Ford's Grand Opera House.-The famous Hanlons will appear at Ford's Grand Opera House during the week. They will present their spectacular pantomime. "The New Fantasma," which has been entirely changed since it was last seen in Baltre. Laura Burt makes a lovely Fantasma, and her dainty little attendant—the pretty "Serena"—is irresistable. Fantasma is full of marvellous tricks, transformations and interesting acts. The schemes, intrigues, and diabolic plots of the King of Hades are counteracted by the good fairy. The fair Lena and her devoted lover are followed through mystery, trials and pleasures with the greatest interest. The antics of the funny Pico, the tricksof the mysterious room, whose wonderful mechanical effects are simply marvellous; a sub-marine battle, a cysterious room, whose wonderful mechanical effects are simply marvellous: a sub-marine battle, a cy-clone, an earthquake, &c., are incidental to the performance. The pantomimic specialties are new, the company good and the scenery unsurpassed in its novel splendor. Matinees on Wednesday and Next week-Herrmann, the Great Magician.

Towson's Sad Want of Water .- A correspon dent sends the following relative to our Artesian Well and a full supply of pure water for our town: Mr. Editor-Dear Sir:-What has become of the artesian well? I have been watching the columns of your paper for a long while expecting to see something about it. Your citizens have not surely bandoned it after having sunk it to the depth of 600 feet at so heavy a cost. If so, you cannot be as badly off in the matter of pure water as your specialists have represented you to be. But if you have truly given up as impracticable or otherwise the artesian well and still desire a water supply for your town, why do you not use the water from the springs you have in the town or advanced from the springs you have a supplier from the sprin jacent to it. Let me call your attention to two sources from either of which you can get a supply if deemed necessary, or both can very readily be thrown into one reservoir. The first takes its rise from the old Bowen property, east of the York Road, where Mr. Adam Talbott lives. Upon it are two or more unusually strong springs; just west of the pike is one on the lot of Mr. Thos. J. Hunter; and J. another on Mr. Jacob Wisner's property, and, I think, another before it reaches Dr. Bosley's meadow, below the Jail. Soon after these waters reach it the flow from all the springs on the Taylor or Albert property empty into it, as does all the waters that take their rise in the field back of the Court House and by a number of springs along its course, making of itself quite a strong stream. These waters can all be readily piped to this point, and I should think without much outlay, and you would then have nothing but pure spring water-as pure as any community can furnish.

The other heads at Dr. Bosley's dairy, now called "Dairy Grove," thence along the ravines through the lands formerly owned by Mr. Amos Matthews son, a kind brother, a true, firm and generous the son, a kind brother, a true, firm and generous true. now Keerl's) to a point just below the farm dairy. In this short distance the stream is increased by the intersection of three or more other springs.

The first source is the strongest. I should not think it would take an engine of very great horse power to throw it up to some of the high points

"Born but to die, and reasoning but to err." It is surrounding it, where you may place your reservoir, and, with a stand-pipe, you can supply your pretty town. The supply from these springs can readily be tested at their points of intersection.—

And I feel sure they will furnish sufficient water ter quality him to do justice to his memory. But for many years, and form a reliable flow. And, if ound necessary, the water from both sources can e thrown into the same reservoir, the high ground ying between the two.
I throw out these crude ideas of mine as a suggestion to your enterprising citizens in case they have or should abandon the well and still want a supply of water. Yours truly,

The Ruxton Avenue Case.—The examination into the report made by the Special Examiners for the opening of Ruxton Avenue from Ruxton Station, on the Northern Central Railroad, to the Falls Road, was resumed Tuesday by the County Commissioners, the case having gone over from Friday, 11th. The following gentlemen testified on the part of the petitioners and in favor of the opening of the avenue: Mrs. H. W. Blackford, Dr. J. Piper, J. Piper, W. Langey, Lewis J. Roberts, Thos. Ellicott, Thos. W. Janney, ex-Judge Wm. A. Fisher, Chas. B. Rogers, R. H. Woolen, Chas. D. Fisher, W. H. Shipley, Jos. Jackins, Thos. Wright, Drs. H. L. Naylor, J. S. Bowen Judge Fisher gave a lengthy statement as to the improvements made in the past two years by his brother and himself, and the progress that has been made in building up the place. Among the prominent persons now owning property there are Mr. Chas H. Bowns, Mr. Murroney Associate Editor of the Radroad News; Mrs. Bond ex-Gov. Wm. The French Method of Making Coffee.—The French have the reputation of making the best coffee. Their method is very different from the American method. They take a great deal of care in making this favorite beverage, and the result is that when French coffee is taken one drinks the pure flavor of the berry. They always grind the berries just before they are to be used, and do not let a quantity of ground coffee stand and get stale. The French cook then pours boiling water on the ground coffee, then she filters this, and, after boiling the water again, pours it on the coffee once more. This is repeated a third time. She never poils the coffee and water together, nor puts the coffee in cold water and then let it boil.

