Notice is hereby given,

THAT I intend to apply to the judges of Baltimore county court, or some one of them, for the benefit of an act of Assembly, passed at November session, 1805, entitled an Act for the relief of sundry insolvent debtors, to relieve me from debts I am unable to pay. THOMAS T. GREENFIELD.

FROM THE RICHMOND Enquiren. DECIUS.

We lay before our readers the following interlocutory paper of Declus with the ellay which will fucceed it on our British relations, without withing to occumpany them by a fingle comment. A'hatever weight might belong to the observations that we might offer upon this subject, we ttill deem it much more liberal to trust the remarks of Declus to the world, without the dlightelt animadvertion, and leave them to work all the eliest which they are capable of producing.

To the Editor of the Enquirer.

The enclosed sheets, which contain the second number or Decius, have lain for some weeks by the author, and poffibly might never have emerged from their privacy, but for fome ate pallages in your paper. The fare of his first clay, which, literally, " jeli still-iorn from the press," gave but little encouragement to Decius to continue his labours, and held our to an indoient temper an inducement to repose, too inviting to be relined. The work was accordingly intpended. The first number, indeed, comained a promife to presente the subject; -but there could be little occasion for a punctilions adherence to a voluntary engagement, whole performance no one feeted to require. 'I is true that, under the prefence of fabiling their promifes to the public, authors do, too often lead the prels with train, which feives no other purpole than to enhance the price of paper. But Decius is no author-and can never encounter the drudgery of writing, but with reluciance, and even dread.— e was fontible that the publication of his fecond chav would beget the necessity of a third, and he a did fee no reason why he should haripfs herafelt with writing, what few feered differted to read, Except fome filmly objections, which were left to antiwer themselves, the publication appeared firm, and one which demands examination. Whill Decius is little anxieus who thall arraign his openions, he can sever fland indifferent, when it, firsts shall be called in queltion.

Among the objections which have been taken to the first effay, it has been alledged, that the federaidts would make a handle of it, and tortue, it to fuit their purpoles .- There is a plantilles in this affertion not illy calculated to carriage weak minds; but men of relicition and interstanding mult at once perceive that A LOT of GROUND, situate in North progression wide a griffed; that it is equally i at it able to the official, as well as presute anions to Congrets; have not the In the admora reforms—the repeal of the judibeen a raired and mifted by the tederal party

I is not in the genius of federalitm to opp is able to povernment, with good will. It is no recommend with her fairit to adv cate it is her to rade, and consider at it in her enemies. "Tis der vocem n." and die can never be brown it beartify to difpurage it. Accordingly, we find that the most define are reflitance of the feileral le acres Las maliernels been made to the mon while lane and popular reforms. Luciet- " !! ting afide the confideration, that they much always from principle, lean towards malverfation in office, the fallehood, fourrility and rancour of their prefles had juitly prejudiced every f berminded man against their statements Certainno republican could, or would, liften to charges against the administration, from so polluted a fource. This fituation of allains has subjected the press to something like a virtual imprimateur. As the federal prints could not obtair belief, so the republican editors would not publish. It evidently relied then upon the vigilance and firmuels of the republicans alone, whether there thould exist any efficient opposition to the unconstitutional, or other injurious measures, in case such should be proposed. If they pollefied not victue and courage enough to withfland fuch attempts, (by whom! ever made) it is plain that no effectual refistance could be opposed to them. What then !- Is the present administration persect! Emidst the various agents, supreme and subordinate, in the executive department, has there been, or can there be, no wrong committed? Grant them any thing fort of papal infallability—it became neccliary, when the did err, in the opinion of those through whose active exercion they were brought into power; and whose characters were implicated in their milconduct, that thole errors thould be freely and promptly exposed-Silence, in su h a cale, is equivalent to a sametion of the measure in question. These are principles equally rational, and fit for Americans to act upon. Let us now examine the "IMPERTANT FACIS' flaced in the Enquirer of the 24th of 1th. The explanation of Decius is not "incorrect," in the "two material points" therein mentiored. It is true "that our ministers proposed to surrender our claims for spoliations," in the sente intended and expressed by Decius. Gianting "that they were instructed to make no treaty in which those Spanish claims were not provided for; ' yet, if their ultimate payment was to be assumed by the United States, (which was the fact) it was fairly equivalent to a surrender of them. The claimants indeed would be provided for and yet the claim upon the Spanish government, by the fame act, relinquished. The distinction between abandoning tha. for French Speliations and being filent with respect to it, is one of those nice relinements about which I shall not dispute, but will leave the author to the undisturbed enjoyment of this "important fact."

Oct. latt.

2d. It is true, that, in their correspondence with the Spanish ministry, our ministers stated, "that, in confenting to establish the Colorado as the Wellern boundary of Louisiana, they had exceeded their instructions. If such were not the fact, is it probable that those ministers would have so stated it to the government from whom they received those inttructions; or that these dispatches would have been laid by that government before Congress, without rectifying the

If the complete abortion of the negociation at Madrid, did not (as the author of " important facts," would feem to contend) preclude the prepriety of recurring to fresh negociations; if that failure of pacific measures created no necessity for reforting to others of a different complexion towards Spain, will he, or will any other man, affert the expediency of uting coescive measures towards Great Eritain, with whe had a negociation at that time pending? Surely if the flate of affairs with Great Britain called for strong measures on our part, our situation with Spain demanded fill fronger. And if
