Proposals for Printing.

The Trial; OR, THE LAW EXPLAINED.

N a case stated respecting the duty, which a Lawyer owes to his client. It also shews, whether those who have been faithful in the discharge of the trust reposed in them, who done or do business in Baltimore, without any charge against their integrity, should be disturbed in their professional industry, or refused admission to practise in any court of Law; while any of a contrary character are permitted to do business. This is a subject interesting to society, individually and collectively, if integrity be necessary to a client, or justice reverenced on the Bench. It is respect. fully submitted to the public judgment, for patronage and encouragement, from a hope, that . it will at least diffuse some share of usefuness;
