well. September 2d. lat. 36, 20, experienced another severe gale of wind blowing from S. S. E to W on the 5th lat 39, 02, spoke the ship Hibernia, dismasted captain Fossett, from Jamaica, fu! Boston, in distress supplied her with bread, water and provisions, and took three men from him, viz. Charles Orman, John Solar, and a Frenc's prisoner, put on board at Jamaica—whom he pickedl up at sea in a long boat belonging to the ship Francis, from Jamaica for London, which les Orman, of London relates, that he Hill, Clate Gibson who died in Jamaica) on the 27th of July, from Jamaica as one of affect of one hundred and fifty sail unfrigates, one of them the Egyptienne of 44 guns; that on the 25th Aug. lat. 26, 20, long. 79,59, they experienced a severe gale of wind, when the Francis becamela mere wrick, n which capt. Hall! the carpenter, one foremast-man and two apprentices took to the yawl, which was very leaky, and left the ship on the 26th; the remainder of the crew, 10 in number, having put a few articles into the long boat, she soon washed overboard, & nearly filled, by which incans they lost their water and provisions, except some triffes and a few bottles of porter. On the day after they took to the boat, the wind, if possible, was more violent. The ship they saw go down, before they left | her, and while in the boat drifting about, they at different times saw five vessels boltom up, two of them copper-bottomed, and which they suppose to be part of the fleet, one half of which, they think ! it not improbable, must have shared a similar fate with thems: Ives .- On the 9th day after leaving the Francis, they fell in with the ship Hib-rnia, capt. Fossat, who took the survivors, 6 in number on board. when, the next day, she encountered another gale, that carried away her bowsprit, her fore and main top masts. Bring short of provisions, when she fell in with the Clio, put on board of her 3 of the crew, who brought them in as above i related. James Williams died on board ! the boat the day they got on board the A British brig, deserted by her crew and loaded with coffee, is arrived at Philadelphia, having been taken possession of by a pilot.
