To the Ladies and Gentlemen, Belles and Deas of the City of Baltimore.
Shall I address you in a pathetic or a laughing way—make your eyes weep showers, or your sides crack with pleasing distention?
And pray for what? Why to tell you the truth—I have taken it into my head to issue Proposals for publishing—what?—by the Board of Mahonica it shall be
A LITTLE SATURDAY'S REPERT,
Under the title of
SPECTACLES.

And having imbibed the notion, I was at a loss how to begin my prospectus. So many I have gone before me—so many have gone on withy-dilly, led by some of his fatuous—so many have failed—that by all that is beautiful and sublime, I had determined to ask yourselves how I shall address you? And believe me, Madam, or Sir, or Miss, or Master, this is a matter of serious consequence—for if your worship or your ladyship should happen to be in an ill humor, and my proposals should then come laughing across you, you might perchance send them to the Nick; and again, if they should unluckily reach you in the in-fashion of a greybeard upon a post-cart, and you should be in "merry mood," you might laugh my gravity to scorn, and ask my carrier of parcels, like our ways with the countrymen, "when he had come down?"

Thus you see I am in a dilemma—However, SPECTACLES the thing shall be edited, say what you can; and I will try the experiment of peeping through them at your purses for TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM—Cheap ly Phylis' dog cheap! The wonder that may be seen through them will exceed all description—and what is remarkable, they will suit all sorts of people—young and old—short sighted and long sighted—It shall contain—let me see—But remember, as you go along—I am as serious as a moping Philosopher in this proposition—
It shall contain—in one word—Every thing that is amusing—It shall contain—foreign news, domestic news, literary news, and all sorts of news—Biography, topography—and all theographies—Battis, murders, jokes, sermons, plays, &c. &c. &c. love ditties, and witticisms!—but above all—quizzes!—yes, those beautiful, quizzical, fanciful, whimsical, nonsensical quizzies, which will cure the spleen, set you all a-gog and roaring with their ton and frolic—
"You are welcome to try it before you buy it!" This was the elegant motto which a schoolmaster of mine put upon his ink-bottles—and a very honest one it was—So shall it be with my commodity—you shall try on the Spectacles before you pay for them; that is, my dear friends, you are not to pay one cent in advance, but just fifty American Cents of the United States currency per quarter—and after reading my first number, if you are not pleased and tickled, nay and instructed to boot, why, by the honor of a valiant spaniard you may throw the four pages out of your window, and kick my Mercury out of doors—Now, by the way, my noble reader, is not this a droll fashion of writing a prospectus! upon my soul it is! But one must produce something out of the hackneyed way, you know, and therefore I have attacked you in this zig-zag method, just as the painters describe their lightning.

To be serious—I mean, in fact, to publish a weekly little sheet, containing four pages of letter-press, for which I intend to make you pay TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM, QUARTERLY. It will have, like a mince pie, a spice of many things—I make sure that you will subscribe; for who would not give two dollars per year, to be pleased once a week, and instructed into the bargain?
Yet who is to be the conductor of the Specta- cles? A tough question, by the valor of my ancestors—
But I'll tell you good folks—I am an old soldier with a wooden leg and weak eyes—a light purse—and a light heart—I am now retired from fighting, and mean to divert my old age in manufacturing Spectacles to suit all sorts and sizes of people—So you that are for encouraging me, say aye—those who refuse to patronize say no—
A person will in a few days wait upon you for your name, &c. &c.

Subscriptions will be received at the different Bookstores,