Bonita Avenue.—The case of the Examiners' report made for the opening of Bonita Avenue, was brought up before the County Commissioners on Wednesday, 16th inst. on exceptions filed by parties in interest. Col. D. G. McIntosh appeared as coun-sel for the exceptants and Hon. J. Fred. C. Talbott for the petitioners. The witnesses on the part of the exceptants who testified were Messrs. Geo. H John Bowen, Chas. W. Semmes, Major Wilon C. Nicholas, Wm. Chenoweth and Charles T Cockey, who all testified that the road was imprac ticable and of no public benefit. The hearing in the case will be resumed before the County Commissioners on next Wednesday, 28d

· OBITUARY. Charles Beasten, Jr., aged 41 years, a member of the bar of Maryland, died at his residence, Mount Vernon Square, on the 11th inst., from Bright's di-sease of the kidney. He was a gentleman of fine legal talent and a native of Delaware. He married a daughter of Mr. Wm. F. Burns, President of the Eutaw Savings Bank. Mr. Beasten's remains were taken to Middletown, Delaware, and interred. Mrs. Estelle Kellogg, wife of Mr. Henry Kellogg, died at the family residence, Lutherville, at 4 A. M. Friday 18th from the effects of an attack of typhoid fever. She was a Miss Poole, from Montgomery county, Maryland, and a lady highly esteemed for her many graces of womanhood. Mr. Kellogg, his wife and three daughters were ill for several weeks from attacks of typhoid fever, and for a time were all dangerously iii. Mrs. Kellogg leaves a dis-tressed husband and four daughters, one, Mrs. Hardcastle, residing at Denver, Colorado. T. Alex. Seth, a member of the law firm of Mann & Seth, died at his residence, "Windsor Heights," near Catonsville, Baltimore county, on Sunday morning, 13th inst., aged 40 years. He was admitted to the bar in 1870, and in 1872 he and Harry E. Mann entered into partnership. He took an interest in political affairs but never held political office. Mr. Seth was a son in-law of the late Gon. Jesse Lazear, for many years a citizen of Baltimore county. Mr. Seth also took an interest in cattle and their diseases, and at the time of his death was Sec retary of the Maryland Live Stock Sanitary Board Mr. Seth was a brother of Gen. Jos. B. Seth. of Easton, formerly Speaker of the House of Delegates. "Mrs. Josephine E. Poe, widow of Judge Neilson Poe, died at 6.30 o'clock yesterday mornining at her residence, 1127 Park Avenue. Mrs. Poe was in the Sist year of her age, and her illness had been of several years' duration. Her maiden name was Jo-sephine Clemm, and she was a daughter of William Clemm, of Virginia. Her sister was the lovely Virginia Clemm, the wife of the poet, Edgar Allen Poe, and the Lenore of 'The Raven,' whose life and death at the little cottage at Fordham, N. Y., was one of the most romantic and touching incidents of the poet's life. Mrs. Josephine Poe and her sister Virginia married cousins. Their father was Wm. Clemm, who was a brother of Jas. S. Clemm, the father of Rev. W. T. D. Clemm, the well-known Methodist minister. Mrs. Josephine Poe was a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Six children survive her, of whom Messrs. John Prentiss and Charles Poe are among the widest known attorneys of the Baltimore bar."—Baltimore Sun, 14th.

