

smoke, with the advantage of a fair wind, the enemy hope to escape us and land their men unperceiv'd; but I can assure they'll meet with a very warm reception, all our coast being with corps de gardes from twenty to a hundred men each, on parole night and day, and are ready to join and form a considerable body, upon the first signal given from the beacons that are erected all over the country. The militia are constantly exercised, and a spirit of martial ardour and revenge prevail among all ranks and degrees of people.
 Dec. 29. We hear that the late General Wentworth, who lately at Turin, hath left the reversion of twenty thousand pounds to the foundling hospital.

ANNAPOLIS.

Tuesday sennight died in Talbot County, much lamented by her Acquaintance, Madam Chamberlaine, Wife of the Honorable Samuel Chamberlaine, Esq; Since our last arrived in Patuxent River from London, but last from Leghorn, the Ship Rumney and Long, belonging to this place, Kensley Johns Commander.

Mr. GREEN, Annapolis, March 28, 1748.
 YOUR Correspondent A. B. in his Letter published in your Paper of the 23d, refers his Question to the Judgment of the Learned only: As I am not of that Class, I don't pretend to give an Answer thereto; but to observe two or three Things which might deserve the Consideration of Mr.
 B. or any others, who may have a Design of attempting to alter, or, by caviling, to explain away the first Intention of our Act of Assembly for emitting Bills of Credit.
 The Possessors of our Paper Money have the good Faith and Honour of the Province of Maryland to depend on; but besides that, the very Fund which is appropriated for the sinking thereof, is (I may say) pawn'd or pledg'd in the Bank of England, for their farther Security; a Security, without Dispute, better than any in America.

These then, who are possess'd of our Bills of Credit, and they only, have a Right to that Fund, whether they live in Maryland, or out of it; and the Province or Inhabitants of Maryland have no more Right to it than the Great Mogul, or any other Prince, in Proportion to the Quantity of Bills of Credit they happen to be possess'd of.

I believe it scarce will be doubted, that our neighbouring Province is possess'd of large Quantities of our Paper Money; and the Merchants in London, tho' not actually possess'd of any of it, yet, I dare say, have considerable Effects in the Hands of a few who are Possessors, and have been promis'd from them large and certain Remittances out of the same Fund, between the 29th Day of September, 1748, and the 29th of March, 1749.

Our Bills of Credit may (without great Impropriety) be look'd upon as Bills of Exchange, payable at two certain Periods of Time: If so, a Demand is to be made when due, and the Bills regularly negotiated, &c. &c. Then, in case the Terms and Conditions of the Law for Payment of the said Bills, should not be duly and honestly complied with, according to the true Intent and obvious Meaning thereof, it may not be very improper to ask the Opinion of the Learned.

Whether it is utterly impracticable for a Proprietor, or Set of Proprietors, of our Bills of Credit, to take such Methods as to procure a Right to seize, attach, or lay Hands on Part of the Effects of the Province of Maryland lodged in the Bank of England; or to find some small Hole to creep in at, to nibble a little at that PRECIOUS TREASURE which we begin to seem very unwilling to part with. I am,

Your humble Servant,
 'A MARYLANDER.'
