We arrived here after a passage of 46 days from Baltimore, which was a quick run, for upwards of 10,000 miles. The evening on which we arrived here, were brought to by a British ship called the Diomede, of 50 guns—one of the officers informed us, that they had taken Buenos Ayres, and held it for 2 months, but were compelled to give it up again, in consequence of being overpowered by numbers. RICHMOND: January 16. Several important amendments to the revenue laws have passed the House of Delegates, of which we shall furnish the following brief summary.

To impose a tax of 1-2 percent. on the capital stock of the bank of Virginia. A tax of 1 per cent. on the U.S. bank at Norsolk. Also a tax on the toll bridges, wharves and ferries.

VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.

Among the new objects of taxation which have presented themselves to the

As one of the principal objects of political institution, is the protection of property, it is an obvious consequence, that the members of the community should contribute to the expense of supporting government, in the ratio of the property which government secures to them. Bank Stock differs from almost every other species of property, in its relation to government, in several important particulars.' It has been the modern policy of all civilized & commercial nations, to prohibit the establishment of Banks by individuals, and to render a legislative sanction essential to their institution. Thus, incorporated or chartered Banks acquire a monopoly which excludes the competisisting of a heterogeneous mass of ad- tion to which every other kind of business centurers from all the states in the Uni- is subject. Whether this policy be correct or otherwise is foreign to the pre.

sent enquiry. In this point of view government has a superior claim upon the property which is rested in banks, to that which belongs to individuals or private companies : because government, not only protects it, but comers on it a monopoly, and it profits are commensurate with that monopoly. Accordingly governments have generally exacted from such incorporations (altho' not in the form of an ordinary tax) an adequate compensation for the favor they confer; and it is probable that this compensation, was originally the motive with governments for making

In what manner will these principles eced to Montego-Bay; otherwise such apply to the different Banks established n the state of Virginia? The Bank, of ed, as acting contrary to the Lieutenant | Virginia has certainly remunerated the governor's proclamation of the 27th ult. public with sufficient liberality for her. The parties | ginia, and this state has not that claim on it, for remuneration, which arises from the grant of an exclusive monopoly.

The United States might justly consider such a tax, as an officious interference with their institutions, which, although not absolutely unconstitutional, would be contrary to that spirit of harmony and conciliation, that ought to prevail between two governments, having so many points of contact. This consi- or to deration should have additional weight, when we reflect that the federal government has withdrawn-its hand from all internal subjects of taxation, as more properly belonging to the individual states.

It may be said that the United States, having parted with the shares which they held in the Bank at Norsolk, it ceases to be a Bank of the United States in every thing but in name. To this it may be answered that it is not the property which the United States held in the bank, which rendered it exclusively theirs; We understand, that the advices for govern- it is the circumstance of its charter being derived from the sederal government, the subscribers having invested their capital under the confidence and sanction of the authority, and considering it subject only to the legislative sovereignty of the U. States. It is from these considerations that we view the capital of the bank at Norfolk, as a property, which reason, policy and justice forbid us to touch.

Dec. 22, off Cape Antonio, was boarded by a French or Spanish privateer, who took the Brunswick in possession and anchored her under that cape, where they detained her two days, and overhauled every part of the vessel in learch of money. There were two captains to the privateer, one French and the other Spanish; the French captain (Lartiques) appeared to possess some sense of honor, and it was through his influence that the brig was not plundered of every thing. The privateer had four days before boarded brig Speculator, Lee, from Kingston for this port, (arrived last evening) and robbed an English gentleman, (Mr. Kentith) who was a passenger on board, of two negro lervants. While the privateer had the Brunfwick in possession, they boarded the brig Nancy, Huggins, from Jamaica for Savannah, and suffered her to proceed. The same evening that capt. To the Public.

IT would be painful to me at any time to become a party in a newfpaper controversy, but in my present capacity as broker, an intermediate agent in various dealings between one fellow citizen and another, it is peculiarly so. It is neverthelel's necessary to the vindication of my character from the aspertions cast thereon by Mr. Nimmed Owings, in his advertisement of the 20th inst. and I venture to hope the public will require no other apology. I shall, however, confine myself tou brief und accirrate statement of facts, in my late negociation with Mr. Owings; and without pretending to infinuate what that gentleman's conduct would have been had the stock purchased of me on the morning of the 15th inft. have risen in value, I submit to the public judgment. He purchased from me on the morning mentioned, 20 shares of water stock, on 6 months credit, for which I at the same time rendered him a bill, and took his note for $5000, which he mentions, and which for certain realons, he declarés he will not pay. The stock stood in the name of two gentlemen, to shares each-I had so shares of the slock transferred almost immediately after the fale, and then went to the gentleman who held the other ten, for the purpose of getting them transferred also, and he was not at home. I left a verbal request with a gentleman at his house, that he would go as foun as he came in and make the transfer of the faid to fliares to Nimrod Owings; and then went in purluit of my ordinary buliness, in hopes, at the same time, to meet the gentieman in my walks. The citizens may well recollect what a day it was of tumult and hurry; I did not get home to my dinner until it was past 3 o'clock. While I was fitting at it, the gentleman who was to transfer the last mentioned 10 shares, entered my house, and told me he was come to attend me to transfer the shares. We went immediately together to the company's office, to make the transfer. On application, however, to the secretary, he replied that no more transfers could be made dirring the day s and on my urging him to take the transfer in question, he faid that his orders from the Prefidene and Managers were peremptory, and this he could not disobey them. I therefore took a power of attorney, enabling me to make the transfer; and on shewing it to the secretary and learning that it was correct in point of form, I was thereby enabled to make the transfer to Mr. O. at the earliest possible time-being thus precluded, not by any personal desalcation on the part of the gentleman who had fold the stock, or myself, but by a regulation of the Water Company itself, from making the transfer on that day, (which, by the bye, there was no place, and that the books were ordered to be closed 'till the Monday following. On Monday morning, the fath inft. I again went to the office to make the transfer, and them met Mr. Owings, who, on my application to receive the transfer of the faid to thates, directed the fecretary to whom I addressed myfelf, not to receive it. Finding him determined, I requested the Tecretary to recollect the various applications I had made to have the transfer perfeded ; all which were, indeal, too recent to have escaped bis memory, and all of which he corrobotated before Mar Quings, se I have agreement between Mr. Owings and myself, to have it done on that particular day) I called the following morning with the fame view, and was then informed by the secretary, a further postponement of the transfer bufiness had taken