Michael J. O'Hara, fourth son of the late Martin O'Hara, died at his residence. Texas, Baltimore county, on the 12th inst., aged 34 years. For a num-ber of years he was a teacher in the Public Schools of Baltimore county. In 1886 he was a member of the House of Delegaies and served with honor to his constituents. He was a bachelor. His funeral took place on Tucsday, 15th, the body being conveyed to St. Joseph's Church, Texas, where Rev. P. H. Lenaghan said High Mass. The body was then interred in the Cemetery attached to the church. Mr. O'Hara's funeral took place on Tuesday 15th from his late residence. The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, P. Murray, Marshal, were present to the number of 63. They marched to the residence and filed in and took a last look at the face of their de-ceased fellow-member. bix of the members acted as pall-bearers, viz: Michael F. Connor, John Keating. John Canavan, Thomas Dalton, James Burns and Michael Padian. The casket was placed in the hearse, the Friendly Sons preceding, and the family and a large concourse walked from the residence to St. Joseph's Church. Here fully 600 people has seembled, every seat in the church, including the relief when the residence to St. Joseph's Church. cluding the gallery, being filled, with about 100 standing. Rev. P. H. Pius Church, Baltimore; Rev. John D. Boland, o St. Thomas' Church, Hampden. Rev. Father P. Lenaghan, Pastor of St. Joseph's, was also present. After the Mass Father Lenaghan paid a touching tribute to the memory of the dead. He referred to his amiable disposition; his piety and his carnest duty to his church; his dignity of character. He was a good citizen and a favorite of all; a kind and loving son, brother and friend; carnest and true in the councils of the State works, which alone are acceptable to God and in the sight of Heaven. Therefore his works must come from the heart. God will not turn his face from him. A lesson is to be learned from this son of faith; his good works are a lesson, and he hoped his hearers would try to imitate his exemplary

> The body was then conveyed to the grave in the cemetery, where, after final religious ceremony, i was deposited in the family lot. Among the large concourse present were—John Hubner (member of the House of Delegates serving with Mr. O'Hara), Lewis M. Bacon, Thomas Ward Samuel Roach, Thos, Nevin, Jonn J. Kelley, Balt nore; Wm. Parks, John P. Clark, John T. Rile; M. O. Correa, Joshua F. Cockey, Jr., Wm. H. Wight, Zephaniah Poteet, Geo. W. League, John C. Bosley, John W. Zink, Eugene Clark, Geo. F. Wheeler, Sr., Geo. F. Wheeler, Jr., Henry Slaymaker, (of Ideal Lime and Stone Company,) Charles Bosley, Kinsey Merryman, Will Merryman, Martin Kennedy, Fred Price, Randolph M. Isaac, Wm. P. Cole, Wm. Col-lings, Adam D. Taibott, Louis W. Held, Thomas Galloway. There was a wealth of beautiful flowers—two "Gates Ajar," (one from the Clerks in the Clerk's Office, Towson, the other from the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick,) two Pillars, a Pillow, Wreath, a omposed of Marechal Neil and white roses, and illies. They completely covered the grave. Henry W. Mears, Baltimore, had charge of the uneral arrangements. In addition to the above a kind friend contributes

Died, on the 12th inst., in the 85th year of his age, MICHAEL J. O'HARA, fourth son of Catherine and the late MARTIN O'HARA. Mr. O'Hara suffered ong and severely from that fatal and incurable dis ase consumption. He was unmarried. In the life and character of MICHAEL J. O'HARA there was something uncommon and worthy commendation. Physically unable to pursue his collegiate studies, but stimulated by an ardent love of reading and knowledge, he had made himself by solitary study at intervals one of the best informed men in the State. He loved knowledge for its own sake. Study was to him like virtue, its own reward. His stern integrity and exemplary habits added force to his mental endowments. He had a deep hold worn the estern and regard of our people, and his unanimous nomination for the House of Delegates in 1886 was but an evidence of the high esteem in which he was held. The an-nouncement of his death, although not entirely unexpected, was received throughout the county with unaffected sorrow. As a member of the Legisla-ture he was bold and fearless in defense of whatever he believed right and just, and was held i high esteem by his colleagues. He was a consis-tent member of the Catholic Church. He had long walked with Him who brought life and immortality to light, and Death had no power to cloud the brightness of His presence. Well informed and cheerful, he was an entertaining companion; noise less and unobtrusive, the moral precepts of the gos pel lound a beautiful illustration in his life. He enjoyed the perpetual feast of an approving con-science. His vestal purity was unstained by a single vice, and his happiness sprang from himself—from internal sources, which the world could not and did not take away. He had, too, a perennial fountain of pleasure in the keen sense of the humorous son, a kind brother, a true, firm and generou friend, the grave has closed over him forever! N stately monument will mark his last resting place ter quality him to do justice to his memory. Bu may each of our lives be as innocent and as happ as was his whose modest virtues and unaffected character are here feebly portrayed; and whose pure and goutle image will be forever enshrined in the hearts of his friends; a scholar without pedantry, a friend without pretense, a man withou

