Continuation of Extracts from London papers to the first of October, received at the office of the New-York Mercantile Advertiser.

LONDON, September 18.
 It appears by some of the letters from Peterburgh, to have been understood there, that the English government had applied to the Emperor Alexander to guarantee to Denmark the possession of its fleet, and that France should not employ the use of it against us; and it was not until his Imperial Majesty had declined an interview which might interrupt the good understanding he had established with France, that our government adopted the resolution to deprive the enemy of the means with which the Danish navy would furnish him for our annoyance. The hitherto unaccountable delay which occurred in the early stages of our operations in the Baltic, is now ascribed to the negotiations of St. Petersburg.

September 21.

The marriage of the Emperor of Austria with the Princess of Saxony is determined on. It is said that the Hereditary Prince of Bavaria will receive the hand of the Archduchess Louisa, the daughter of the Emperor.

It has been notified to all proprietors of estates on the left bank of the Elbe, that they can no longer remain in Prussia, under pain of losing their hereditary rights, according to the regulations of the Napoleon code now in force in those countries—any person therefore retire from the Prussian service, and refuge into their country.

His Majesty has directed letters to Admiral Gouinier and General Lord Caledon, expressive of his highest approbation of their conduct. The former is created a Baron, and the latter is to be advanced to the dignity of a Viscount of the United Kingdom. Sir Arthur Wellesley is likewise to have some additional honor conferred on him. Vice Admiral Stanhope and Sir Horne Popham are to be created Baronets.

Lord Caledon, it is settled by Ministers, is to retain in the government of the Cape of Good Hope.

September 25.

A mail from Lisbon arrived this morning in London, in which it is asserted that the Portuguese government have absolutely refused to accede to Bonaparte's demand of four millions of crusades; and that aware of what would be the consequences of the refusal, they were fitting out their whole navy to convoy their property and the royal family to the Brazils. Ten sail of the line are said to have already equipped. The resolution of withdrawing to the Brazils, rather than submit to French insult, and live with nothing more than the shadow of independence, is worthy the dignity and spirit of the House of Braganza.

The Hamburg papers contain the account previously received, of Rügen and all the Swedish Islands on the German coast of the Baltic, having been ceded to France. The French were to take possession on the 9th. The papers do not communicate to us the terms of the cession.

Lisbon, September 15.—The gazette announces that the vigorous blockade of the rivers Elbe, Weser and Ems, is discontinued for the present; and that contraband will be suffered to trade at the said river, provided such vessels are going from or to a neutral or British port, and shall not be trading nor shall have previously traded, between either of the said rivers, and any port or place in the possession, or so far under the control of the enemy, as that British vessels may not freely trade thereto from one to another of the said rivers.

At the time may not be far distant when Portugal will be compelled to employ her navy against us, unless some precautionary measures be taken to prevent it; the following list of it may not perhaps be unacceptable. Several of them are unfit for service:

12 ships of the line, of 74, and 80 guns, 14 frigates 36 and 44 ditto.

10 brigs 11 and 20 ditto.

2 schooners 12 and 16 ditto.

Some of these vessels are very handsome, and equal to any in the British navy, according to the opinion of Lord St. Vincent, who inspected several of them when at Lisbon. The timber is all got from the Brazils, and is more like iron than wood, but the Portuguese seamen are the best of our navy, and only superior perhaps to their soldiers, who are a burlesque upon the martial profession. In the present weak state of the fortifications on the Tagus, it would be no difficult enterprise to destroy or bring off the whole of their navy by a coup de main.

General Junot is stated to have set out for Bayonne, to take the command of the troops there; and it is again mentioned, that he is going upon an important mission to Lisbon.

The French funds are now so high as 90 3/4. They were under ten when Bonaparte took upon himself the government.

Drawing street, Sept. 16.

Dispatches of which the following are extracts, have been received by Lord Viscount Castlereagh, one of his Majesty's principal secretaries of State, from Admiral Gambier and Lieutenant General the Right Hon. Lord Cathcart, K. B., Commander-in-Chief of his Britannic Majesty's Forces in Zealand, on the one part;

Art. I. When the Capitulation shall have been signed and ratified, the troops of his Britannic Majesty are to be in possession of the Citadel.

Art. II. A guard of his Britannic Majesty's troops shall likewise be placed in the Dock Yards.

Art. III. The ships and vessels, of war of every description, which are the naval stores belonging to his Britannic Majesty, shall be delivered into the charge of his secretaries of State appointed by the Commissioners in chief of his Britannic Majesty's forces; and they are to be put in immediate possession of the dock yards, and all the buildings and arsenals being there.

Art. IV. The store-ships and transports in the service of his Britannic Majesty are to be allowed to come into the harbour for the purpose of embarking fresh stores and troops as they may be required.

Art. V. As soon as the ships shall have been removed from the dockyard, or within six weeks from the date of this Capitulation, or sooner if possible, the troops of his Britannic Majesty shall draw over the Citadel to the troops of his Danish Majesties, in the space in which it shall be found when they occupy it. His Britannic Majesty's troops shall likewise, when he is to be no later than one o'clock, be embarked from the Island of Zealand.

Art. VI. From the date of this Capitulation, no articles shall be sent to the Island of Zealand, except by the increased party of the articles. Our army has accordingly been put in possession of the Citadel and the arsenal, and the most vigorous exertions are commenced for preparing and sending to England the Danish Navy.

I have the honor to be,

J. GAMBIER.

To Lord Viscount Castlereagh, &c. &c.

Circular of Copenhagen, Sept. 3.

My Lord.—It is to be known to you, that the great success of forwarding to your Lordship the news of capitulation of the Danish and of Copenhagen, and the arrival of the Danish fleet, and a letter in this port, which are placed at his Majesty's disposal.

The object of sending this letter is, to inform you, that every other power that has a right to send ships to the Island of Zealand, although the same are not to be allowed to enter into the Island of
