

...to the supposition of his association with Col. Burr; but why not account for this recommendation on more charitable grounds? Is it a matter of such astonishment, that the present governor of Louisiana should recommend the present secretary of the Territory, as his successor? It must be astonishing ingenuity indeed that could extract "treason and stratagem" upon such materials as these.

By far the most suspicious of all the publications, which we have seen in allusion to this subject, is an enquiry instituted and even kept up in the Ohio Gazette, printed at Marietta, respecting Col. Burr's designs in the western country. Speaking of Col. B. the querist observes: "It should be known, however, to the intelligent of the western country, that the National Intelligencer will never dare to take part in the inculpation of one man, whose views a desperate paragrapher in Frankfort has foolishly attempted to fathom. A Wilkinson or a Brown may gaze for a moment on the ignis fatuus that has danced upon the swamps of Frankfort; but a spark from the genius of a Burr would diffuse the vapour."

On the 11th ultimo, after some very virulent remarks upon the present administration of the general government, the writer enquires into the remedy for these alleged evils: "Shall we compose our alarms in the hopes of reviving federalism and federalism? But that party, if it could be rallied, never will avail, never did co-operate in unity of sentiment of individuality of interest." The author seeks his remedy, as may naturally be conjectured, in the reunion of the Western from the Atlantic States. "A great previous question involving our dearest rights and independence, viz. 'how long these cis-Alleghany counties will continue, as at present, members of the Federal Union,' first demands our earnest investigation; and among the causes that have retarded or hitherto prevented the information of the people on both sides of the Alleghany on this subject; there seems no hesitation to enumerate the following: 1st. An impolitic jealousy of the growing wealth and consequence of the western country, cherished under various forms, by all parties in power, since the revolution; 2dly. Commercial prejudices in the Atlantic States; 3dly. The general poverty of a large majority of the emigrants to these western countries, and the greater facility they experience here of holding themselves in ordinary circumstances above that they possess to the eastward."

SATURDAY NOVEMBER 8, 1806

Brig Ann and Contempt, Williamson, cleared on Wednesday, at Philadelphia, for this port.

We are informed, says the Telegrapher, that Gabriel Wood, esq. late his Britannic majesty's consul resident at this place, has been appointed comptroller general of the West-Indies.

Joseph Bloomfield, esq. has been re-elected governor of New Jersey for the ensuing year, without opposition.

Captain Dunbar, of the brig Neptune, from Lisbon, informs us that Lord St. Vincent, with five sail of the line, and a frigate, was cruising off that port; and that an additional four sail of the line blocked up the mouth of the harbor. The U. S. frigate Constitution was there getting in new spars, &c.

Letters of a recent date have been received in town from Cincinnati and other parts of the western country, none of which make any mention of the existence of disturbances or the prospect of them. U. S. Gaz.

Our old Friends.—The following affidavit is submitted to the reader without a comment. (N. Y. Citizen.)

City of New-York, ss.
David Brown, being duly sworn deposes and says that he was born in New-York, and was in the American service as a seaman, in the ship Mary Ann, of this port, commanded by captain Seron.—This deponent says he was preferred from on board said ship in the East-Indies, and remained on board of British war ships for six years, and was two years and six months on board the Victory, a British war ship commanded by Lord Nelson; and it happened that on the 4th July, 1805, laying at Spithead, that this deponent and several preferred Americans was drinking and singing songs; and when they came to reflect on its being the day of their National Independence, Isaac Van Dyckman said he would give a toast, and drank that the Liberty Tree might be planted down the main hatchway, and its branches spread through the British Navy. Shortly after the said Van Dyckman was put in irons for the saying, and was tried for it on the 8th and found guilty, and executed on the 11th of the same month, on board of the aforesaid Victory, for nothing but drinking the toast as above. The deponent says Van Dyckman's release was on board of said ship for eleven months before this took place, and further this deponent faith not.

Sworn to before me this 23d day of September, 1806.