[Written for the Maryland Journal.] A TRIBUTE, TO PROF. JOHN H. HEWITT, lieu of any kindly Offering which might have been made to him by his friend, T. J. W. A chaplet fair, of verdant bays, Is due the Poet, who hath sung Melodious songs, through length of days, And, though life's evening-shadows close Around him, wooing to repose, Keeps his resounding harp still strung.

The snowy locks of hoary age

His honored temples long have graced: His brow, for thought and counsel sage. The fitting dome, which these adorn, this silver crown has proudly worn, By Nature's hand upon it placed. Thus doubly crowned, he prostrate lies, By weight of weary years oppressed, Nor mourns the blessings Fate denies. But when relentless Time demands His treasures, with his feeble hands He clasps his lyre; and yields the rest. Then, as a lark ensuared by guile. And held by bars, imprisoned fast, Though captive, still sings on the while; So he, his melodies can pour, And on the wings of music soar: Still tuneful, like the swan, at last. Master once more of music's might. Before him generations rise; The young and happy, gay and bright, Who through his skill achieved the art Which brings pure solace to the heart, When skies grow dark, and pleasure flies.

So, throned upon his couch in state. Around him come, by Memory called, Glad throngs of loving souls, who wait To join the chorus of their lays In one aweet symphony of praise,
To him whose notes their hearts enthralicd. With these dear friends of days gone by, Who gladdened all his life of yore; Who now invisibly draw nigh, The master's drooping heart to cheer, And calm his trembling spirit's fear, With hopes of peace forevermore:-With these, let friends who still remain,

In unison their voices blend, And supplicate in earnest strain, That in the courts of heaven above, edcemed by everlasting love, His blissful songs may never end. [Written for the MARYLAND JOURNAL." FANNIB'S FEELINGS. When I read your verses, Clarence, On the Journal's foremost page, For three quarters of a minute I was in a fearful rage. For it surely was atrocious Thus to blazon through the Press, All our doings of last summer. And your consequent distress. I'd a mind not to forgive you; I suppose, though, that I must, Since, of course, you mean it kindly, And I would not be unjust.

I am sorry all the country Takes my absence so to heart.
Tell the woods, and streams, and so forth,
That the best of friends must part. If those birds are so unhappy
Why not shoot the lovely things? Take your gun and try, some morning :I could utilize their wings. I don't like to make things wretched; But I had to leave, you know: For as summer with one swallow, Yould be winter with one beau. And I've had a charming season; Gay and festive times, so far: Parties, germans, two proposals: How delightful such things are And there's more such fun awaiting Us gay girls, on pleasure bent;
 For we mean to make things lively
 Till the coming in of Lent. Now about your invitation For next summer. I will try To return to fields of clover.

When the wintry months roll by. For I see, O Clarence, Clarence, By the way you play the bard. You unfortunate young fellow, That you must be hit quite hard. And the absolute devotion Of a "case" so "gone" as this, Though absurd, is quite delicious, And too rich a treat to miss. In the meantime, fix your buggy: And especially make sure of the harness; for I'm timid If those "straps" are not secure

Don't forget about the chickens; Have them set in time; for I To salt mackerel and bacon Much prefer nice chicken-pio. And a broil is nice for breakfast, Ere those "dewy meads" we try; While a long tramp by the streamlet Makes good supper of a fry. With these things to keep you busy, The short days will pass, till we, After scouring half the County, Rest beneath that willow tree. So, when birds again are singing.— Those you miss will sing on still.—

three of the stanza] Some see the highest good of life In fortune, rank or talents; But this we hold the richer gift: A calm and even balance Some minds grow to one extreme 'Till growth becomes distortion; The highest charm of classic Art is beauty of proportion. Throughout the endless course of worlds, From first to lowest station. This law of balance, framed by Heaven, Shines out through all creation It chains the storm, and keeps in check The tidal march of ocean; Within its sphere the planets roll In grand, perpetual motion. See! when balance slips its hold Upon the world of matter, The winds rush madly round the globe, And seeds of ruin scatter.

