Just publish'd,

And to be Sold by the Printer hereof,

A PRESENT for an APPRENTICE: Or, a sure Guide to gain both ESTEEM and ESTATE. With Rules for his Conduct to his MASTER, and in the WORLD. By a late LORD-MAYOR of London. It is thus recommended.

A pamphlet hath been twice published within this twelve-month, call'd, A Present for an Apprentice; which on account of its unpromising title, I don't question but many observe as well as myself, have overlook'd. Seemingly calculated for low and unexperienced life, it excited no curiosity in those above that level. 'Twas therefore, with not a little surprize, that, on dipping into it, I found such a System of morality and oeconomy, as persons of all ranks might improve by, deliver'd in such a stile, as the most accomplished reader, might be delighted with: in short, a work, which if universally known, would be an universal good, as containing all the requisites, to render mankind honest, wise, sociable and virtuous.

One named Dough Cameron, he is blind with one Eye, is about 5 Foot 10 Inches high, strong and well-made, and had on a coarse Broad Cloth Pea-Jacket, Oznabrig Shirt and Trowsers; he is a very impudent Fellow, and pretends to be a Sailor.

The other named Andrew Smith, about 5 Feet 4 or 5 Inches high, something Pock-fretten, and has a red Beard; he had on when he went away, a long waisted brown Cloth Coat, blue Jacket, a pair of black honey comb Breeches, and a check or white Shirt: He took with him both check and white Shirts, and a pair of double-channel Pumps.

ABOUT the Year 1727, or 1728, one Francis Main who was then a well-set Lad, about 14 Years of Age had dark-brown Hair, and a Scar over one of his Eye-brows, came from London into this Province, as a Servant, in the Ship Grove, Capt. Babb, who loaded in Bush River.

Now if the said Francis Main be living, and will apply to Jonas Green, Printer, in Annapolis, he will hear of something greatly to his Advantage: And if he is indebted to any Persons in this Province, he will hear of a Friend who will extricate him from any Difficulties of that Kind, let his Debts be what they will.
