from Martinique, the sch'r Patriot, captain Hulson, from whom we learn, that on the 10th ult. Jerome Bonaparte arrived in a ship of the line at Port Royal; that on the 16th 2 other ships of the line arrived, the latter having been chased by admiral Cochrane in the Northumberland, with a frigate. Before capt. H. left Martinique, admiral Cochrane, with three ships of the line and several frigates, were blockading the French ships.

It was reported, that three more ships of the line and two frigates were daily expected at Martinique. At present we can only conjecture as to the cause, which has occasioned the separation of the fleet to which Jerome Bonaparte was attached; we may conclude that the separation has not been voluntary, nor shall we be surprised to learn that a battle has taken place, in which the French have been defeated. This fleet consisted of 7 ships of the line, and 3 frigates arriving in this dispersed manner, does not look well.

COMMERCIAL DAILY ADVERTISER

MONDAY, JULY 11, 1836

We call this day with sincere pleasure, as the happy period when, on a season at least, will relieve our columns from the weighty pressure of Bank nominations! And on the joyful occasion, it affords a source of consolation to add, that although our paper is to-day inundated with lists, we shall still be enabled to preserve our types from the fury of the flood!

For the omission of several pieces respecting the Mechanics' Bank, we hope, a reference to our notes on the subject, will furnish to the writers a sufficient apology.

Sch'r Maria, hence, arrived at Montego Bay, in 20 days. Brig Falcon, Arica, sailed for this port from Madeira, on the 16th May, and schooner Three sisters, Richn, was to sail on the 20th.

The brig Sea Flower, was discharging at Antigua, 15 days ago.

The governor of Pennsylvania has appointed Dr. George Berman, of this city, Physician at the Lazaretto in that state.

Reports (says the Aurora of Friday) have been in circulation for two or three days, that a duel had been recently fought between the Messrs. Randolphs—we do not believe that any credit is due to the rumor.

We hear that on the 3d inst. the stone church at Port Tobacco was blown down by the most violent wind ever experienced at that place. Hundreds of large trees were also levelled to the ground, and several houses utterly destroyed. A canoe with a man fishing, was taken up out of the water and carried upwards of a hundred yards without hurting the man, to the plantation of a gentleman. Several persons were injured.

[Washington Fed.]
Mr. Pechin is requested to insert the following in his very valuable paper, and he will oblige his friends at Elkton.

ELKTON, July 5.
Yesterday being the anniversary of American independence, it was celebrated in this village with the most unanimous demonstration of patriotism and festivity. The declaration of American independence, was read by William Alexander, esq. and an eloquent and pertinent oration was delivered by James Boyle, esq. in the court house, to a respectable and crowded audience; the large assemblage of ladies who gave testimonies of mutual congratulations on this auspicious day, was peculiarly gratifying.

—after the ladies had partaken of the entertainments of the morning, the gentlemen marched with martial music to Union Grove, where they enjoyed an excellent collation prepared for the occasion. —David Smith, esq. and William Alexander, esq. presiding. The day was spent with good humour, order and happiness, and the following toasts were drank.

1. The birth day of our national government.—May Americans ever know how to prize and reverence it. Hail Columbia.
2. The people.—May they ever be virtuous, brave, and free. Yankee Doodle.

3. The United States of America.—May republican principles govern them, and their citizens never tremble at the sword, or blush at the plough. Washington's march.

4. The president of the United States, the great statesman and philosopher, the friend to liberty and equal rights. Jefferson and liberty.

5. The friends to constitutional reform in Maryland.—May they be wise, prudent, and patriotic. Variety.

6. The governor of Maryland.—May he be made acquainted with the people, by the introduction of elective franchise. The council chamber.

7. The next senate of Maryland.—May its term be commensurate with the wishes of a free people and its vacancies supplied by those from whom all government originates. White cockade.

8. Prosperity to the state of Maryland.—May her agriculture flourish, her mechanics, thrive and her commerce be extended to the remotest part of the earth. America, commerce and freedom.

9. The legislature of Maryland, republicans in hearts, and framers of republican laws.—May they give us an effective militia law, founded on the approbation of the people. Vive la.