The earthquake, in a reeling orb, Makes black and frightful chasms; In thunder, lightning, we behold Poor Nature in her spasms. In governmental systems, too, Of noblest institution, The loss of balance surely brings The threes of revolution 'Tis balance that 'twixt all extremes Holds equal, just relation:

The temp'rance preached by Paul of old 'Tis balance crowns the human soul In high or low condition; And claims in gold-like Washington Its highest recognition. His name shines out a central sun 'Mid stars of classic story, Because in him all parts were blent In one harmonious glory!

Beyond the fame of tented field. Or hall of Legislature, We recognize in Washington A nobly balanced nature. Yet spite of balance, Earth must have Her poets and her Saviors; Men whose lives are in extreme-Her Wesley's, Poe's and Xavier's And yet these martyr-minds do form But fearful, bright exceptions; 'Tis in the soul's Gethsemane We catch its grand conceptions.

And the' the mass of men aspire

To fortune, rank or talents. Yet this we hold the richer gift:

A calm and even balance.

The want of a thing makes the value of it.

The devil "sympathizes" with all temperance that has no guns. It's a wise man that knows his own want. You cannot reason with an angry man. Passion silences the voice of his judgment. In the long run moral forces are the practical forces of politics.

There is something about a stale egg that hurts more than a stone. Towson M. E. Church Basar.—The ladies of the congregation of the Towson M. E. Church are making extensive preparations for the holding of a basar on the 11th, 12th, 18th, 14th and 15th of Feb-ruary, and it is hoped they will meet with good success and realize a large sum. The proceeds will go towards paying for the church. They respect-fully ask donations from the people and a liberal patronage from all. patronage from all.

A Lodge at Church .- On Sunday last, 18th inst. Arlington Lodge of the Golden Chain, of Waverly, with Mr. John C. Foster as Chief Marshal, in full regalia, marched from their hall to the Presbyterian Church on Windermere avenue, where they attended Divine service and listened to a most element service. All the pastor Rev. William quent sermon delivered by the pastor, Rev. William To Form a Cavalry Company.—The young men of Baltimore county favorable to the formation of a Cavalry Company are requested to meet at the Court House, Towson, on Wednesday next, January 28d at 12 M. for consultation upon the subject.

Monkton Flems.—A few days ago a tramp came into the kitchen of Mrs. Samuel Miller, of this place, and asked for the usual grub, do., which he received. He then asked for a box of matches and offered pay for it. Mrs. M. went up stairs to get them, and on her return she found the tramp had gone, and with him went a pair of gold spectacles which she left laying on the table. There was no one about the house at the time, and before Mrs. Miller could make her loss known the thief had make good his escape. Mrs. M. deplores the loss of her glasses not because of their intrinsic value, but because they were a present from her children.—Prowling tramps will not fare sumptuously at that house in the future.

Another prowling tramp who is very annoying in house in the future.

Another prowling tramp who is very annoying in this neighborhood just at this time is the mink or weazel. Mr. L. Ilgenfritz, of Corbett Station, who has been a great sufferer by these pests in the loss of poultry, told us in almost heart-broken tones, that—he—had—just—two—roosters—left.

Protracted meetings which commenced in the M.

