the legislature by extreme assiduity, and squadron separated, they were on their by adopting some particular objects as | way to Porto Rico, to take in water and his intention, which were ingeniously provisions, to return to France. They calculated to insinuate the measures railier | parted from the Veteran, (Jeronie, Ballathan the man, into favor; the experiment parte's ship) about the 25th July, when has proved him incapable of introducing she proceeded to Europe. On the 20th his noise for wisdom, or his schemes as August they took the gule, and that night the result of genius ; - without knowledge | they all parted. to arrange, or abilities to urge them, they were generally considered as absurd, and treated with indifference. Mr. Ogden may properly be termed one of your notional beings-and thinks too, that all his notions are entitled to a great deal of the public attention—that the public ought Hollingsworths of Baltimore, and was tato adopt his ideas, and send him, for south, to the legislature, to put them into execution! He is the only diversity in poli- with the produce of the island. The tics from the rest of the candidates—and fact alledged of its being, both ship in this, I view him in a most suspicious light. It is a fact, however, that in most political questions which was before the assembly last session, he acted with the federal party; yet he professes to be a republican. Leaving a discussion of politics out of the question, (for it is foreign from my intentions to examine the merit of parties) I should reasonably suppose that this trimming would insure him the opposition of every person of every party that despised dissimulation.

· The sixth candidate for consideration is Mr. Peter Little, who is making this first essay for public suffrage. An ucquaintance with this gentleman for many years enables me to speak with confidence of the excellence of his principles and the natural goodness of his heart, as well as the restitude of his conduct and his judgment., His education has been well improved by his own attention; his information is general and his opinions liberal. cultivation-I will not indeed say that they will ever be conspicuously brilliant, but I am sure they want but opportunity to be useful. Invited (to my knowledge) by many influential friends, he comes forward emirely upon the basis of his own character, without opposing any candidate, or planing his popularity to any measures. I have heard it mentioned that his residing so close to the city will operate to his disadvantage through the lively jealousy of the county. To me, this will be an additional attachment, for his residence will make him more immediately conversant with the encroachments of an assuming corporation, whose etretches of authority I know him to be no friend to. Whilst the industrious habits of his life insures his regard for the convenience of that class of the community who most deserve legislative attention and protection. It will be un'ermood from the above, that I invite the confidence of the inhabitants of Baltimore county, for at least an experiment of Mr. Little's legislative capacities-and I am fully persuaded myself, that he wants only to be made known, and fairly repre-. - sented to the people to insure his election.

I hope I have been sufficiently intelligible to be understood that, of the six can-- didates, I intend from the above motives, to support as an individual,

Capt. T. E. St. nsbury, Al. Lemnion,

G. Harryman, and P. Little, as members to the next Legislature.

SINCERITY.

The inhabitants of our city, it is believed, at this season of the year, never enjoyed such a signal portion of health as they now do; indeed, we can in truth say, it would scarcely be in our power to cite even a solitary instance of sickness in the whole circle of our acquaintance.-How pleasing a source of felicity, and how productive it should be of gratitude to the Author of all Good---to render us worthy of the continuance of the blessing! This, added to the propitious prospects of a busy season, is flattering in the extreme. The present number of our fall arrivals, and the early and unusually extensive supply of our a erchants (as our crowded columns begin to testify) pressingly invite our country friends to honor our city with an early visit. We learn from some of our mercantile friends that the importations this season will furnish amore general assortment than our market ever possessed at any former period.

Such country merchants and others who are in arrears for the Country or Daily American, and who may at this season be visiting the city, are requested to favor as with a call.

For the information and convenience of country subscribers; and to promote the interest of our advertising friends, we shall insert advertisements (which require a country circulation) in the inner forms of the daily American, at least once a week, in order that they may appear at the same time in the country Gazette.

Gentlemen residing at a distance from the city are respectfully informed that the American for the country is well adapted, to render it worthy of their patronage !--ZNREE papers a week furnish ALL, the news contained in six numbers of the daily. American for the same period; with all - the new advertisements - and in fact, the repetition, once a week, of all those which can interestits country patrens. On this plan, it holds forth convenience and ecqnomy to country readers ;--- we mean, the saving of one half the trouble and expence attending transmission and receipt; together with the saving of two dollars in. the price of aubscription -- being that ! niuchless than the daily American.

Case of the BRILLIANT.

A letter from Halifax, dated August 28, says, " This morning I was present when the case of the Brilliant was brought up for decision. She was owned by the ken on her voyage from Martinique or Guadaloupe, going to that port and laden and cargo, American property, was fully established, and it was further proved, that the owners never re-exported but always sold the cargoes of their vessels to others. But it so happened that a cerfiticate of origin was found on board, relating to a cargo shipped on board another vessel, which the owners with a frankness and honesty, which should have procured them more just judgment, declared was intended to be delivered with the cargo to which it referred, in case the purchaser intended to export it, in order to obtain a remission of duties in the mother country. His honor the judge most wisely considered it as establishing the contnuity of the voyage, and accordingly condemned both ship and cargo. This judge, who figures away in a threetailed wig and scarlet robes, has it seems, written a book " on the trade of neutral,," the principles of which, Lowever absurd and contrary to law and justice, he is de-His talents are such as invite and reward | termined at all hazards to carry into prac-
