Military School.

The subscriber having been solicited by a number of respectable gentlemen to open a Military School, for the instruction of the youth of the city in Military Tactics, to comprehend the manual exercise, marching and evolutions. He will attend at certain hours in any part of the city where the youth may be desirous of forming a company. Commissioned officers of the volunteer companies now organizing will be instructed in every branch of their duty, both in theory and practice, conformable to the order & discipline of the army of the United States, as established by law.

Right years experience, as an officer in the revolutionary war, and the study of some of the best authors on military science, I will be found to recommend, and qualify him for this important task. A room in his Academy, Second street, near the Falls, will be appropriated to this service. It is private, spacious and airy, secure from the noise or interruption of disorderly boys, and will accommodate sixty youth for the manual exercise.

TUST received from Amsterdam, and for J. sale at the Brok and Stationary Store of COLE & I. BONSAL, 174, Market-street, a few copies of the following described Allegorical Picture in Memory of Plus VI.

Gentlemen desirous of possessing a copy. should lose no time. The price being very low it is expected they will be speedily disposed of.

"A revered pontiff, a magnanimous sovereign-a noble and affecting spectacle to earth and heaven; he honored at once, by his transcendant virtues, misfortune, age, the throne and L'Abbe Delille. the altar."

This Picture, designed by J. Kuyper, painted by A. de Lelie, and engraven by L. Portman, represents the interior of a temple, in the midat of which is placed a sepulchre, on which is raised the bust of Pius VL Behind the sepulchre appears Time; he is surrounded by the dark clouds of oblivion, in which he seems desirous of enveloping the bust. But the events which have signalised the epoch of Pius the Sixth's reign, and their influence on the destiny of that postiff, are too remarkable; his virtues, and above all, his patience and resignation truly christian, form too great a contrast with the immortality of his age, to permit oblivion ever to be his lot. Under the figure of a woman transported with a holy zeal, Memora, who immortalizes great men, arrests the menacing arm of Time; whilst on one side of the bust, History, in an attitude of reflection, fixes upon this scene a penetrating eye, and consecrates in her annals the events of the reign of Pius VI. In the front of the picture is a female figure, absorbed in profound grief, and reclining on the emblematical signs of the pontifical dignity. On the opposite side is represented the church, under the emblem of two women, plunged in affliction. Near the bust, and before an altar, on which incense is burning, Religion, always calin, is busy in consoling and encouraging them.

Connoisseurs will easily perceive, that besides the beauties of the detail, and the expression suitable to each figure, this Picture has at the same time the merit of presenting all parts of the allegory in so perfect an agreement, that, without fatiguing the eye or the mind, it equally charms both the one and the
