STATE PAPER, Declaration in council of bis Majesty she King of Prussia to the assembled deputies of the Hanoverian Provin.

" GENTLEMEN,

" By your appointment, your Deputy, count Von horseburg, has laid be ore tional sentiments therein contained are to me a fecurity, that you will henceforth to me and my House with the same loyalty which you discovered for your former Sovreigns. I therefore hake made no delay in more closely learning from your Delegates those Wm. Wilson and Sons, concerns that were entrusted to them by you, and now communicate you the following answer to the declaration given in by them: " 1. With regard to the secularization of the Abby of Marienrode, and the representation relative thereto, that not only the confederation of the States thereby suffered an alteration, but that one of the securities thereby appropriated to the public revenue, and the difcharge of the public debt, would be withdrawn, should the revenues of the faid Abbey be inseparably united with the possession of the domains, contrary to the legal agreement between impropriators and the States, whereby the revenues accruing from the secularize spiritual foundations shail be distinctly and separately applied to charitable purposes; it shall be observed, that this Abbey legally belongs to Hildesheim, and thus my particular regulation respecting the same, can in no ways prejudice the said constitution. Besides, I have expressly established in the Ast of fecularization, that in the mean time no change shall take place in respect to the contribution chargeable upon this Abbey, towards the national revenue and the redemption of the public debt. For the rest, as it is far from being my intention to alter the dest nation of the effects of the Abbey to charitable purposes, I seel satisfied in affuring you, that the special administration of such parts as have been separated from the domains and the applications thereof to such beneficent and laudable purposes, shall be scrupulously continued, and the utmost care shall be taken both to augment these revenues by good management, and to ameliorate the mode of applying them, by the removal of existing abules.

2. The ad interim prohibition of home made salt is to be considered sole. ly as an inevitable regulation of police for tecuring an equal tupply to that artiele of primary necessivy, and cannot have the apprehended pernicious consequences, since the supply of salt will not thereby be aiminithed, but will only receive another direction.

"3. The continuance of the hitherto existing Constitution of the country in general, and

"4. The continuance of the provincial constitutions in particular propose that a new and more intimate acquaintance with them may be more necessary, than the commission of Organization has been able to procure, in so short a period, and under such defficult cir-umstances. But they will incessantly continue their labours in his respect, and I will not herealter introduce any arbitrary changes, but fuch only as may be necessar; to unite as intimately as posfible, the Hanoverian territory with my monarchy, of which it constitutes a part, and to govern it by fuch laws as have been found, by long experience, and fundamental pillars of the power, the security and prosperity of the Prussian Sates; where from the established constitution will be so little excluded, that it will much rather be built up and lirengthened, as you may learn from the example of the neighbouring provinces, Brandenburg, Magdeburg and Halber-

"5. The petition, with regard to any new modifications, upon which the States, together with other privileged orders, who may, perhaps, have parti cular knowledge of the subject, shall be consulted, besore that introduction, or account of injurious consequences apprehended therefrom, is wholly contormable to the spirit of the maxims of the Prussian Government, and will be pursued by the Commission of organiza. tion in all doubtful cales whatfoever, and without particular instructions. Finally, the military regulations, as soon as it can be done with safety, shall extraordinary measures, shall wholly

" We have now to inform you of the restitution of the Union and cargo, on our paying the c ptors' expence. The judge, Sir William Scott, would not consider the voyage from Batavia to Philadelphia connected with the outward one from Amsterdam, and the whole question with the court was respecting the property; and although there was in his opinion strong evidence of its true nature, yet as the persons from whom this evidence was received, had been engaged in a colorable transaction (.lluding to clearing out for Tranquabar) in a former part of the business, he did not consider it improper to refer the case for the further proof, if wished for by the capters. With be so modified that the grievances of respect to that part of the cargo shipped the country, connected with the prefent on account of the George, he ordered immediate restitution. Upon this the king's advocate offered to restore the ship and cargo, on paying the captor's expences, which the court agreed to, and a restitution was ordered accordingly."
