SOLIQUOY.
[A PARODY.]
To be or not to be—in Fortunk's wheel—That is the question—whether 'tis nobler To refrain advent'ring, and hug Care's arrow; Or, with a Ticket arm'd, 'gainst myriad troubles, By a Lottery end them!—To buy a SHARE—No more—and by a PRIZE to say we end The plague of dues, and thousands sheriff-shocks That debt is heir to—'Tis a consummation Devoutly to be wish'd—To dream of Prize—To wake and hear of Blank—Ay, there's the rub! For through that blank what mental plagues may come, When thus our hopes of wealth are shuffled off, Must give us pause.—There is the retrospect That makes ADVENTURERS look calamitous. Yet who would bear the afflictions of the times; Monopolizers' gripe—the purse-proud sneer; The pang of despis'd love—the law's delay—The insolence of office, and the spurns Which distress meets at gate of pamper'd greatness, When Fortunk's wheel might his quietus make And sudden elevate to bliss supreme By a PRIZE OF THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Prize Shooting.
On the proper Exercise for Volunteers.
FINN, ever studious to promote the public good, and his own too, has conceived a plan for maturing the military talents of the newly raised volunteer soldiers of this city. He has appropriated a sum of 1000 feet in length, where every Sunday and Monday, from three o'clock until sunset, he invites the attention of every ambitious soldier to instruct himself in the science of steady shooting at a man-like target, when prizes will be distributed agreeably to the respective merits of the candidates. Every man can practice, load, cock and draw a target, and when he is the best soldier who can spend his ammunition to the best advantage. In order to promote a system of the above nature, part of a soldier's education, the advertiser has made the above arrangement. Prizes will consist of shoes, boots, hats, gaiters and turbans, with many other articles too tedious to mention; and on the first day of January, 1868, a gold medal of the value of twenty dollars will be awarded to the best shooter of the day. Those who may not have their own guns at hand can be accommodated on that point; but it is expected that every gentleman will bring his own gun.
WM. FINN
N. B. Guns, powder and ball will be furnished by the subscriber at the gardens of the City.