10. The memory of those heroes who fell in our struggle for liberty, and who cemented the fabric of independence with their blood.—May we emulate their virtues, and when our country calls, evince the like glorious spirit. Roslin Castle.

11. The Militia of Maryland.—May it soon have laws to organize it, and not be insulted with an act whose consumptive habits scarcely permits it to live from session to session and whose existence is known only in the walls of the state house. Sign ye heroes.

12. Our brave seamen, who have made our insulted flag respected in the Mediterranean, as they have begun with Barbary, may they end with the pirates of Britain.—The midshipman.

13. The small band of American heroes who traversed the desert of Barca.—May they exchange a solitary waste of sand for the brightest laurels which a grateful and just country can bestow. Columbia's glory.

14. Miranda.—If his design be to connect an empire, it may be successful, but if under the mask of friendship, he wishes to erect an empire for himself, may the waves of the ocean dash the Leader to pieces and its ministers be ready to devour its commander. Any thing or nothing.

15. The friends of liberty throughout the world.—A large family acknowledging a common parent. Love and harmony.

16. Louisiana.—Like Egypt may she prove the granary of the world, and the waters of the Mississippi be as fertilizing as those of the Nile. Jefferson's march.

17. The fair sex, virtuous as fair.—May the lords of the creation respect, protect and consider them as their equals, and may they press in their arms those who live in their hearts. Guardian angels.

VOLUNTEERS.
By the president.—When the plough is more productive than the demand for its produce—may the spinning wheel and shuttles increase and keep up the demand to par at least.

By the vice-president.—A peaceful negotiation.—May the purchase of the Floridas prove as splendid an achievement as the purchase of Louisiana.

By Dr. George E. Mitchell.—James B. the orator of the day.—A good republican aid a friend to every noble sentiment.

By the Rev. Francis Hindman.—May the people of the United States of America always steam unity, as the foundation of power and virtue as the road to prosperity and happiness.

By Mr. Campbell Chambers.—The progress of literature.

From the Merchants' Coffee-House Docks July 12.

Arrived, sch'r. Roby, Wilson, 24 days from St. Jago—sugar, cotton and hides, cocoa and beeswax—John McKim and others. Sailed the 18th of June. Left sch'r. Sally, Watts, in 4 days; brig Stutson, Payton, for New-York, same time; Hermaphrodite brig —, Christie, sailed a few days before, and was taken by an English sloop of war, and sent to Jamaica.

Left a Baltimore schooner, captain Conry, uncertain; and one or two more American vessels, names unknown. Saw 2 or 3 going in. Brig Sea-Nymph, of and for Philadelphia, sailed 10 days before. A New-York schooner from New-Orleans, bound to Trinidad, (Cuba) was taken by a French privateer, and carried to St. Jago, about 14 days before the Roby sailed. The day before they made the land, spoke a schooner, capt. Monroe, from New-Providence, for Baltimore. Passed nothing in the bay bound up.

On the 21st ult. was spoken by the tender of the sloop of war Reynard, capt. Coslan, who after examining the vessel's papers, detained him till the morning, and ordered him along-side of the ship; and at 8 o'clock, was boarded by the ship's boat and ordered on board with his papers, which the captain took and threw into the cabin without opening them, & sent two officers and a crew to search the vessel; after some time, finding the bills of lading after another to search for the money, and at length went himself, and had every thing in the cabin opened, and at last succeeded in finding 1500 dollars, in 3 bags, which he found in 3 bread barrels. He and his officers also stepped in a most shameful manner, the persons of the lady passengers, and also the sailors, searching for papers and money, threatening to put the sailors in irons if they did not tell him where the rest of the money was, of which they were ignorant, the money being in barrels of limes on deck. He also broke open all the letters on board. In the afternoon put a prize-master and six men on board, and told captain Wilson he would send him to Jamaica, then ordered the prize-master to follow the ship, which he did until they were to the southward and eastward of cape Tibberon. On the 23d, in the afternoon, he told capt. Wilson that he had no reason to send him to Jamaica, and that he would dismiss him. Capt. W. refused to take charge of the schooner unless he got back his money. Capt. C. told him he would keep the money, and that if he did not immediately go on board, he would send him by force. The captain then demanded his receipt for the money which he gave him; but as soon as capt. Wilson was on board, he set all sail and left him.
