NATURE DISPLAYED,
SECOND EDITION.
Geo. Dobbin & Murphy,
No. 10, BALTIMORE STREET,

HAVE FOR SALE,
JUST PUBLISHED,
THE SECOND EDITION,
Eligibly improved and much enlarged,
IN TWO VOLUMES,
(F)

"NATURE DISPLAYED,"
THE METHOD OF
Teaching Language to Man:
Applied to the French.
Price to subscribers 5 dollars—to non-subscribers 6 dollars in boards.
Those who have not read the above work, which is almost unparalleled in the annals of Literature for the success it has met with, notwithstanding the new doctrines it inculcates, will perhaps wish to be made acquainted with its contents.

IT CONTAINS,
1. A complete refutation of the method of teaching a language by the rules of Grammar, pointing out the errors and absurdities of that system and its influence on the human mind; also, a display of the natural method applied to the French language, by the help of which we will soon learn our native tongue, and a series of the phrases made use of by the French in the social communications, to which their various wants and pleasures give rise, classed in a manner strictly analytical.
This part of the work which gives the solution of a problem highly obscure to the future advancement of education, precludes the necessity of going to reside among the French, in order to acquire that language; a circumstance which the old method requires; as it never taught the speaking of any language; (see Nature Displayed, preliminary discourse) but is a person that it could teach the written language, of which it so much boasts in order to make up for the above fundamental deficiency. Not as the written language is grounded solely on the spoken language, in other is nothing but the spoken language, brought to a certain degree of perfection.

Common sense, observation and experience inform us, that to be successful in our mental acquirements, we must proceed invariably from the simple to the compound, from the physical to the abstract, from the known to the unknown, under the penalty of reaching, after a very long and painful journey, the dreary waste of absurdity and nonsense.

Could we help smiling at the wild attempt of a profound mathematician who would undertake to teach the Newtonian fluxions to a person entirely unacquainted with arithmetic and algebra! Let us therefore infer that the old method, which can never teach the spoken language of the French, is utterly inadequate to the teaching of their written language.

Astonished at an assertion so novel, many will exclaim, what do they teach then? Our answer is, without the least dread of contradiction, that by the old method, after several years toil and industry, a kind of guttershot or bastard Anglo-French may be acquired, which every native of France would listen to with disgust, and feel ashamed to acknowledge.
The history of the simple means by which rude and unimproved man proceeded to the formation of language, a work that throws light on the science of words, in its connection with that of ideas, and facilitates the study of the best metaphysics—the principles therein developed, are applied to the French language, respecting which, several particulars are set down, such as the conjugation of verbs, embracing an ingenious and extensive classification of every French word.
3. The syntax simplified and made plain by substituting new rules instead of the old, many of which are scarcely intelligible—it appears justly entitled to what a celebrated reviewer has said of it—"it contains," says the writer, "a body of instruction, digested in a more luminous method, and comprehending a greater number of particulars, than are found in any work extant."—To this eulogium it may be added "says another reviewer," that the subject is some times presented in a point of view so pitoyable, that the dryness of grammatical matter is here found to excite an interest that few could think it capable of."

4. The Lecteur Francais, or a numerous collection of elegant extracts, in prose and verse—particularly calculated to give the last polish to the acquirement of the French language, on the principles developed in the work. Several of these pieces cannot fail to be particularly grateful to the citizens of our country; such as the elogium on the immortal Washington from the pen of Fontanes; and several pieces descriptive of the stupendous magnificent scenery of the res world. This addition of the Lecteur Francais will be highly beneficial to every French learner; for in possession of this work, he needs no other than a small French and English dictionary.

Learning French by the shortest method possible is not the only advantage derived from the method of nature. It also facilitates the acquisition of every other language, by the establishment of a universal model, and after renovates the memory by exercising in a simple yet subtle manner, that noble faculty of the mind, while the judgment is improved and invigorated by a method founded on analogy and analysis, our guide in the art of thinking.

Observation has fully proved that those who have learned French by the new method have obtained much facility in their other studies.

Subscribers who have obtained from us the last vol. will please send for a second.
Geo. DOBBIN & MURPHY.

Farmers' Bank of Maryland.
NOTICE is hereby given, that the Books will be opened at Annapolis, on Monday the 13th day of April next, and continue open the next day for the disposal of the number of Shares remaining subscribed in the Farmers' Bank, on the Western Shore, the subscriptions to be taken at the Bank, between the hours of ten and five o'clock. The subscribers to pay ten dollars on each Share at the time of subscribing, and the residue as follows, to wit:—Ten dollars on the thirtieth day of June, ten dollars on the thirtieth day of August, ten dollars on the thirtieth day of October, and ten dollars on the twelfth day of December next; but reserving to any subscriber, the liberty of paying at any one of those days the whole of his subscription then due. The Shares which may be subscribed above the number limited to be reduced by a proportional deduction throughout the several counties on the Western Shore or by lot if necessary, and the monies that may be paid thereon to be immediately repaid at the Bank.
If any Stockholder shall fail to make regular payment of any instalment after the first payment, such Stockholder's money in Bank, shall remain free from interest and not entitled to dividend, until such instalment or call shall be made good, and the dividend thereafter to be paid to such Stockholder (as well upon the money by him regularly paid as upon the money paid after default) shall be calculated only from the time when said last instalment was made good.
The subscribed Shares of the Farmers' Bank having already risen above par, and being in great demand, the Directors deemed it to be their duty to give every facility in their power to the citizens of every part of the Western Shore to become proprietors of a Stock to which experience has already attached an high degree of confidence and an enhanced value, and which from every appearance, would rapidly appreciate whenever the subscription of the surplus Shares should remove the possibility of procuring the stock at a lower value, than the successful management of the institution and the public opinion should have conferred on it: Notwithstanding, therefore, that the charter directed that the Subscription Books for this stock shall be opened at Annapolis, yet the Directors held themselves at liberty and have determined it to be their duty, to devise means to accommodate the citizens of the several counties who might wish to subscribe, but who cannot attend at Annapolis: In conformity, therefore, to a determination that had already obtained, at a joint meeting of the Directors of the Bank and Branch Bank on a similar occasion, the board have adopted the following resolution:
That the Directors for the several counties on the Western Shore, be authorized and directed to receive in their respective counties, from all persons who may offer to subscribe for Stock in the Farmers' Bank, on the day or days appointed for subscribing, powers of attorney enabling some person to subscribe for them at Annapolis, and also to receive from persons so disposed to subscribe, the sums which are made payable, on subscriptions personally made; and all subscriptions made under powers as aforesaid, shall be held and deemed as valid, as if made by the individuals themselves at Annapolis.
By order,
JONATHAN PINKNEY, Cashier.

30 Dollars Reward.
RAN AWAY from the subscriber on the 6th inst. a negro girl named CLOE; of a dark yellow complexion, about 5 feet 4 or five inches high; about 18 years of age; has a bold look, and is slender make. Had on when she went away, a dark Chambray Muslin dress; red under coat, and a Madras handkerchief around her head. She no doubt will change her dress, as she has considerable more clothes than I am ware of, which she must have kept I presume amongst some of her negro associates. I purchased her a few weeks since of Mr. Henry Jackson, at the head of Market-street, and believe she was the property of Mrs. Yeiser, previous to his getting her. I have every reason to suppose her to be harbored by some free person of color, as she has been seen several times in the city since her departure. I will give 10 dollars if taken in the city; 20 dollars if 50 miles from the city, and the above reward if out of the state.
