In the narrative which we published the 24th of lath month, it might be inferred that the men taken from the Chesapeaks had deferted from the Halitax; the fact is, they had less the Melampus; but admiral Berkley's intructions contained a litt of cight men, which the commander of the Leopard was ordered to fearca for and take, it found on board, four had belonged to the Mejampus, the other four to the Hallfax. We thate from good authority, that capt. Humphries was ordered to ofter permitton to commodore B. to learch the Leopard for American leamen, and that he communicated thete orders to commodore Barron. Such an oner might have the appearance of reciprocity, but nothing more. The commander of the Leopard, knowing that he wanto make this offer, could | Ship Minerva, Barns, very easily have removed any Americans that | Brig Three Brothers, Fitch, might have been on board to any of the o her thisps. The offer to permit a fearch of all the thips, would have produced a submantial benent, but all this is more tritting-no national .uip ought to be fearened, and atmough we ever have advocated, and util do advocate the creation of a navy, we would rather fee the few thips that remain deffroyed, than to furrender a principle which would reduce us from the rank of an independent nation.

BALTIMORE, July 15.

Mr. Pechin, IN your paper of this morning you state that New-York is to be defended by nine gunboats. This is a mistake. The fact is, that Commodore Rogers will, in a very few days, have thirty-two Gun-Bosts under his command, which it is believed by that galiant officer will be sufficient for the protection of that important city against any force except an invading army.
