The updersigned minister of foreign relations has expressed to ble Expellency M. Khoblesdork, in the pote which he had the bonor to write to him on the 13th of Commercial Daity Advertiser. Sept. the confiding dispositions with which his Majesty, the Emperor received the assurances given by M. Knoblesdorff, that the military movements of the Court of Berlin west not the result of any hostile concert against France, but simply the effect of a misunderstanding; and that they would cease the moment when the first communication of his Excellency should have arrived at Berlin.

"Nevertheless, the news received every day bear so much, all the character of au impending war, that his imperial majesty must feel some regret at the engagement he made, not yet to call out his reserve and to defer the constitutional notification, after which all the forces of the hation would be placed at his disposal. - He will fulfil that engagement; but he shall think it contrary to prudence and to the interest of his people, not to order, in the interim, all the measures, and all the movements of the troops, which can take place without previous notification.

His majesty has, at the same time; "charged the undersigned to express again to M. Knoblesdorff, that he cannot ye conceive, by what forgetfulness of her interest, Prussia should be willing to remounce her ties of amity with France. War between the two countries appears to him a rea! political monstrosity; and from the moment that the cabinet of Berons, and shall cease to menace the ar- between the power beslowed upon the dicta ors of mies of Germany, his Majesty engages to countermand all the measures which prudence commanded him to take. He will seize with pleasure, as he does in all circumstances, the occasion of testifying to his majesty the King of Prussia the price he attaches to his friendship; to a union founded on a wise policy, and on reciprocal interests; and to prove to him that his sentiments are always the same, and that no provocation has been able to alter them.

a The undersigned is happy in being able to give to his excellency M. De Knoblesdorif so formal an assurance of the It approbates the conduct of the prefident, dedispositions of his Majesty, which are so foreign to all idea of war with Prussia, that he has already committed a very grave military fault, in retarding his militter preparations for one month, and in consenting to let filteen days more pass over, without calling out his Reserves and his National Guards.

"This copfidence, which his Majesty th Joves to preserve proves what a value he sets upon what was stated to him by M. Knoblesdorffthat Prussia had entered into no concert with the enemies of France, and that the assurances that he had recerred in potting a term to the misunderstanding which has just arisen, would cause the cermition of those armaments which were the consequences of it.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT

Iz was not expected by the friends to the present order of things, that the writers of the opposition would applaud the various approbatory addresses from the people and legislatures ferson. It is not in human nature for men to praise these whom they hate; nor can they bear with any tolerable patience to witness the applauses of others. Besides, there are certain obligations on men who are pledged to a party, to fnarl at every thing which is offensive to that party. Hence, the "Correspondent" of the Federal Gazette is only "laboring in his vocation," when he affails with virulence the majority of the legislature of Maryland for voting their late address to the chief magistrate of the United States.

To a mind delighting in correct discussion, it must always afford pleasure to find good sense and ingenuity even in an adversary; whilst nonsense or folly must create disgust, notwithstanding it may proceed from a friend. - ow mortified, then, must the admirers of the Gazette be to find its columns invaded by a " Correspondent," whose penetration is so extremely circumancient Rome; and a mere approbatory address to the President of the Unue- States!

r. It is easy to chatter about Casar and Pompey, Dictators and Presidents for life-and the jargon may divert those who are unacquainted with the particulars of ancient flory; but when a "Correspondent" would make you believe that Thomas Jefferson "holds the purse-strings and wields the sword of the nation," it is enough to make one forget all the common rules of decorum, and laugh out in his face.

What has the legislature said in its address ! vouily defires the continuance of peace, and requires Mr. Jefferson to serve for another term. The address does not breathe a spirit of extravagance nor of war. Having experienced for Teveral years the bleffings of the present administration, the people solicit the man who has principally conferred that happiness, to serve ture. the public still longer. In there treason in this ? Does it constitute the person to whom the address is made a dictator? Or rather is it not, what it professes to be, withe approbation of grateful people bestowed on a deserving executive !" Such it is viewed by men of sound sense, notwithstanding the ludicrous cry of-Casar and Pompey !

But what sort of men must those be, who in the same brea h sound the alarm of dictatorship, and accuse the Prefident of publishimity? Does not every body know that it requires a man of spirit to alliene the distatorship ? Con- vett. sequently, a publianimous person cannot be a dictator. Which side of this dilemma will the Gazette " Correspondent' choose? Take which he will, he murders his own sparious arguments.

But what a cruel cut it would be to bring into niew by way of a fet-off against this " Correspradent," the addresses presented to John A. 3. W. distance about 9 on so leagues, it dams on a former occasion ! They were not, being quite moderate discovered a launch it is true, for the purpole of California him to continue in office ; but tended to a more bloody object war and desolation. Let us, in mercy. however draw a veil over the folly of those times and forget and forgive.

And the state of the second By the attention of our obliging correspondent at Nassau, (New-Providence) we Germantown do. have been politely favored with a file of Cheltenham and W. This ship was in the prosecution of her voyage from New-York to Havanna, captured by the private ship of war Favorite, R. Barnett, commander, and brought to New-Providence. Amongst the ship's papers were a bill of lading and invoice for the goods shipped by Hartshorn and Watson, and in supply of proof respecting the same, an attestation upon oath, made on the 21st day of August last, by Robert G. Watson, one of the firm, before J. W. Patterson, notary public, at New-York, declaring the goods to be the property of his said firm; but a commission of inspection of ship and cargo baing been issued from the court, the Mark shal accidently discovered a quantity of lin shall return to their pacific dispositi- scribed as to suser him to draw a salse parallel papers concealed in a box, forming part of vayage. Spoke, Oct. 2, in light of the Cape that shipment, from which papers it clearly appeared, that a considerable part, if not the whole, was the property of Bartolome Siberio, a passenger on board, and other Spaniards, residing at Havanna.

When men so far forget all their moral and civil duties, and thus violate that sacred law of public faith, as has appeared in the present instance, it is to be hoped, that as well the innocent owners of the ship as the shippers of property on board of her may recover the full amount of all the damages they have sustained or yet may sustain, by reason of the capture and detention of their property, against the persons by whose highly criminal conduct they have suffered .-It cannot be doubted, but that an honest jury, in a district court of the state of N. York, upon proofs of the fact being produced to them, would, by their verdict, shew the abhorrence with which good men look upon practices of this na-