C. Bacon. The Rev. Nelson Miles, a local preacher of the church, preached last Sunday night to a very large congregation. Mrs. John Young, one of the lady members, was taken quite ill during the services, owing, no doubt, to the crowded condition of the place and the sultry atmosphere arising. She the place and the suitry atmosphere arising. She soon recovered, however, and was able to walk to her home. The minister in charge of these meetings is not at all pleased with the indifferent success resulting from his efforts to convert the "unbeliever," and deprecates loudly the careless attitude and utter disparent for religion assumed by the more and utter disregard for religion assumed by the more The last few days have been "Monkton days" at the Court House at Towson. An unusually large number of witnesses both white and colored from here have been summoned to Court to testify in different cases. This is perhaps the first time in the history of the place that so many of Monkton's representatives have appeared at the seat of Justice at one time, and the result of their labors are looked There has been quite a hegira among the fair dames of this neighborhood the past few weeks.—
Some have gone to Baltimore for the winter, others paid their friends a visit and others again were attracted by the opportunity of witnessing the histri-onic splendors of that rare and talented combinaion of Booth and Barrett in their tragic role .-Among the ladies away from here are Mrs. Griselda Emory, Misses May Emory, 1. Price and Miss Lossie A. Pearce. Orangeville Items.—Mr. James E. Mann, of Orangeville, whilst ducking on Mr. Voltz's ducking shore at the mouth of Back River last Friday, killed two very fine swans, the largest of which measured 714 feet from tip to tip of wings, and from bill to tip of tail four feet ten inches, and weighed 35 lbs. Mr. Mann killed these immense swans with young man from among the number, who takes a chapter from the Bible, reads it, and if he feels able he can talk upon it. Some of the young men do very well, and it is a great help to the more backvery well, and it is a great help to the more backward young men amoung us, as by getting up before their friends and speaking it causes them to loose that backwardness that they now have and enables them to get up before the public and speak without the least healtency.

Mr. John Roberts, a B. & O. brakeman, was killed at 10 o'clock Tuesday night at the railroad yard at Bay View Junction. The accident occurred while he was in the act of uncoupling cars. His foot caught in a safety rail, and as the train backed it knocked him down and cut off his right leg and mashed his head. He lived but twenty minutes after the accident. Dr. D. W. Jones was sent from Canton to Bay View on a special engine, but Mr. Roberts was dead before he arrived. He was unmarried and lived at 508 South Spring street. Mr. Frank Pedricks was the engineer and Mr. Jack Sypes the conductor of the train that killed Mr. CORRESPONDENT.

Black Horse Items .- On Wednesday evening. 9th inst., a cyclone passed over this section of country. Fences were blown down in many places and several buildings were moved from their foundation. We never saw so much damage done and no person injured, as far as we can learn.
On Saturday night, 12th inst., as Mr. Charles T.
Henderson was returning home in a buggy, when near the residence of Dr. J. T. Payne his horse became frightened at a dog jumping over the fence. The animal broke loose from the buggy, breaking the harness and one shaft. Mr. H. was thrown from the harness and one shat. Mr. It was thrown that the buggy, but, strange to say, he did not get hurt. Death has again visited our neighborhood and taken from among us two estimable ladies. The first was Mrs. Mary Cleaver, the beloved wife of the late Rev. Chas. Cleaver. Mrs. Cleaver lived since the death of her husband with Mr. Gibson Norris. She was buried on the 11th inst. at Foster's Cemetery, near Hereford.

Mrs. Hannah Walker, aged 92 years, died on Saturday night, 12th inst., at her daughter's, near Riley's Cross Roads, Harford county. "Grandmother" Walker was beloved by many. She was one of the Walker warene that we aver knew. Young and old kindest persons that we ever knew. Young and old loved her. She leaves one son, Mr. Thomas Walker, who lives at Pleasantville, Harford county, and five daughters. She was buried at Ebenezer on Mrs. Jennie Henderson, wife of Mr. Luther G. Henderson, is lying critically ill at Pleasantville Harford county. Her case is serious. She is at-tended by Dr. Davis. Doings at Warren .- The Warren Sabbath chool held their usual annual entertainment and Christmas festivities. All were more or less pleased as usual upon such occasions. Prof. Wm. H. Singleton was re-elected Superintendent for the ensuing year. The Poplar School is in new hands, Casper Hoffman being elected Superintendent, and J. W. Green Assistant Superintendent. The Prohibition Club holds its bi-monthly meetings. It has been supplied with Baltimore speakers. Wm. Silverwood is the speaker for next Saturday night. Mr. Mosher, Secretary of the State Temperance Alliance, gave a lecture upon the effects of alcohol on the human system, together with a sciopticon view. The church was crowded, it being the largest gathering of the kind ever held in Warren. His daughter, Miss Ada, who occasionally gave readings with him, is now teaching in a Methodist institution in Cincinnati, Ohio.