Captain cure for Worms in Children.
Take juice of rue and wormwood together with honey and fine rye flour, of each a small quantity; to these add half an ounce of aloe pounded fine, mix them all together, and divide the composition into two plasters, thinly spread. Lay on the first from the throat to the pit of the stomach; & let it stay on twelve hours; then put the other close below that; & let them stay on 12 hours longer.—The fever will abate and the worms be completely destroyed. There have been many cured with this remedy, when almost dead; and there are many of my neighbors who will testify to the fact.
W. VALE PLUMMER.

In the death of Mr. Fox, England has lost the greatest statesman, of whom she could ever have boasted, and the only man who could have saved her from many of the storms, which now assail her prosperity.

Mr. Fox was the only man in England, who could bind together its discordant parties. He may have been properly denominated the Key Stone of their political ark.

Mr. Fox was the only man of considerable influence, who was opposed to continental connections. He was of course, the only statesman in the cabinet, or who is likely to be there, that could have preserved England from a new abortive coalition to attack Bonaparte on the continent. Should such a scheme have been agitated, the loss to England would have been only estimated by the acquisitions of France.

Mr. Fox was the statesman upon whom the people reposed their greatest hopes: It was he, who gave energy to the national sentiment. He was the grand source of the resolution which they have lately displayed. By losing him, England has lost her principal bulwark against the power of France, or what was equally dangerous, the blind insatiation of her own ministers.

Mr. Fox would have given her peace, could it be made consistently with the national honour.

The death of Mr. Fox is therefore the greatest loss which his country could have sustained.

To our own country, it may be a source of deep regret. It is well known that there was no statesman in the cabinet, from whom we could have expected so favourable an adjustment of our differences. There was no man, better affected towards the rights of neutrals, because there was none, in whom the respect or great principles, or the desire of conciliating the solid affection of other nations, had so completely overcome all selfish regards to interests of inferior importance. If Lords Auckland & Holland had far progressed in their negotiation with our commissioners, that it is impossible for the English cabinet to retract from their terms, we may hope for a favourable adjustment. But if not, we may apprehend the worst. Mr. Fox has not left behind him his expanded spirit; and the disposition of the Grenville party whose ascendancy in the cabinet will now be complete, is too well known to promise much in favour of peace, of justice, or of the rights of the U. S.

LOUISIANA.

An acre of corn in Louisiana, produces on an average, about 22 bushels which at 75 cents, is 16 doll. 50 cents. An acre of cotton produces, with the same labour 250 lbs. clean, which at 20 cents, is 50 dollars. An acre of cane, will produce 1000 lbs. sugar, which at 8 dollars per C is 80 dollars: add 1 bbl. molasses 7 50-- 87 50. It is therefore concluded that it will be best for the Louisianians to import their grain. It has also been thought most proper to import the beef and pork.

Extract of a letter from Jefferson, Trumbull County, Ohio.—dated 10th October, 1806.

"Our Settlement goes on well and the Settlers are much pleased with their land, we have raised as fine wheat as any in the Country and our Corn, without putting a Plough into the Ground, yields from 30 to 40 Bushels the Acre.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman of respectability in Hampshire county, Mass. to his friend, in the vicinity of Amherst, N. H. dated in September last.

"General Eaton is now in this town; and he says, that he has seen a letter but a few days from Marietta, (Ohio) which informed, that Colonel Burr was there, and was undertaking, or endeavouring, to undertake, an expedition—that he had actually engaged some boats, and offered commissions to a number of young gentlemen in those parts, to engage with him in what he (Burr) said "would be a laudable and honorable undertaking." Gen. E. has no doubt that Burr's intent is to erect a separate government west of the Alleghenies, and probably make himself either a sovereign, or be viceroy to some foreign prince. The latter I am inclined to think, cannot be the motive. Burr had rather be the first in hell than to serve in heaven. Spain will not be in a condition to support such a colony as perhaps France may.—Should Burr raise an insurrection, many things will be necessary, which will little think of." Albany Gaz.

Extract of a letter from Calcutta, dated June 4.

