I should have told you, that those who saw the poor little babe after its death, say, that there was not a thumb's breath, between the crown of its head, and soles of its feet, but what was cut, bruised and mangled, in the most shocking manner imaginable. Surely such unheard of wickedness will not escape punishment." Yours, &c.

We hear from Lancaster, that on Tuesday the second instant, Nicholas Weyrick received his trial at the court of Oyer and Terminer held there, being indicted for the murder of his infant daughter as abovementioned. The jury, to the surprize of all who attended the trial, or were any way acquainted with the case, brought in their verdict MANSLAUGHTER; and he was accordingly punished by burning in the hand. ### ANNAPOLIS, August 24.

Extra of a Letter from a Gentleman in Philadelphia.

"A Vessel arrived lately from London, but brings no news. Our merchants are in great anxiety on account of the number of Vessels they expect will turn Pirates. The Loyal Revenge, a fine Privateer belonging to St. Kitts, and was repaired here last fall, have kill'd their Captain and turned Pirates; also another from Montserrat: They suspect many others, and particularly two English Men of War. Last Thursday arrived here Capt. Loyall from Madaira, in a Sloop which had been taken from the French by one of our Men of War, and could not be there condemned. She was Condemned here as a legal Prize, and her Cargo, at a Court of Vice-Admiralty held on Monday last.

Capt. Barnes in the Snow Choptank, is arrived at Oxford, from Liverpool, which place he left the 11th of June last, when Peace was not proclaim'd there. Capt. Barnes waited a full Month, after he was ready to sail, with expectation of Peace being proclaim'd, and at last, tired with waiting, came away without it. He informs us, that after the commencement of the Cessation of Arms, one of our Men of War, which had been out and knew nothing of the Cessation, met with and took in the Channel, a French Privateer, on board of which they found a commission to make Reprisals on all the English Vessels they could meet with; and that the French Officers and Men were in prison in order for a strict examination into the Affair.
