Bonaparta: but considerations which relate to the reputed partiality of Mr. Harper for a person who has given this couptry a great deal o: trouble. In this last point of view I cannot believe that genuine republicans will "associate themselves with him." There are several respectable troops of horse formed and forming, into which they may incorporate themscives with much more propriety.

Had Mr. Harper come ferward, without attempting to make invidious distinctions, and in the way that other citizens have done, without perching himself above his peers, l should have passed his publication over in silence.

I shall not pretend to assign the true reasons 19r this attack, contrary to all the laws of nations. I fiall only mention a few facts which came under my own obtervation during the action, and which I hope will palliate in a meature, the differaceful yet fad necessity of lowering our co-

The progress of a barbarous people towards civilization must ever be regarded with interest by an enlightened one. As the Sandwich Islands have long occupied a confiderable place in our commercial chart, I presume tha following account, of transactions in those islands to honorable to their fovereign and inhabitants, swill be thought interesting to the public. L'articularly so whent is remembered that but a few years fince the greatest precautions were necessary there to enture public fafety; and that a vessel belonging to this post was cut off and the captain and crew were barbaroully murdered. larrived at those illands in the summer of 1804 from the western coast of this continent, in a small ship, that had by various events been rendered so totally unlit for fea, that without repairs, impossible to be made in such circumflances, the could not with fatety proceed any further. I was received with great hospitality by ther lovereign l'amainamaina, all the asfillance in his power, to give; but as I judged that, repairing the thip would be impracticable for me, I determined to exchange her with him for a small vessel he then had on the stocks, which he offered me.'

According to the agreement I was entirely in their power. I landed my cargo and flored it in the king's magazines, with all fuch articles by agreement as I was to retain, and removed on thore with my officers into lodgings prepared by Tamaihamaiha for our reception I was obliged to leave these islands before this agree.

the small vessel not being finished, and lest it to be accomplished by a Mr. Hudson of this place who was an officer with me. I have lately had the sutisfaction to learn by letters from Mr. Hudt n, that Tamaihamaiha has most honorably fulfilled his agreement in every particular, besides treating him in all respects with kindattention. He often declared his latisfaction that fortune has put it in his power to show unequivocally the magnanimity and benevolence of his disposition. The safali vessel, in question, has since made a voyage of eight months to California and back to the islands, & is at this time engaged on her fecond voyage. When it is considered that the property thus put into the power of these islands must have bean regarded by them as of immense value, a considerable proportion of it consisting of an article they well know how to appreciate, such as cloths, cutlery, mushets, powder, ball, &c. the honest and noble disposition of Tamiliamailia and the good order subordination of his people appear to great advantage --- Of my sense et it, I am happy in thus rendering him m, public testimony.