"On Tuesday night the 13th ult. the American brig Ann, capt. Robertson, belonging to Charleston, S. C. was wrecked on the Pulicat Reef, a little to the northward of Madras. It appears that the captain, being bound to Madras, and finding himself to leeward of this port, attempted to beat to windward, and supposing this reef to be considerably to the southward of him; he stood into seven fathoms water, and then tacked, but before the sails could be trimmed, the vessel struck. An anchor was immediately carried out, and after some hours, she was got off; but so much injured that she very soon after went to the bottom. The boats were hoisted out in time to save the crew."

From the National Intelligencer.

Federal Creed.

1. I believe that all governments are of divine origin—that kings and nobles are descended in a right line from the gods; and that the favored ones of the earth, were born to rule over, and govern with absolute and unlimited power all that are less favored, or less powerful than themselves.

2. I believe that all men are not born "equally free," as is falsely asserted in the declaration of American independence.

3. I believe that crowns, crosses, stars, garters, and other badges of nobility are the consecrated gifts of heavenly wisdom, and ought to be held in awful reverence by all the "swinish multitude," who owe veneration and implicit obedience to the wearers of them.

4. I believe that the freedom of speech of the press, tend only to create faction and excite insurrections, and that they ought not to be tolerated in any well regulated, or "energetic" government.

5. I believe that the glittering splendor of armies and navies—the dazzling pomp of titles and national greatness, supported by the blood, taxes, tears and misery of the oppressed poor, are preferable to the humble and unassuming blessings of peace, and individual prosperity.

6. I believe that the will of the great ought to be the law of the land—that their will is to govern the many, and for the same reason I would cheerfully put my neck under the foot of a sovereign to gain his favors; but am determined as long as I have liberty to complain, that I will not cease to abuse that liberty by finding fault with every measure of my own free government, be it right or wrong.

7. I believe that all who do not think exactly as I do, are either fools or jacobins; and consequently that Selek Osborne, (Now in jail for telling the truth about his betters) and all the democratic editors, who take his part, or have the impudence to raise their voice against the sacred authority of courts, ought to be sent to the bastille or inquisition, and end their rebellious days without seeing the light of heaven, or hearing the voice of man.

INQUISITOR.

Two negro men, one belonging to D. A. Smith, Esq. Cashier of the Mechanics' Bank, and the other to Mr. Willam Hawkins, have been apprehended and secured for robbing the Bank on the 29th ult. The manner of their detection was somewhat singular. They endeavored to prevail on a person in the employ of Mr. Hawkins, to sign some of the blank notes which they had stolen, and promised him a handsome reward for his trouble. This circumstance was communicated to Mr. H. who immediately represented the case to proper authority, and had them taken in custody.

Their plan seems to have been otherwise well concerted, as they had purchased a variety of clothing, &c. with the intention of going to sea. We have not been able to ascertain the amount of finished notes stolen, but understand it does not exceed 200 dollars. Notes in the sheet were found to a considerable amount.

150 Do lars Reward.

RAN AWAY the 1st July, 1806, from the subscriber living in Anne Arundel county, Patapsco Neck, near Hawkins' Point, within ten miles of Baltimore, Maryland, a likely young negro man named BOB, but sometimes calls himself Bob Miller; is tolerable black, straight made fellow, with a smiling countenance when spoken to; has a remarkable scar on the lower part of the back of his neck, near the size of a cent, under his shirt collar; he was raised to the farming business; in the twenty fourth year of his age, about five feet nine or ten inches high; had on when he went off, a given crown felt hat, with a band & buckle; an over round coat, deep blue mixed, strong cloth, doubled at each elbow and the left shoulder; oxburg shirt and hempen linen trousers. I expect he will change his name and clothes as he did when he ran off before; he changed his name to Nicholas Johnson. I presume he has procured a forged pass from his infamous connections in the neighborhood where he lived; if taken up and secured in any jail so that I get him again, 100 dollars will be given; if out of the state the above reward, and reasonable travelling expenses paid; if brought home, by