There is also a literary and debating society about being organized. Walter N. Brown, Superintendent Warren Mills, S. J. Rawlings, John W. Bull, George Hays and Joshua Cain were appointed to draft a constitution and by laws, which will be acted upon next Tuesday night. The question for debate is— "Which is the greater incentive to do good, hope of reward or fear of punishment?" The speakers to lead on the question are Mr. Caleb Cross in the affir-mative, and Mr. W. M. Brown in the negative.

The Warren Permanent Building and Saving Association made a good showing for last year. Now is the time for taking new shares. WARREN. Mt. Winans Items.—Geo. Sample Pembroke, col., who is charged with the murder of young Edward Lepson, on Saturday night, on Columbia avenue, is a resident of this place, having lived here about 18 years. He is of a very light color, and it is almost impossible to notice any negro blood in him. His hair is straight and of a chesnut-brown color. He seems to have borne a good raputation, except He seems to have borne a good reputation, except that he would occasionally get on sprees, at which time he was quite hilarious.

The occasion was both a financial and a Death came in our midst again. This time it took the infant son of Frank H. Ruhl. We all are in sympathy with the family. God knows best of all.

Harrisonville Items .-- For some time past I have noticed that our village had ceased to figure in the columns of the JOURNAL. I therefore con-clude that "H." is "not dead but speechless," and sincerely hope none of our citizens will become offended should I again bring it under the notice of Miss Jennie Stansfield, who has been out of the village for several months, has returned. We feel assured that her Sabbath School class, as well as her friends, will give her a cordial_welcome. Among her many blessings Harrisonville enjoys that of an early morning mail, the present carrier of which serves a double office, for, not only does he carry "Uncle Sam's" mail matter, but he is so very musically inclined, and so loudly prohis talent as he goes on his early mission, that alarm clocks are no longer a necessity to the early risers on the pike. We are looking for a strike among the clock makers. However, we rejoice in anything that will serve to wake up our citizens, as they seem to be greatly under the influence of "Somnus."

A Horse Case.—The case of Mr. T. C. Linzey, livery stable-keeper, against Robert Feast, Nannie Feast, Sallie Feast and Mrs. Sarah Feast for damnges estimated at $150 for the loss by death of a horse hired by Robert Feast from Mr. Linzey came up on trial in the Circuit Court for Baltimore County on the 17th inst. The counsel for the plaintiff, Mr. N. Charles Burke, contended that due care and attention had not been given the horse, and that he died from such negligence. The counsel for the defendants, Messrs. William Grason and W. Gill Smith, contended that the horse was diseased when the defendant hired him and was not fit to hire out, and that when the horse became sick the defe dant (Robert Feast) took such care of him as the law required of him. The case was ably argued by both sides, and a large number of witnesses were examined for the plaintiff and defendants.

Improvements in Towson.—Mr. Wm. P. Cole building a large addition to his livery stable, 80 feet square, desiring more room for his increasing Mr. John Burns has built a two-story carpenter and cabinet maker's shop on the York Turnpike, adjoining Richard Parker's shoe store. Mr. J. Alex. Parlett has built a two-story shop on his property on the York Road, adjoining his other property at the corner of the York Turnpike and he Joppa Road. Father O'Kesie, the vigorous paster of St. Francis Church, has fenced in the lot on the east end of his property, on which is the old Chew store building, repaired and painted the building and moved the Parish School into it. The entire property is to be

Last Hunters.—Some several times a spot near a crooked white-oak tree on the place of Mrs. Eudocia Stansbury, on the Hillen Road, has been dug up by parties at night. What the object the hunters are in search of is not known, but whatever the outcome of the prospecting party has heretofore been in the premises, another search was made sometime between Wednesday night and Thursday morning last, 10th inst., as a large hole was dug up near the tree in question. Perhaps Captain Kidd or some of the old buccaneers may have buried some of their valuable treasures there and have left a chart of the spot to some of their descendants Wonderful Weather.—The weather the past week has been wonderful for its mildness for this season of the year, midwinter. On Wednesday there were warm showers of rain. On Thursday, it cleared away and the sun came out bright, the thermometer marking 75 degrees. The clouds were light and fleecy like unto summer time. The old-est inhabitant gives it up, and don't recollect such weather since 1840, just preceding the hard Stricken With Paralysis .- Mr. John M.
