ters, that he knows them to be genuine, as he is intimately acquainted with some of the persons who wrote them. He mentions, also, that a report was just received at Trinidad, by a Launch from defeated the captain general of the Caraccus near Valencia. The acequnts received from captain Rose, and published in our paper of last evening, was probably derived from the same-source.

Another letter, dated Trinidad, Sept. 23, says—"There appear now to be a probability that Miranda will eventually succeed. The Admiral on this station, is uffording him all t e assistance in his pomer; and has letely sent down to him a line of brittle ship and a frigue. It is also the opinion here, that the two regiments, daily expected from England, are certainly intended for the assistance of Miranda."
