Your petitioners therefore request a writ of habeas corpus, in the usual form, directed to Lieut. Col. For and on behalf of Erick Bollman and Samuel Swartwout, ELIAS B. CALDWELL,

Attorney. After offering this petition, Mr. C. made a concise speech in support of its prayer. Mr. Jones opposed allowing the prayer of the petition, principally on the ground of its collinon with the motion made by him, then depending before the court, the effect of which he contended would be the same as that produced by the writ of habeas corpus, if allowed.

Mr. Dorsey replied, in support of the peti-

Mr. Caldwell then spoke; and

Mr. Jones replied: Some surther conversation enswel between the couns, 1-when the chief justice Cranch declared it the opinion of the court, that before in strichness a right existed to claim a writ of Habeas Corpus, it must appear on affidavit that the warrant of commitment, or other authority, under which the confinement had taken place, had been refused, together with the grounds of refusal. Judge Crauch added that this decision was made under the 31st of Charles the lecond, which applied to this case.

A feint objection was made by Mellrs. Caldwell and Dorsey to the application of this stathie, which was over ruled by the court.

Mr. Donaldson appeared in court. Mr. Jones said that the testimony of General Eaton would be lengthy, and in order to allow time for his drawing it out, he requested that be might be indulged until Monday.

This course was acquiesced in by the court in respect to both the witnesses. Mr. Caldwell then offered the following affi-

WM. BRENT, Clk. Mr. Caldwell added that he had not seen mr. Pollman, and diel not know whether it was his wish to apply 'or a writ, of habeas corpus. He would, therefore, only move for a writ of habeas corpus for mr. Swartwout:

Mir. Jones intimated a hope that some days should be allowed for making out the return of the writ, which might require deliberation and legal advice. This was opposed by mestrs. Caldwell and

Dorfey. When the court ordered a writ of habeas corpus, in the case of Samuel Swartwout, return-

Yesterday the criminal court of Baltimore county was engaged all day in the trial of Cerard Von Harten, for forgery. He flood - indicted on this occasion for forging certain notes, and for passing the same knowing them to be forged. On both counts he was found guilty. Originally there were 36 indictments against him; on the first of which, some time past, he was convicted of uttering the note only. The arguments of counsel to the jury took up the whole of yesterday. The principal talents of the Baltimore bar were brought into action on the trial.

We understand the trial is in the press and will shortly be published.
