In Baltimore County Court,
May 22, 1857.
ON application to the Judges of the said County Court, by petition in writing of John H. Schreiber of said county, praying the benefit of the "Act for the relief of sundry insolvent debtors," passed at November session eighteen hundred and five, and the supplement thereto passed at November session eighteen hundred and six, on the terms mentioned in the said act; a schedule of his property and a list of his creditors, on oath, as far as he can ascertain them, as directed by the said act, being annexed to his petition; and the said county court being satisfied by competent testimony, that the said John H. Schreiber has resided the two preceding years within the state of Maryland, prior to the passage of the said act; and the said John H. Schreiber at the time of presenting his petition as aforesaid, having produced to the said court, the asset in writing of so many of his creditors as have due to them the amount of two-thirds of the debts due by him at the time of passing the said act.
It is thereupon adjudged and ordered, by the said court, that the said John H. Schreiber, (by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some one of the newspapers in the city of Baltimore every other day for three months successively, before the tenth day of October next) give notice to his creditors to appear before the said county court, at the courthouse in the said county, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of the said tenth day of October next, for the purpose of recommending a trustee for their benefit, on the said John H. Schreiber then and there taking the oath by the said act prescribed for delivering up his property.
Signed per order,
WM. GIBSON, Clerk.

TO THE COMMANDERS, OFFICERS, AND SEAMEN IN GENERAL, OF THE UNITED STATES.
GREAT part of the maritime world is already abundantly furnished with the value and importance of ascertaining the longitude at sea by lunar observations.
It is universally allowed by the most eminent mathematicians and astronomers, that the method of finding the longitude at sea by observing the distance between the Sun and Moon, or a fixed Star, commonly called lunar observations, is the best that learning and genius have been able to devise; and therefore any improvement that may be made in reducing the observed to the true distance, must be highly acceptable to the practical navigator.
The principal difficulties have been in the calculations, for refraction and parallax; to perform which and thereby bring the subject within the reach of every seaman, a short, simple and accurate method has long been a desideratum. The Probability of most methods now generally used, has been found by numerous experiments, and a wish to contribute as far as he was able, to every useful improvement for the advantage of his country, the Author was induced to publish DENNIS'S LONGITUDE TABLES, accompanied by a formula directing the process; the assistance of which any person of moderate comprehension may perform the operation of clearing the distance, and afterwards, by a comparison of the computed and predicted altitudes in the nautical Almanac, find the apparent time at Greenwich, the difference between which and the apparent time at the ship, turned into longitude, gives the longitude of the ship. The publisher has used these tables for several voyages to every part of India, and always found the difference corrected by them. He is therefore fully satisfied that they are worthy to be agreed with, corrected by Mackay, Duntorne, or any method with which he compared them. They are generally sold by the officers in the English and India Companies' service, to whom the author had the privilege of teaching them. When officers now unacquainted with the lunar method, have experienced its superiority to the dead reckoning, which at best is but an uncertainty, they will approach the land after any passage, with a confidence and certainty known only to practitioners in the science.
Should the publication of these tables contribute to diffuse a more general knowledge of this subject among my fellow-brethren, I shall be proud of having had the honor of introducing to useful an improvement into the United States.
Of the authenticity of these Tables, information may be had by application to Mr. John D. Craig, Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy, in the College of Baltimore.
