

emperor's journey into Bohemia is the execution of an arrangement; by which the dignity of king will be transferred to his Imperial majesty during life, without the least prejudice to the dispositions established by the Pragmatic sanction.

Letters from Palermo mention a frightful sea-monster, which had been discovered floating near the coast, so large that sixteen pair of oars had been employed to draw it upon land.

The last, N. Y. O. R. & J. January 2.
Extract of a letter from Madras, dated November 30. N. S.

"Just now arrived here a billander from Plymouth, who brings us news, that on the 25th of October, O. S. a peace was proclaimed at London, with France and Spain. Our vessels are daily going in and coming out of their ports; a free trade being granted. Also that Pondicherry and Madras are taken from the French. His Majesty was not yet come from Holland; but the festival of the peace was put off till his arrival; which was every moment expected; I can't learn any other particulars."
